Ralph Cohn is Painfully Injured by an Automobile

Raiph Cohn, 12-year-son of Rabbi and Mrs. Frederick Cohn, suffered painful injuries Friday evening, when he was run down at Sixteenth and Leavenworth streets by an automobile belonging to a man who gave his name as Alexander and address as Forty-third and Hamilton streets. The youngster was on his way home from the ball game and transferring cars at the crossing when the accident occurred.

Witnesses say that Alexander, coming south on Sixteenth street, made the corner turn going west on the left-hand side of Leavenworth, knocking the youth down and passing over him before the car was stopped. Fortunately none of the wheels passed over the body and the hurts sustained from contact with sharp corners of the underhanging engine amounted to bruises on the head and body and a badly lacerated right leg. .
