By MELLIFICIA. Thursday, March 5, 1914.

SO FAR the Cief club might well be called the Harmony club, for everything seems to be in perfect chord and progressing on a large scale.

The banquet at the Hotel Loyal last evening proved to be an enjoyable event, and the musicians had a jolly social evening; so much so that it was decided to meet within the next fortnight, when Miss Bella Robinson will be the hostess.

The table was most attractive with spring flowers and plumosis ferns and an unexpected and decidedly humorous entertainment was planned by Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Borglum.

Scarcely had the banquet started when a telegram was brought to Mr. T. J. Kelly. It was dated London, England, and ran as follows: "King George has heard of the Cief club banquet this evening, at which time he wishes you to confer the Order of the Garter upon his former subject, J. H. Simms, the toastmaster."

Miss Evelyn Hopper received a wire from Florence, Neb.: "Can you find addresses and engage at any price, Miss Mary Munchhoff and Mrs. Mabelle Crawford Welpton to sing the duet from the 'Merry Wives of Windsor' at the town hall?"—from the Mayor.

The Ladies' Journal wired Mr. Jean P. Duffield to take the place of Josef Hoffman.

From Wahoo came the following: "To Mr. Max Landow: 'We have heard of your Boston success and offer you the directorship of our Conservatory.'"

Miss Mary Munchhoff received the following: "Hammerstein has discovered me; will you teach me to sing 'Lucia' in three weeks? signed Vera Prima Vera."

To Miss Henrietta Rees: "Please attend all pupils' recitals and pay special attention to gowns, signed City Editor."

Mrs. Welpton was the recipient of the following message: "Richard (Mrs. Welpton's young son) has fallen out of bed; where is the Carrie Jacob's Bond Extract? Katie."

To Mr. T. J. Kelly: "Will the Mendelssohn choir consider an engagement on five minutes' notice, to take place of Can Opera company? Lucius."

They tell me there were a number of others equally clever.

PRESIDENT'S BROTHER HERE

Takes His Time at Breakfast While in the City.

IS IN THE INSURANCE BUSINESS

Has Pleasant Address and Something of the President's Manner and Much of the Same Facial Characteristics.

While President Woodrow Wilson was up, dressed, combed and looking over official papers for several hours yesterday, his brother, Joseph R. Wilson, in the Henshaw hotel in Omaha, was only taking his breakfast. A real aristocrat is the president's brother, for he finished his breakfast at twenty minutes before 11 yesterday morning. That gave him time enough to catch the Missouri Pacific train at 11:30 for St. Louis. Why should he not take his time? Is he not the brother of a president?

And a right fine fellow to meet, too, is Joseph R. Wilson of Baltimore. He has a pleasant address and something of the president's manner. He is not so tall as his brother, Woodrow, but has much of the facial characteristics. The cheek bones and the heavy jaw cannot be mistaken. They belong to the Wilson family and to no other.

Mr. Wilson was in Omaha in conference with B. L. Baldwin and those associated with him in the insurance business. Mr. Wilson is an official of the United States Fidelity and Casualty company, which is represented in Omaha by B. L. Baldwin & Co. While in Omaha Mr. Wilson called upon a few lawyers in the city with whom he is acquainted, and after his conference with the casualty people, left yesterday for St. Louis.

Middleton May Go to Hastings Club

It is quite likely that W. H. Middleton, private secretary to Commissioner Robert H. Manley of the Omaha Commercial club, will go to Hastings to take the position as secretary of the Hastings Commercial club. Mr. Middleton was at Hastings Wednesday night in conference with the club there in regard to the position. If he goes it will likely be to take up his work there by March 15.

"Mr. Middleton will make an excellent man for Hastings," said "Commissioner Manley," "for he knows every turn of this business. He is a cracker-jack man. If he goes, Hastings is to be congratulated."

The Omaha Commercial club has not yet been officially notified of the offer that has been made to Middleton from Hastings. The matter will likely be taken up with the executive committee here. Mr. Middleton has been with the Commercial club proper here only a little less than a year. Prior to that he was with the traffic bureau of the club for three years, where he gained a wide knowledge of traffic matters relating particularly to Nebraska and the immediately adjoining states. Before coming to the traffic bureau he was traffic manager of the Grand Junction Fruit Growers association at Grand Junction, Colo.
