

WIFE AND HUSBY IN TIE RACE

Run Dead Heat on Trip from Decatur, Ill., to Omaha.

ARMISTICE FINALLY DECLARED

Lasts While Both Journey to Florence, Where, They Hear, Son is on Trial for Speeding the Auto.

The score stands 9 to 9 between Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scheller of Decatur, Ill., to secure possession of an automobile they both claim. Though lawful husband and wife, each claims that the machine is not the property of the other, and thereby hangs a tale.

On Saturday the police got word from Scheller that his son, Clark, aged 22, and a companion, Will Crimingham, had left Decatur with Scheller's car, and to be on the lookout for it, as it was believed en route to Omaha.

Sunday the car was spotted, the boys locked up and Scheller notified. Results, Scheller, without stopping to change his collar, hurried to the depot to catch the first train coming this way. When he rushed up to the ticket office he was taken back at finding his wife there ahead of him, purchasing a ticket for Omaha also. The couple had been estranged for some time and naturally said nothing to each other of their reason for coming on here, and rode in different apartments.

Both Take Taxi.

When Omaha was reached Husband Scheller hailed a taxi and said "city jail," and Wife Scheller hailed the next taxi and said "city jail," and both drivers were urged simultaneously to "get there first." The race was a dead heat, and both jumped out of the cars and made for the station garage, where the car taken from the youth was stored. Into the front seat climbed Husband Scheller and into the rear climbed Wife Scheller. And then, after being firmly ensconced, they turned to each other with a simultaneous "Well, what's the idea?"

"This car is mine, and I'm going to take it back home with me," said the husband.

Truce is Declared.

"This car is mine and those boys can use it if they want to," fired back the wife. And the selge for possession was on. The H. prepared to start for home despite the W.'s protests and the W. out-guessed him by getting an attorney and putting her case up before neutral parties. Meanwhile the boys were released and disappeared somewhere about town. "I'll sit in this car until the boys show up and take it," said the W.

"And I'll not move it an inch until you get out," said the H. And all morning long, rain and all, both sat stiffly propped up in the two seats of the machine as it stood in front of the jail. How long this would have kept up is hard to determine had not word come to both their ears that their sons were back out at Florence on a charge of speeding, when both consented to call a truce until they found out how their offspring was faring.

The Schellers are wealthy residents of Decatur. Both admit that married life has not been one sweet dream and both aver that have absolutely no use for each other. They are separated, but not divorced.

Later.

Upon arrival at Florence the boys were found and peace between the father and mother was continued. A reconciliation was not effected, but after due consideration Papa Scheller decided that a little outing would do him good and so he decided to take an auto trip to the coast with his son and the latter's friend. Mrs. Scheller will return to the family residence at Decatur.

Toll Taker Calls

Patrol, but Victim is Catholic Priest

William McClenahan, toll taker on the Douglas street bridge has been held up and robbed of his night's receipts a number of times; has been threatened by suspicious looking persons and has otherwise felt the annoying drawbacks of the lonely post. A couple of years on the job sweetened his temper not a whit, nor has his constant rubbing elbows with suspicious looking persons made him any the less suspicious.

Early this morning a stout little man approached him from the Iowa side and commenced to talk. McClenahan got his revolver handy, and pushed the Omaha police button. A moment later the patrol dashed up, loaded with reserves. "The trouble maker" was an inoffensive appearing Catholic priest, who, after walking, had just stopped at the toll house for a few minutes chat.

McClenahan thought he was a holdup man, even though the priest was garbed in regulation raiment. The latter described himself as Rev. John Vilen, Plattsmouth, and said he was stopping at the Schiltz hotel in Omaha and was just "doing some thinking" while talking the nocturnal promenade. He was not arrested. "I guess this night work on the lonely old bridge is getting your goat, Mac," Patrol Conductor Jim Murphy laughed, as the wagon turned around and started back to the station. Father Vilen thought it all a good joke.

List of Robberies

Reported to Police

A number of petty robberies reported to the police are as follows:

Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy, 207 North Nineteenth street, robbed of $6 cash. City National bank book No. 3226, and a note for $100.

Nagasaki restaurant, 207 North Sixteenth street, robbed of carving knives and cuts of meat.

Charles Page, Oxford hotel, robbed of $25 by his room-mate, William Wells, who is being sought by the police.

E. N. Gaudreau, 217 Douglas street, robbed of check, cash and jewelry valued at $50.

F. G. Usher, 222 Park avenue, robbed of kit of tools.

H. T. Hughes, Her hotel, robbed of light spring overcoat.

SOUTHERN HALF OF THE STATE GETS A WEETING

Showers were general throughout the southern half of Nebraska Monday night and Tuesday, according to Burlington weather reports, the heaviest precipitation being reported as three inches at Pauline. More than an inch of rain fell at Clay Center, and the Wynmore and McCook divisions were visited with light rains, and indications are that the rainfall will continue in showers throughout the state.

