

BRIEF CITY NEWS

Hungarians Are Insulted

Those in Omaha vexed at reports they are not patriotic.

READY TO SHOULDER ARMS

Many though now citizens of the United States declare they are ready to defend their country.

A published report to the effect that 1,800 or more Hungarians in Omaha and South Omaha are taking but slight interest in the trouble of their native country, and that in the event of revolution only a few will return to take up arms, has caused widespread indignation in the Nebraska colony.

The majority of Hungarians in Omaha are already naturalized and are citizens of the United States, but that their love for the mother country is still strong is shown by a list being passed around, which already has the names of over 100 men who will return to fight.

Henry Pollack of the Willow Springs brewery, a deputized vice consul here, says that the report published, which intimates that the Hungarians are not patriotic, is an insult.

"In the Union Pacific shops are many Hungarians who earn from $3 to $5 a day, and have been American citizens for years, and have raised families in Omaha. These men stand ready to quit their jobs and go back to the country which gave them birth and where many dear ones are."

Ready to Defend Country.

"The Union Pacific shop is only one place. In the smelting works, in South Omaha packing houses, in all the big plants where men are employed, there is not a Hungarian 'boy' in whose breast beats a heart that is filled with love for the mother soil."

"Hungary has borne the unjust taxation of Austria for years and years. There is not a Hungarian in Omaha but remembers that he came here to make a living because Austrian injustice made life impossible in his own beautiful land. Now that there is a chance to make that country free, do you think they will not avail themselves of it?"

Charles Bagyi, president of the local Hungarian federation, is taking the names of Hungarians who will return to the old country to fight, should it become necessary. As soon as word is received here from the Hungarian consul at Chicago, a war fund will also be created and subscriptions taken from all Hungarians and persons interested, in Nebraska.

AUSTRIANS DIVIDE ON WAR

Riots and Rebellion Expected by Some in Omaha.

MANY ARE SUBJECT TO CALL

Consulates of the Two Countries Are Not Maintained in Omaha—May Be Some Trouble at South Omaha.

Local Austrians are divided in their ideas and sentiments regarding the Austro-Serbian war. Their declarations concerning it conform closely to their race. Those Austrians who are of Teutonic origin favor the government of the dual monarchy and a clash of arms in the controversy, while those of Slavic blood deplore the impending bloodshed and criticize Austro-Hungary for not arbitrating the dispute.

It is predicted by Omarians who are allied to the Slavic races of the old country that riots and rebellion will break out among the Slavic people and soldiers of Austro-Hungary, who are sure to protest against being sent to fight their brother Slavs of Servia.

That Servia is in the wrong in the conflict and deserves severe punishment is asserted by Teutonic adherents of Emperor Francis Joseph. They welcome the war as a chance for the much touted soldiers of the government to distinguish themselves and win glory and territory for their nation.

SECRET CALL TO ARMS.

Bohemians and other Slavs, however, express regret that the government of the land from which they emigrated has taken up arms against their brother Slavs of Servia. It means, they say, that Slavs in the Austro-Hungarian army will have to fight Slavs of the Servian army, or else face summary execution—perhaps of the bullet-in-the-back variety—for hesitating to do so.

There are about 700 Austrians in South Omaha who are subject to call by their government for war service, should the military reserves be needed. They are men who served as Austrian soldiers in their younger years. The Austrian reserves in Omaha are almost as numerous, it is said. The Servians in the two cities are probably more numerous. Trouble between Austrians and Servians of the South Omaha packing house forces is considered a possibility by the police, who are on guard against such outbreaks.

Consulates of the two countries are not maintained in Omaha; the consuls at Chicago having jurisdiction here. No official call for reserves has been received here so far except through news dispatches from ambassadors at Washington.

GRAIN MARKET IS STEADIER

Wheat Starts Off About Four Cents Below Close of Tuesday.

GRAIN RECEIPTS ARE LIGHT

Local Men Seem to Be Afraid of the Chicago Market, Which Demands a Big Margin for Over Night.

While the grain market yesterday lacked considerable of being as wild as Tuesday it was active enough to satisfy most of the dealers. On the Omaha exchange cash wheat was up a couple of cents. July selling at $18.815 cents. The receipts were far less than were expected, the idea prevailing that if farmers have taken the bull side and are holding onto their grain instead of offering it for sale, Omaha receipts were: Wheat, 67 cars; corn, 46 cars; oats, 46 cars.

Local men appeared to be afraid of the Chicago market and the volume of trading was much less than Tuesday. In a measure this was due to the Chicago houses demanding a margin of 5 to 10 cents per bushel for carrying over night, whereas the margin is 1 cent and seldom more than 2 cents.

Omaha Grain exchange reports from Chicago indicated that there the market had steadied down and that the panic conditions had passed, though there was a large range between the high and the low prices of the morning session.

On the Chicago board September wheat opened at $8.6905 cents, the close Tuesday night having been $8.24 cents. During the session it sold up to $2 and then dropped back to $8 cents. December opened at $8.69 cents, the close Tuesday night having been $8.55. From the opening the price dropped to $8.15 and then worked up to $8.45, and then down a couple of cents.

Generally the Omaha dealers are in a quandary. They feel that if the war in Europe is to continue wheat will touch the dollar mark within a short time, whereas if the troubles should fizzle out prices would go down to the low point of the last month. They contend that with the big crop all over the United States everything is against high prices on grain and that a war is about the only thing that would give them a boost that would be lasting.

They were given rides on the various contrivances and feasted until they could eat no more.

Those in charge of the picnic were Bob Bushman, John Welch, Ed McArchie, F. J. McShane, Pat Johnson, Tom Quinlan and J. A. Schall. A number of wives of the Knights helped make the affair a success.

Coroner Willis Crosby has sent to Mrs. Harry Peters, widow of the man who took his own life and left a family of six small children all under 6 years of age, a received bill for her husband's funeral expenses. The bill amounts to over $100.

The Peters fund at the City National bank is over $100 now, and is still a great way from being sufficient to buy her a home. Mrs. Peters is a very deserving woman, and any contributions to the fund will accomplish a great amount of good.

BREAKS LEG TRYING TO OUTRUN THE OFFICERS

Ulysses Price, Sixtieth and Center streets, charged with beating his wife, tried to outrun Deputy Sheriffs Hopkins and Mahoney, who went to arrest him. The deputies were speeding through a court yard, when they stepped upon a yielding body, which turned out to be Price, who had fallen. A broken leg for Price was the result. It is said that his wife will not appear against him in county court.
