FOUR ARE KILLED BY BOMB DROPPED BY REBEL AEROPLANE

The federal garrison at Acaponeta, Tepic, by the constitutionalist forces reached the State department today in a report from Consul General W. Keyes at Rosario.

Ten members of the Smith family in all at Tehuacan, Chihuahua, are in danger of their lives because of Mexican resentment of their part in the recent killing of the three Americans at San Pedro, according to a report today from Minister Leavelle in Guatemala. The Mexicans were members of a rural guard and invaded the Smith home at San Pedro to disarm the occupants. In the fight which ensued, the Mexicans were wounded, but the Americans were later arrested.

American Delegates Not Appointed. President Wilson found time in the midst of his preliminary festivities at the White House today to confer with Secretary of State Bryan for a few minutes on the Mexican crisis, with particular reference to mediation.

Secretary Bryan announced after the conference that American delegates to advise with the South American mediators had not yet been selected, but that a representative of representatives would soon be designated and the selection soon would be made. Whether there would be more than one American delegate is still undecided, the secretary said. It was reported in diplomatic circles that John W. Foster, former secretary of state, is being considered among others, to represent this country. Mr. Foster was minister to Mexico in the late 70s. The arrival in Washington of Nelson O'Shaughnessy, chargé of the American embassy at Mexico City during the most turbulent part of the strained relations with Huerta's government, aroused considerable speculation as to the returned envoy's status, but nothing concerning his future was considered today. Mr. O'Shaughnessy saw Mr. Bryan for a few minutes today, and will confer with him again tomorrow. President Wilson also will see Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription. This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by Sherman & McConnell Drug Co., or any druggist, under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of Othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely. Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee. Advertisement.

THORNE ROASTS BRANDEIS

Iowa Commissioner Submits Brief in Freight Rate Case.

ATTORNEY TAKES WRONG STAND

Counsel is Accused of Attempting to Perform Functions of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The Interstate Commerce commission had before it today a supplemental brief filed by Clifford Thorne, representing the Western railroad commissions before that body in the advanced rate case, in which he utterly repudiates the position of his attorney, Louis D. Brandeis, special counsel for the commission, who in his closing argument in the case last Friday stated that "on the whole, the net income, the net operating revenues, of the carriers in official classification territory are smaller than is consistent with their assured prosperity and the welfare of the community."

Mr. Thorne asserts that Mr. Brandeis commended his argument before the commission "by conceding the position of the carriers." On behalf of those whom he represents, Mr. Thorne says he "repudiated in unqualified terms" the concession made by Mr. Brandeis in his closing arguments. He says that had he known Mr. Brandeis "was actually going to take the railroad side of the particular question up for discussion as to the adequacy of the revenues as a whole, I should certainly have asked that he be heard along with the railroad counsel before I made my argument."

Duty is for Commission. Mr. Thorne after referring to the questions the commission has before it in the case says: "This commission itself has a responsibility to discharge in determining the adequacy of railroad revenues within official classification territory, that is not met by any opinion or conclusion announced by special counsel. This duty is one solemnly placed on you by our national government and it is one that you cannot and have not attempted to delegate to Mr. Brandeis. The special counsel is invited to emphasize any aspect of the case deserving emphasis, but his duty was to present facts and not opinions. In spite of this specific instruction, the said special counsel exceeded all the bounds of propriety in the premises, and practically usurped the functions of the commission, announcing an opinion or conclusion on the only question finally submitted at the time; and further, he specifically advocated a particular theory for the disposition of the case. Furthermore, and far more important than any other fact here stated, he announced said conclusion without presenting any facts or reasons, in either oral or written argument, on basic questions, necessarily involved in arriving at such a conclusion."

Wedding at White House Takes Place. (Continued from Page One.) Miss O'Neil, white orchids and fern fronds. Fourteenth White House Bride. More than a century of romantic White House history will form a fitting halo of the bridal couple in the ceremony of today. According to accepted authorities, Miss Eleanor Wilson was the fourteenth bride to plight her troth within the historic walls of the famous mansion. In the identical room where she today took the husband of her choice, "for better or for worse," beautiful Frances Polcun became the wife, twenty-eight years ago, of the then president of the United States, Grover Cleveland, and only a few months ago the sister of the bride of today, Miss Jessie Wilson, was united in marriage in the magnificent East room of the White House to Francis B. Sayre. The White House is hallowed in the memory of one other May bride, beloved Nellie Grant, who, forty years ago was married in the East room to an Englishman, Algernon C. F. Sartoria. Today's wedding was unique in respect of the principals, as Miss Wilson was the first daughter of a president of the United States to be joined in marriage to a member of the cabinet. Secretary McAdoo did not visit the White House until late in the day. He entertained his fellow cabinet members and Dr. Grayson, the president's aide, who will be best man at the wedding, with a club luncheon at noon.

WEDDING AT WHITE HOUSE TAKES PLACE

Gowns of Cabinet Women. WASHINGTON, May 7.—The wedding at the White House late this afternoon, when Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, youngest daughter of the president, was married to William Gibbs McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, brought together many handsome gowns and toilettes of the bridal party, and the limited number of guests who attended, chiefly the wives of the vice president and cabinet officers. While it has been known for some time that the arrangements for the wedding were to be simple, and in contrast with some of the brilliant functions of the past, yet this has not affected the desire of the limited few who had reason to believe they would witness the event from making early preparations for gowns suitable to a function of this character. One troublesome question has been the hour of the ceremony, 6 o'clock, midway between the usual requirements of an afternoon or an evening gown, and also raising the question of whether a hat was suitable to be worn at a 6 o'clock wedding function.

