HARD FIGHT WITH THE RIVER

Missouri Trying to Take Farmer's House He Once Rescued.
FLORENCE FARMS WASHED OUT
Two Hundred Twenty Acres Have Been Washed Into Stream Since May 1 and a Barn Has Never Been Heard Of.
The thrilling rescue of his home from the Missouri river by a farmer named Hanson, north of Florence, is nothing beside the fight he is now making to keep the river from again taking the house away from him. His barn, which the river washed away, has never been heard of. Hanson had a 200-acre farm, including a grove of big trees, two to four feet in diameter, on the first of May this year. Today he has not an acre, the river having taken it all.
When the river took his house and barn, the house lodged on a sandbar, and by the aid of horses he was able to get it back to the foot of the big bluff along which runs the river road. Now the river is washing away the road at the foot of the bluff. To save his house he will either have to tear it to pieces or raise it up on the bank to the height of twenty or thirty feet, a difficult undertaking with the river under the house. The river has also taken about forty acres of the Jensen farm and ten to twenty acres of the Snodderly farm. Across the river the Paxton and Olinsted farms have lost considerable land that was planted to crops.
Get Rid of Your Rheumatism.
Now is the time to get rid of your rheumatism. You can do it if you apply Chamberlain's Liniment. W. A. Lockhard, Homer City, N. Y., writes: "Last spring I suffered from rheumatism with terrible pains in my arms and shoulders. I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment and the first application relieved me. By using one bottle of it I was entirely cured." For sale by all dealers.
PARTS OF STATE GET ANOTHER GOOD RAIN
While it is conceded that it was in no wise needed, rain was pretty general again Wednesday night over most all of Nebraska. The precipitation ranged from one-fourth to three-fourths of an inch, with a few points getting better than an inch, according to the railroads. In some portions of Nebraska there was a stiff wind, but not sufficiently heavy to do any damage more than to blow over some of the hay stacks.
