It is not always necessary to go to the country to have "country" eggs, butter and vegetables. In the very heart of the West Farnam neighborhood of beautiful homes, is almost a miniature farm, but so screened by well kept lawns and trees and hedges that even the nearest neighbors do not realize that there is a vegetable garden back of this; also a chicken yard and a pasture for the family cow.

This home, with all of these rural luxuries, is owned by Mrs. Charles F. Manderson and occupies the greater part of the block on Thirty-eighth street, between Dewey avenue and Jackson street, between the palatial home of Senator J. H. Millard on one side and Fred Hamilton's new home on the other. Across the street are the beautiful homes of E. E. Bruce, Mrs. Ben Gallagher and F. P. Kirkendall.

Besides this useful garden, there is a most attractive sunken garden designed by the late General Manderson, and in this sunken garden are many rare flowers.

Last week Mrs. Manderson entertained at an informal dinner for a number of relatives, and everything served was from this miniature farm. All of the vegetables were from her own garden; the chickens were city-bred, having been raised on the Manderson lot. Bossy furnished the cream and butter, and even the preserves, jellies and pickles were from the fruit and vegetables raised there. Some of the vegetables served were beans, potatoes, lettuce, tomatoes, peas, onions, and shortly there will be sweet corn. The flowers throughout the rooms were from the garden.

Besides managing her home and gardens, Mrs. Manderson has the honor of being the vice regent for Nebraska for the Mount Vernon Ladies' association, one of the oldest organizations of this kind, and attended the annual national meeting of this society in Washington, D. C., this year.

NEW PARCEL POST TERMINAL

Additional Room Necessary for Increased Mail Business. MORE MEN TO BE EMPLOYED

Frank J. McTea to Have Charge of Station at Union Depot and Be Assisted by Six to Eight Employees.

Shipments out of Omaha by parcel post have become so heavy that a new terminal railway postoffice for handling parcel post packages will be opened this week in the Union depot postal station by the railway mail service. Six or eight additional men will be employed in the department which will be installed in the basement of the union depot station.

The establishment in the result of the requests of Omaha business houses which make large shipments of merchandise by parcel post. They had a conference with Postmaster John C. Wharton some time ago to show the need of better facilities in handling their parcel post consignments.

The work of the new department will consist of sorting all parcel post packages originating in Omaha and distributing them to the various railroad lines for quick shipment to the proper destinations. It is believed that in this way parcel post service from Omaha business houses will be greatly improved.

Frank J. McTea, formerly a railway postal clerk on the Union Pacific between Omaha and Cheyenne, will be in charge, under the immediate supervision of Chief Clerk Claude S. Kelley of railway postal district No. 1. The new terminal will be under the direction of C. M. Reed, superintendent of the fourteenth division of the railway mail service.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED OF A OF POPULAR OMAHA GIRL

MISS FRANCES METZ.

City Dads to Help Out Patrons of the Water Board

An ordinance to relieve the patrons of the Metropolitan Water district, who, under arbitrary rulings of General Manager B. Beecher Howell, have complained that they are unable, in instances, to secure water service, was introduced by Mayor Dahlman at the meeting of the commission in committee of the whole.

The rulings prohibit a customer from using metered water from a pipe more than eighty feet from a main. The streets and alleys heretofore could not be torn up to make room for meter boxes. Hence property owners more than eighty feet from a water main could not secure water, although he was willing to install the required pipes.

Under the provisions of the ordinance introduced by the mayor the property owner may secure a permit from the park commissioner or the superintendent of the public alleys, boulevards or sidewalk spaces and sink his meter there.

Has Photo Taken to Prove Truth of Unique Fish Story

Dr. C. S. Shepard of this city, who, with his family, is summering at Lake Royal, when at home is not regarded as much of a fisherman. Now, however, in writing to some of his friends here, he is telling some fish stories that put him at the head of the Ike Walton class.

Last week the doctor had occasion to come down into the Eagle river country to look at some land that was for sale and on which he had made an offer. To while away the time while waiting for the owner of the land to appear, the doctor secured a fishing outfit and went to work.

It was slow work until he came to a bridge spanning the stream. To the doctor this looked good for looting, if not for fishing, so he took position on one of the abutments. He made several casts without results. The next cast, however, brought the results.

As the doctor was in the act of reeling his line in, preparatory to making another cast, a muskellunge struck at the lure and missed. The fish was going with great force and when it missed the bait, its momentum was sufficient to carry it out of the water and onto the floor of the bridge, three feet above. Throwing his fishing tackle aside, the doctor made for the fish and held it down until assistance arrived, and it was gaffed. The fish weighed thirty pounds and was said to have been the largest muskellunge ever caught in Eagle river at this point.

To prove his fishing experience, Dr. Shepard had photographs made of his catch and is sending them back home to his friends.