But these details were solved by the two score or more matrons and maids who witnessed the marriage. Nearly all of them wore gowns not seen here before this season, and taffetas in light shades, with cream and white laces. Mrs. Marshall, wife of the vice president, selected a costume of white net and lace, made in the prevailing ruffled style, the skirt partly draped, with broad embroidered flounces of net, and narrower ones with lace edges. The bodice has the lace and net in a soft kimono blouse effect. Mrs. Bryan, wife of the secretary of state, wore a very modish gown of taffeta, which has a large flowered skirt, draped in deep shades all over it. The draped skirt shows a petticoat in a band of embroidered old rose chiffon. The chiffon is also inserted in the softly draped waist, but a line of nearly white and very fine lace, edged with the V-shaped neck opening. Mrs. Bryan selected one of her small toques to wear with this dress, a becoming model in black tulle and jet.

Mrs. Houston, wife of the secretary of agriculture, wore white, a very pretty model in lace, with touches of jet and made over white. The sash and grille are of gold satin.

Mrs. Lane, wife of the secretary of the navy, has chosen from among her new frocks a stylish but simply made one of black flowered tissue over lavender chiffon. Both these gauzy materials form the bodice, with ivory tinted lace around the V-shaped opening at the neck.

Mrs. Daniels, wife of the secretary of the navy, chose a becoming dress of heavy colored tulle, trimmed with overdraperies of blue chiffon, which is embroidered in panels. The purple straw hat she is to wear with it is wreathed with white flowers and white chiffon draped over white satin, with smart touches achieved by French blue ribbon holding the puff of the skirt drapery and also showing on the bodice, where rhinestone buckles hold the soft lace frills around the V-shaped neck.

Mrs. Redfield, wife of the secretary of commerce, wore a summer silk costume, white with hair stripes in mauve. It is trimmed with silver lace.

Mrs. Wilson, wife of the secretary of labor, wore gray crepe de chine, and Miss Agnes Hart Wilson had a blue satin costume with touches of orange velvet and lace in the trimming.

O'GORMAN AGAINST REPEAL

of the country, and before the deed is consummated, I enter my solemn protest against what I conceive to be a betrayal of the American people. "Wise Economic Policy. Senator O'Gorman further sought to show that exemption of American coastwise vessels is a wise economic policy; that if such vessels fall within the terms of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, exemption does not constitute a violation thereof and that the canal has been constructed on territory over which the United States is sovereign while the canal contemplated in the treaty was to be built on alien soil, and therefore the treaty is inapplicable. "Exempting coastwise craft from the payment of tolls," he continued, "will reduce the cost of shipping through the canal to a minimum, and thereby compel competing roads in the United States and Canada to reduce their rates to a competitive basis. The more expensive you make water transportation the greater latitude you extend to the railroads in the fixing of their rates. Place a toll on the domestic shipping and for every dollar you collect by way of toll you enable the railroads to make a corresponding increase in their rates. It was hoped by some that the exemption to the coastwise trade might be followed in the near future by a like exemption to the few American ships now engaged in the foreign trade, but deny this privilege to the coastwise vessels now and you make it forever impossible to confer it upon the ships engaged in overseas trade. "I know it is said that free tolls will simply enrich the ship owner and confer no benefit upon the producer and consumer. Well, if free tolls will not decrease the cost to the consumer, imposing tolls on the other canals of the country will not increase the cost to the consumer. I suppose you will make your system uniform. Perhaps this is part of a program to impose tolls on the shipping of the other canals of the country. "The senator argued that it is a well known principle of international law that conditions in any international agreement cease to be obligatory when the state of facts on which they were founded has ceased to exist or has been changed. He pointed out that when the United States became the sovereign of the Panama Canal Zone and it became United States territory, the Hay-Pauncefote treaty no longer bound the United States. To back up this contention, the senator showed that England fortified the Suez canal after Egypt became British territory, and that when the great powers, which were parties to the convention under which that canal was constructed, raised objection, the British government relied upon this same principle of international law. He said that since Great Britain had recognized the American right to fortify the canal, forbidden in the treaty, it had recognized a changed condition, which makes the entire treaty inoperative. "The treaty," said he, "must stand or fall as a whole. Under the doctrine recognized by the British government, the treaty is inoperative as to the newly acquired territory of the United States, and the canal constructed on American territory at Panama is no more affected by the Hay-Pauncefote treaty than would be a canal built across any other part of the soil of the United States."

Bloom of Youth Now Easily Attained

You no longer need to "doctor" that all-over, freckled, black-headed, rough, blotchy, pimply or over-reddish skin. You can remove it, instead—easily, painlessly, inexpensively. By a new scientific process, which anyone can use without assistance, the dead and near-dead surface skin with all its imperfections, is gently, gradually absorbed and a beautiful and beautiful complexion comes forth! Go to your druggist, get an ounce of pure mercurochrome wax, and apply enough to completely cover the face; don't rub it in. Next morning remove the wax with warm water. The result after a few days is astonishing. You wonder why this secret wasn't discovered long ago. Let the wrinkled folks also take hope. Put an ounce of powdered saccharin into a half pint witch hazel, bathe the face in the solution and—say!—there's nothing that will so effectively and promptly smooth out all those hateful lines.—Advertisement.