BROWNELL GIRLS GRADUATE

Commencement and Jubilee Celebration Jointly Held at School.

SIXTEEN GIRLS ARE GRADUATED

Bishop Williams Centers the Diplomas, While Bishop Butler is the Principal Speaker of the Occasion.

Commencement exercises at Brownell Hall yesterday were in the nature of a jubilee celebration, as this marks the fiftieth year since the founding of the school. St. Matthias church, where the exercises were held, was filled with alumni of Brownell Hall, who had come from many places out in the state and with friends of the graduates.

It was a pretty sight as the sixteen members of the class of 1914 filed into the church, preceded by the members of the senior class, the junior school and members of the faculty. Miss Mary Taylor of Grand Island and Miss Hazel Graff of Beatrice, carrying long-stemmed white roses, marched at the head of the procession and acted as ushers. All the students were gowned in white, the graduates in white caps and gowns and all the undergraduates wore wide flat bows of black velvet on their hair to meet with the requirements of the Episcopal church as to head-covering for women.

Diplomas Conferred.

Right Rev. Arthur L. Williams, bishop of this diocese, conferred the diplomas and awarded the Mary E. Cunningham medals for superior scholarship to Margery Violet Smith and Miss Harriet Ashbrook, class of 1914, of Mitchell. Miss Smith was not present to receive her honors, as she is in Chicago taking entrance examination for Bryn Mawr. A pretty feature marked the conferring of the diplomas when Bishop Williams called upon Bishop George A. Beecher of Kearney to present the diploma to his own daughter, Ruth Allen Beecher.

Bishop Butler Speaks.

The Rt. Rev. George Butler, missionary bishop of South Dakota, was the principal speaker of the occasion. He took as his text, three periods in the life of Christ—His school days, His active ministry, and the last days of His life.

"There was nothing precocious about Jesus, the boy," said the bishop. "He listened at the feet of the philosophers and asked questions, not preaching as some have said. Jesus did not underestimate the importance of school days, but took as his idea of the meaning and significance of life, the idea of communion, doing the work that God had given him to do."

Among those occupying the chancel were Bishop A. L. Williams, Bishop George A. Beecher, Bishop George Butler, Dean James A. Tanock, Rev. George Southworth, Rev. John A. Williams, Rev. F. A. Tyner, Rev. S. Mill Hayes.

The Graduates.

Start Made for New

Home for Bohemian Catholic Turners

Excavation for the new home of the Bohemian Catholic Turners' society of the St. Wenceslaus parish has been started at Thirteenth and Pine streets. The new structure is to be of brick, three stories high, will cost $20,000 and is to be eighty by 125 feet. It will be equipped with all of the modern apparatus for gymnastics, including a swimming pool, billiard rooms and bowling alleys.

The structure will be just one block from St. Wenceslaus church, and the lot upon which it is to be built is 200 by 125 feet.

J. E. Turner has the contract for construction, while James B. Nachtigall is the architect. The new home is to be ready for occupation by the first of the year.

Council to Close

Subways if Back Taxes Are Not Paid

Ten days to pay back taxes on subways and areaways, after which the city commission has notified owners thereof that such places will be closed. City Commissioner Dan B. Butler of the department of finances and accounts has been trying to collect $2,100 back taxes on subways and areaways and, having failed, asked the council for permission to close the places unless the taxes were paid. The permission was granted.

Glacier National Park Newly Revealed Wonderland
This region of majestic, glacier-capped mountains—the climax of the rugged grandeur of the Rockies—is reached by the Great Northern Railway from Glacier Park Station, at which point the railway company has constructed a hotel costing $150,000. Automobile roads have been built from this entrance and from Belton (western entrance) through the park. A detour may be made from either entrance, or going in at one and coming out at the other. In making a tour of the coast, such a detour will prove to be one of its most attractive features.

Illustrative Detours and Rates

Round trip fare from Omaha to Glacier Park Station	$35.00
One-day park tour from Glacier Park Station	8.25
Three-day park tour between Glacier Park Station and Belton	21.00
Five-day park tour from Glacier Park Station	31.25

These detours include automobiles, launches, coaches, hotels, etc., and cover distances of from eighty to one hundred and fifty miles. As hotel and transportation arrangements in the park are under the supervision of the Great Northern Railway, the comfort and enjoyment of tourists is assured.

City Ticket Office, 1502 Farnam St., Omaha

Notice to Patrons of Farnam Street Line

We have been ordered by the city authorities to stop our west-bound Farnam line cars on the EAST side of 16th street for the present, and to discontinue stopping on the west side of 16th street. Although we realize that this may discommode our passengers somewhat, and cause more or less confusion, we trust the public will bear this temporary inconvenience with patience. We contemplate resuming the customary practice of stopping on the far side of the intersection as soon as the city authorities will permit us.
