IS ROBBED OF HIS SAVINGS

Fred Philbrick Had Accumulated $15 to Have Eyes Treated.

SKULL MAY BE FRACTURED

Collection to Be Taken to Give the Injured Man a Chance to Recover His Eyesight if That is Not Found.

Slugged and robbed of $15, which comprised several months' savings toward securing treatment for his eyes, Fred Philbrick, aged 47 years, employed as laborer for the Burlington railroad, was picked up by Officer Aughe at Eleventh and Capitol avenue in a condition which in another hour might have resulted in his death.

When revived at the police station by the aid of stimulants, Philbrick told his story. "I left my bunk car by the tracks about 11 o'clock Thursday night to come up town and secure some drops for my eyes, which were paining me badly, when upon passing Eleventh street, two men sprang from the shadow of a building, striking me over the head. I did not remember anything from then on until I got here."

Philbrick had saved the $15 bit by bit to secure treatment from a local specialist in the hope of relieving the malady which will eventually cause him to lose his sight entirely if the case is not treated at once.

Despite the probability of a fractured skull the fellow appeared optimistic and laughed and joked with the police surgeons about the affair before being removed to a local hospital.

If the thieves are not apprehended and the money recovered a collection will be taken up by sympathizers to help Philbrick in the battle for his sight. Besides the $15 the man's glasses were stolen.

Several Missing Sought by Police

The local police department has received letters asking assistance in locating the following persons: Joseph Cosa, aged 28 years, who up until November 1 was employed by the American Smelting company as a machinist, and is being sought by his sister, Miss Estelle Cosa, who has not heard from him in the last four months.

Charles Whitcomb is being sought by a relative, Mrs. Mary A. Ivins, of Middleburg, Ind., in regard to the settlement of an estate left the family by a recently deceased uncle.

O. F. Untenahrer of Fort Wayne, Ind., is seeking information in regard to her sister, Mattilda Untenahrer, who since she was employed as a domestic by J. E. Kelly of this city in 1897, has not written her. Mr. Kelly has informed the police that Mattilda left the employ of his wife to get married.

Butler Slips Work to Harley Moorhead

Clerks and judges at the special election held Monday may be compelled to wait for several days for the pay, on account of a clash between the city officials and the election commissioner.

The city legal department has advised Dan B. Butler, commissioner of finances and accounts, that he does not have to make out vouchers for the special election. This will throw the work of several days or perhaps more, into the office of Election Commissioner Moorhead. There is no dispute as to who will pay for the election, but the work of making out the vouchers has been a mooted question since the establishment of the office of election commissioner here.

KIESER ADDS OLD BOOK DEPARTMENT TO STORE

Henry F. Kieser has added an old book department to his book store in the Young Men's Christian Association building, having set aside quite a space to handle this class of books. Mr. Kieser has already purchased several old libraries in Omaha of the highest class and expects to add others as the opportunities are offered. Mr. Kieser says this will put Omaha on the map with other cities by combining a place where antiquities may be obtained where the new books are also kept.

prietor of a pool hall at 104 North Sixteenth street, were arrested in police court Friday morning. The former, charged with "violating the 3 o'clock closing law," and the latter with keeping a disorderly house. Officer Peterson discovered Epstein passing beer through a window connecting the saloon with the pool hall and summoning Officers Cunningham, Coffey and Swanson arrested the two proprietors and five inmates. All were released on cash bonds. A continuance of hearing until March 15, was granted.

LOSES COMPASS AND HE GETS ON THE WRONG CAR

William Davis, 721 Park avenue, lost his compass in the bottom of a beer glass Thursday and instead of getting a Park car home, took a prospective seven-for-quarter to Forty-fifth and Boulevard where he was marooned by an unfriendly conductor. Two small boys attempted to assist him back on the car, when he grew peevish and pushed one of the little fellows over. The other child objected to this and swung on Davis's nose, irritating him considerably. An hour or so later Officer Hudson accompanied the gentleman wandering about aimlessly and brought him to the station. In police court Judge Foster presented him with a new compass and allowed him to depart.

Will Prosecute 25 Omaha Grocers for Selling Bad Milk

From tests of milk sold by Omaha grocers, Claude Bossie, dairy inspector, Friday announced that complaints would be filed against twenty-five grocers. They will be charged with selling milk which is below the required standard of butterfat.

The inspection of milk sold by grocery stores has been conducted quietly and the results of the tests have been kept secret until the entire number of offenders could be determined.

Inspector Bossie will ask Judge Foster to set an afternoon for the trial of the cases so that they may be heard at the same time.

Smith and Perry Waive the Hearing

J. S. Smith and A. O. Perry, who were arrested on the charge of using the mails to defraud in the sale of wild horses on the Arizona range, waived preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Herbert S. Daniel. Their cases are now up to the federal grand jury, which will convene in April and will be called upon to decide whether or not there is ground for indictment. The men are at liberty under bond. The specific allegation against them in the complaint filed by United States District Attorney Howell is that when they sold bills of sale for the horses they represented that there were many more horses running on the range than are actually there.

Grand Jury May Be Excused This Noon

The Douglas county grand jury, which has been in session at the court house for six weeks, expects to finish its work Saturday morning, according to County Attorney Marney. It is said a few more indictments may be returned. Practically all persons who were indicted have been brought into court and have given bond, although several young men who were charged with immoral practices are still at large.

Clinton Brome, a young attorney, indicted by the grand jury on a charge of subornation of perjury, was arraigned before District Judge English and entered a plea of not guilty.

Conductor Charged With White Slavery

On the charge that he brought his wife from Sioux City to Omaha for immoral purposes, William Walker, Jr., a street car conductor on the Farnam line, was arrested Thursday night by Deputy United States Marshal Hise and later released on bond till the preliminary hearing this morning.

Trouble to Get the Ashes Hauled Away

Citizens are crying for the annual spring cleanup and the city health department and Street Commissioner J. J. Ryder's office are swamped with calls. The calls to Ryder's office are turned over to the garbage department, reached through the health department telephones as the street cleaning department does not remove garbage or ashes. The complaints being received are that the accumulated ashes of the winter and much garbage is piled in alleys and that the complainants cannot get it removed.

STUDENT IS SUED FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

Because, according to allegations made by Miss Annette Bralley in a breach of promise suit filed at district court, Ernest Piper, a medical student, enjoyed too intimate an acquaintance with her, she is requesting that he pay her $10,000 damages.

Last month, Miss Bralley asserts, Piper promised to marry her next summer, but now admits he has changed his mind and has even become engaged to another girl. She says she permitted him to enjoy too much of her society.
