F YOU are a globe trotter it will be difficult to think of London or Paris without remembering the wonderful service at the hotels of those cities. But war has changed even that, and the call of their country seems to have appealed more to the hotel employes than the famous American tips

The following notice, couched in the ultra English fashion, has been posted in the larger hotels, according to tourists writing home:

"A considerable number of our cooks, waiters and other employes having had to return to their countries owing to the European mobilizations, the manager most respectfully begs to inform the guests that the follonging arrangements were necessary until further notice:

"First-The menus have been slightly altered so as to simplify the service

"Second-Only a la carte dishes, which require a limited time for preparation, will be served; see special list issued.

"Third-It is desired that no hot dishes are ordered after 9 p. m."

Howell Looks Into the Increased Cost of Bags and Bagging

Federal investigation of price boosting since the opening of the European war several rows of braids. assumed definite shape when United turned his battery upon manufacturers over a narrow underskirt. of buriap bags. Flour milling concerns government authorities showing that one bottom. reason for the raise in their product is the fact that the makers of burlap bags raised the price from $84 a thousand to $151 inside of eighteen days.

On July 25, one bag making concern

makers in the hope of getting bags for less money, but found the same condition

The reason given by the bag makers or not this is true, and whether there is is the objective point now of the government's investigation. Other bags necessary to the milling usiness have gone up in price size, it is alleged, but, except for the buriap ones, which are needed for meal, etc., the increase has not been so marked. Information regarding a raise in price on plate glass, paints, etc., is also in the hands of the government men.

T has been our policy for many years to place large advance orders in both this country and Europe six and nine months ahead of the season. In consequence, most of our fall import orders had been shipped before closing of commence with Europe.

W E are gratified that our efforts to provide against shortage of import commodities have been so successful. During the next few months you will be given another convincing demonstration of the dominating position of this store and the supremacy of its merchandising methods.

JOWEVER, we cannot guarantee how long these stocks will last, so we urge our Π clientile to purchase for fall needs as early as possible.

CINCE we placed our orders prices have advanced materially, but despite this our sell-Ing prices will be based on the cost of the goods to us six or nine months ago. Thus, we give our customers every advantage in purchasing, in accord with the liberal merchandising policy we have pursued for so many years.

Many Fall Laces Have Just Been Received

Hundreds of yards of new laces are now ready-laces of every kind and quality that will be wanted for fall use. Many were selected from the choicest European products, and we will probably be unable to duplicate them if the war is long continued. Of especial interest are the following:
