BEET WORKERS HOLD OUT

Russians at Lincoln Refuse to Make Trip to the Fields.

LOWER PAYMENT IS THE CAUSE

Reduction in Tariff on Sugar Causes Factory Men to Lower Price They Pay for Laborers During Season.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, April 20.—(Special.)—Russian beet workers in Lincoln will not go to the beet fields in the northwestern part of the state this year unless the price usually paid for work is given them. A number of families here, in the aggregate making about 200 workers, have annually for the last few years emigrated to the beet fields of Nebraska and Wyoming and worked the fields, receiving $20 per acre for their work. This year the company which employs them is only offering $15 for the same work.

The reason given for the cut in price is that the tariff on sugar has been reduced and in three years will be entirely removed. The reduction is a gradual one and begins to hit the beet sugar manufacturers this year, and they claim that they cannot pay the price for labor heretofore paid and besides will be forced to pay less for the raw product raised by the farmers. The price heretofore paid to the farmers has been a sliding scale, depending upon the quality of beets raised, usually running from $25 to $30 per ton. This year the agent of the company states that the factory will be able to pay but a flat rate of $15.

The agent, who was here trying to persuade the beet workers to go to their usual work, and was unable to do so, left for Topeka, where he hopes to have better success. This cut in price will hit Lincoln hard, as it will put in competition with the men who have always received work in Lincoln during the summer these 200 beet sugar workers, who will now be at home instead of in the beet fields.

Crews Files for House.

J. M. Crews of Culbertson has filed for the democratic nomination for the lower branch of the legislature in the Sixty-ninth district, comprising the counties of Hitchcock and Dundas. This district was represented at the last session by L. C. Rudolph, appointed by the governor to fill a vacancy caused by the death about a month before the session began of W. Z. Taylor. Mr. Crews makes a personal filing for the democratic nomination and files for the populist nomination by a petition signed by twenty-eight voters of his district.

Two Rate Hearings.

Two rate hearings will be held by the railway commission this week. The first will be held at Hastings Tuesday, being an application of the company at that place for a raise in telephone rates. The second will be had at York on the application of the York Gas and Electric company for permission to issue stock in the amount of $55,000 of preferred stock to cover indebtedness and improvements.

Short Weight on Scales.

Somebody upon the line of the Union Pacific in a town not far from Schuyler has been getting the short end of the weighing proposition from a set of platform scales used for weighing stock and other heavy loads. By some error, either intentionally or otherwise, a five-pound scale weight belonging to another scale has been used on this particular scale. The result is that in every ton weighed the amount has been 50 pounds less than it should have been. The proper adjustment has been made and the scale confiscated. The question naturally arises, How about the other scales where, according to the same proposition, each ton would overweight 50 pounds.

Kemp is Undecided Whether to Make Race for Governor

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, April 20.—(Special.)—The lack of candidates for the republican nomination for governor during the last few months has been generally laid to the fact that all were waiting to see what the supreme court would do regarding the eligibility of Lieutenant Governor McKelvie as a candidate for governor and incidentally what effect it would have on State Treasurer George for the same nomination and other state officers who might aspire to fill the big chair in the executive office. But now that the court has decided that no state officer may run for governor, no one has flocked to the office of the secretary of state in his haste to get his filing in before some other patriot.

Probably the man whose name has been mentioned most often in connection with the republican nomination is Senator J. H. Kemp of Fullerton, president of the last state senate. In a phone talk last night, Senator Kemp told The Bee correspondent that he had not yet decided what he would do, but expected to be in Lincoln in a few days and would make up his mind regarding the matter. Senator Kemp has a very lucrative law business and dislikes to throw it up even for the job of being governor for two or more years. Another candidate who appears to look good to a large number of republicans is Senator John Heasty of Fairbury. Mr. Heasty served in the same session of the senate with Mr. Kemp and the two of them were considered among the leaders of that body, which was conspicuous on the republican side for its efficient membership.

It has been suggested that these two men, one for governor and the other for lieutenant governor, would make a strong ticket and which would draw support to the whole state ticket because of its failure to have been mixed up in any local, state or other factional fights and would therefore receive the support of all republicans, and in the badly mixed condition in the democratic party would doubtless draw much support from the democrat side.

English Papers See Intervention Loom

LONDON, April 20.—The Daily Express, commenting on the Mexican situation, says:

"President Wilson and Secretary Bryan wished for peace at any price. The price may be heavier than America cares to pay. President Wilson imprudently selected the wrong man as his ambassador and official instrument of his policy. He is now reaping the consequences of his irresolution."

The Times in an editorial says: "President Wilson has decided to act in the spirit of General Scott's orders at Vera Cruz in 1846: 'When dealing with Mexican command, never argue.' Our Washington correspondent makes it clear that both congress and public opinion are behind the president and that intervention is inevitable sooner or later. "We can well understand that no American contemplates it with anything but the most profound reluctance and a lively sense of the many and anxious responsibilities and entanglements it must bring upon his country."

Three messenger boys at 1112 Douglas street are in jail held for investigation as the result. Goodrow says he was shoved through a plate glass window by the boys while he was intoxicated. The boys say they came into the messenger office "hunting trouble" and was ejected and that he fell through the window himself. Goodrow has a family in the Bluffs.

Barr, all relatives, acted as pallbearers.

ROJAS DEFENDS POSITION TAKEN BY THE DICTATOR

request of Rear Admiral Mayo relative to a salute of the American flag, which has not been insisted, he proposed to show his good will toward the American people though he did not think that such a request was just, proposing that the flag in the relations be hoisted and saluted reciprocally and simultaneously.

"The American government did not agree with that idea, but insisted on Rear Admiral Mayo's request, giving assurance that according to international practice the salute would be returned by the American flag."

"This was not accepted by President Huerta, who insisted on his proposition. Ultimatum is Rejected. Then the American government determined that the poor patriots be brought to an end by the final decision of president Huerta within a term which expired at 1 o'clock tonight, announcing that if by that time he had not agreed to the salute of the American flag as requested, the affair would be presented to the American congress for decision."

"The Mexican government, believing that the salute in question was of no importance unless previously and formally agreed on by both parties, proposed the signing of a protocol and the minister of foreign affairs presented last night a draft of such protocol to the American charge d'affaires, Nelson O'Shaughnessy."

"O'Shaughnessy answered that he must consult his government; that he would advise the minister of the nature of this answer and this afternoon he communicated to the minister the fact that his government did not accept the idea of a signature of any protocol whatever, but wanted an unconditional salute of the American flag."

"The Mexican government refused, feeling it had done all possible, in view of the friendly understanding between the two governments, and believing that the refusal of such proposition would be equivalent to yielding by Mexico to humiliation."

"The Mexican government is confident that the civilized world will find its conduct has been wise and temperate, that it has observed all the requirements of international law and that the refusal to yield further is inspired only by a regard for its honor and dignity."

Draft of Proposed Protocol.

The draft of the proposed protocol, refused signature by the United States follows: "With a view of putting an end to the lamentable incident which occurred on the 9th instant at Fort Tampico, caused by the detention of nine men and one American officer; considering that such matters were immediately put at liberty by General Zaragoza, commander of Fort Tampico, and that said officer presented an apology to Rear Admiral Mayo, commander of the American squadron in those waters; that afterwards when the president of the republic of Mexico became advised of the facts he expressed regret through the office of foreign relations for the incident and ordered that a full investigation be made to the end that the guilty might be punished if any be found guilty; and finally that the action in question was due to the zeal and a subaltern, which might be regarded as excusable, if it is taken into consideration that the marines when detained had gone ashore to uniform without permission of the military authorities, the port being at the moment not only in a state of war, but under attack by rebels, the charge d'affaires of the United States and the minister of foreign relations of Mexico, acting in their official capacities, agreed as follows: "First, that the Mexican government, inspired by a desire of showing the good will it feels toward the people of the United States, and acting in the same manner wherein the United States has done in similar cases, binds itself that the American flag be saluted at Tampico by twenty-one guns from the Mexican shore batteries or a Mexican warship in those waters."

"Second, that the cannon referred to in the preceding article shall be fired at the moment when the American flag shall be hoisted to a masthead on the Mexican shore."

"Third, that the government of the United States binds itself to salute the Mexican flag immediately following the salute by the Mexicans to the American flag with twenty-one guns of the man of war Dolphin or of any other battleship at anchor in those waters."

"Fourth, the guns to which the preceding article refers shall be fired at the moment when the Mexican flag shall be hoisted to the top of a mast of the aforesaid man of war or of any other warship in those waters, and to this end both contracting parties attach their signatures."

Huerta is Indifferent.

This formal reply of the Mexican government to the demands of the United States was handed Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires, at exactly 5 o'clock last evening at the foreign office. The charge, however, had been made aware previously of the nature of the document.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy had seen Senator Porcillo y Rojas last in the afternoon in the suburbs of Copacapan, where he had gone to dine with some friends.

Provisional President Huerta displayed comparative indifference to the crisis and passed several hours last evening listening to the military band playing in Chapultepec park.

Several hundred American residents spent the evening at the American club, where a dinner and entertainment were given.

Newspapers Prater Huerta. The newspapers of the federal capital today restricted themselves to brief comment on the statement given out by the foreign minister, devoting themselves chiefly to expressions of approval of the attitude taken by the Mexican government. El Inmortal declared that General Huerta had given "high proof of his discretion and loyalty," and concluded: "A people, like a man, should prefer death to dishonor." El Pais said: "The Tampico incidents as a reason for war are infamous and a basis for the assertion of right are ridiculous. "In these solemn moments serenity is the only thing that can save us, but should the time come to show ourselves patriots it is indispensable to unite in facing death and sacrifice with the valor of justice." News of the deadlock came as a complete surprise to the large majority of Mexicans, as the existence of a diplomatic controversy had been kept out of the newspapers. Everywhere today Mexican citizens eagerly read and earnestly dis-

CLOSE WATCH UPON PRISONERS

Outbreak Among Mexicans Interred at Fort Bliss Feared. FORT BLISS, Texas, April 20.—Vigilance over the Mexican prison camp here was redoubled today upon receipt of information hinting at the possibility of a plot to free the 6,000 former federal soldiers interred here. A deadline has been marked out inside the fence, beyond which the prisoners are not allowed to move.

It was learned that a man upon which habitual watch has been kept for months had purchased a supply of wire clips, which might be used to cut the barbed wire fence around the prison camp.

At intervals around the camp sentries, standing on elevated platforms with loaded rifles, are on guard and four rapid firers are ready for instant action in case of an outbreak. The prisoners have no weapons except the axes given them for chopping fire wood, a few building tools and a number of spades.
