Following the instructions of Judge Pemberton of the district court, the jury hearing the case of Chris Wilkin, et al., against the Capitol Insurance company. Tueaday evening brought in a verdict in favor of the defendant. The plaintiffs were a number of farmers residing in the vicinity of Adams, who owned a threshing outfit. They alleged that they had taken out a fire insurance policy for about $700, and that the company refused to pay this amount when the outfit was destroyed by fire. The company con-tended that iche policy did not reach its office until after the outfit had been de-stroyed by fire and had not been verified by it.

Early Oats Most Profitable.

Barly Oats Most Profitable. Before buying his seed oats this spring the fact that the Nebraska College of Agriculture has found, after conducting many experiments, that the early va-rieties yield an average of fourteen bush-els an acre more than the late varieties rather small grained and dark in color. Eight pecks of seed to the acre has given the best results with drilled oats and ten pecks to the acre when the oats are sown broadcast. Harrowing of drilled oats has given an increased yield of 4.8 bushels an acre, while harrowing of proadcast oats has given a decreased yield. Additional data may be obtained regarding the variety test of oats by pending for bulletin No. Ils of the bui-letin department, University Farm, Lin-coln.

Roll Your Wheat,

Roll Your Wheat. According to results obtained by the Nebraska College of Agriculture the yields of winter wheat are usually in-creased five bushels an acte by rolling the fields, where necessary, in early spring. The heaving of the soll, due to frost, and the presence of large cracks, expose the roots and dry out the soll. Harrowing has sometimes produce the same results as rolling, but this process is likely to injure the plants. If the seed bed is too compact, many farmers over the state have experienced good results by disking, if the disks are set straight. It was also decided that The wet and dry question has come up for settlement at the regular election
