posed from some famous painting. There will be Lady Hamilton, Queen Louise, the Gainsborough portraits and perhaps Mona Lisa, if they can catch the clusive smile. Whether it be pageant, bazar or tango, given as often for charity as not, society joyously accepts these opportunities to don the fancy dress costume. Omaha is one of the few cities this season which has not had a costume ball, artists' fete or some affair

One of the largest affairs of this kind in the west was the Artists' Fete in Chicago recently. Not only were the famous paintings represented, but men and women prominent in society also represented the

"I went to a tea dansant and afterward to a dinner party." she said, "and they talked all afternoon and evening about the costumes they were planning for the different affairs. Anyway, it makes them study art and history," she mused.

Many of the fancy dress affairs have been given for charity or benefit performances. The Russian costume ball, which was given at the Lenox Hill Settlement. Then, there was the Historical Pageant ball at
