MRS. WARD WRITES ON VOTES

Novelist Says Women Should Not Have Parliamentary Franchise.

GOVERNMENT RESTS ON FORCE

Ballots Cast by Women Would Be Like Currency Without Gold Reserve Behind It-Local Issnes Different.

PARIS, March 14.-Mrs. Humphry Ward has written M. Ferdinand Bulsson the leader in the Chamber of Deputies of the group working actively for women's suffrage, in opposition to giving women parliamentary suffrage in either England or France.

While a strong supporter of the municipal vote for women, she declares that parliamentary suffrage "la deprived of its ultimate meaning if it has not the physical force of men behind it" and it should therefore be confined to men only. "To my mind," she says, "there are at least two insuperable objections to giving the parliamentary franchise to women in England.

First, it would disturb the relation of the physical force of the country in its political force; and in these days when reform and legislation can be brought about by many other agencies acting upon Parliament, the vote acting as an instrument of government is, in my syes. very much more important than as an instrument of reform.

"The women's vote in such a country as England, would be like a paper currency with no gold reserve behind it. Considering the tremendous questions, in which great bodies of men are ranged on either side, that have already arisen or are steadily developing with the development of democracy, it seems to me more important than ever that the political vote should indicate where the physical force of the country lies, although, of course, the effort of every good citizen will bring the forces of reason and justice to bear upon that vote. But in the last resort the ballot box is and must be our defense against disturbance and civil war, and if that defense is weakened by the participation of women in the governmental vote, the country is weakened, and the women would be the first to Women Outnumber Men. "Second, in my belief, insuperable objection, so far as England is concerned. is the large preponderance of women over men in England. We have, as you know, a preponderance of 1,250,000 women. and this immensely complicates and strengthens the physical force argument.

"The argument as to the relative political ignorance of women-ignorance dependent on their maternal function and, in a way, discreditable to them-upon the larger and more external issues on which the nation's very existence may turn, also weighs with me very much. It would be specially dangerous, I think, not so much in dealing with measures as in dealing with men, that is, the selection of a male government to carry out a policy which can only be appreciated or executed by men

"Adult suffrage, or something near it, is sure to come in England, and if women were included under our constitutional system the votes of a few districts in which the women's vote predominated might in a time of crisis hand over the government to a majority which would only represent a minority of the male population. It would be easy to name. such districts.

"None of these objections apply to the local government vote, which depends on delegated powers and applies to social and domestic affairs. It is on this side that I personally hope that the solution of the suffrage question will ultimately be found. You have observed that the Ulater question is forcing English opinion in the direction of federalism. To subordinate parliaments in Ireland, one for Scotland and one for Wales, are, at any rate, now matters for discussion, and the crushing weight on the Imperial Parliament, together with the growth and complexity of local administration, will all tend in the same direction; so that in the future some of us may hope to see a clear dividing line between the Imperial Parliament dealing with the great male Interests and activities of the nation, its military systems, finance, diplomacy, etc., with its franchise and its membership confined to men, and a great subordinate system, possessed not only by administrative, but of large legislative powers dealing locally with social and mestic affairs, a system in which women should ultimately obtain full squality with men."

Mrs. Ward concludes her letter thus: "Of course, you will have observed that, for the present, the militant movement has entirely destroyed the hopes of the suffragist party, at least for some

Clinical Congress of Surgeons Meets in London in July

LONDON, March 14 .- The Clinical Congress of Surgeons of North America, to be held here during the week beginning July 27, will bring more American and dian medical men to London than the World's Medical congress held here last year. The committee on transportation is having difficulty in getting steamship accommodations for the delegates, as they expect to provide for 1,500 travelers over a short period during the busiest time of the transatlantic tourist season. This will be the fourth congress of the organization, which hitherto always met in America, Dr. Franklyn H. Martin of Chicago, secretary general of the Congress, has been here in company with Dr. A. D. Ballou, also of Chicago, arranging with the English committee for the program of the congress. Among the surgeons who have already accepted invitations to address the congross are Dr. Charles H. Mayo, Rochester, Minn.; Dr. John B. Murphy, Chicago; Prof. Tuffier, Paris; Dr. Robert Jones, Liverpool: Dr. G. E. Armstrong. Montreal: Dr. George Emerson Brewer, New York; Dr. E. Wylls Andrews, Chicago. The American delegates will be welsed at a formal meeting by Ambassador Walter Hines Page.

The Trouble.

Ha: "Do you tango?"
She: "Tea. Do you?"
Has "Sure. Let's try."
Sha: "T've never been able to find anybody who tangoed as I do."
He: "Neither have I. People all seem to dance it differently."
She: "T've noticed the same thing,"
He: "Twe noticed the same thing,"
He: "Twe noticed the same thing,"
He: "I wonder If that ain't the reason people object to it?"
She: "I should think it might be."
He "So should I. Let's sit."
They sit.—Claveland Plain Desder. The Trouble.

Exclusive Afternoon, Evening and Party Frocks This season the creators of fashions have gone back to the "days before the war" and to the Napoleonic period for their inspiration in dresses. Our dress section reflects these alluring styles in hundreds of garments. The new straight lines, with deep cut Ragian or elephant trunk sleeves, the Medici and Napoleonic collars, lace vests and shadowed camisoles are interesting developments of these motives. Skirtg have bustle effects, draped sashes, double and triple draped pannier flounces.

An endless variety of fine silks in the best shades at $19, $25, $29, $35, $39 and $49.

An Elaborate Display of New Blouses and Waists

Several radical departures are particularly noticeable in the new waists. The sleeves now constitute large portion of the blouses-they begin at the waist, usurp most of the back and end only at the collar. Unusual are the combinations of the different crepe weaves, with voiles and various kinds of laces. Beaded trimmings and embroideries are used, as are the Val., filet, needlepoint and shadow laces. Nothing is used except the softest, sheerest, draplest fabrics, and the colors are delicate in the extreme. A selection here that has no equal west of Chicago. Prices range from $5 to $35.
