4-B

THE OMAHA SUNDAY BEE

FOUNDED BY EDWARD ROSEWATER. VICTOR ROSEWATER, EDITOR.

The Bee Publishing Company, Proprietor. BEE BUILDING, FARNAM AND SEVENTEENTH. Entered at Omaha postoffice as second class matter.

	TERMS	OF S		carrier	By mail
Daily and	Sunday			nonth.
Daily wit	hout Sun	day '			4.00
Evening 1	rithout S	unday			4.90
Sanday B	ce of ch	ange of	address	or con	plaints of irregularit			ALL A REAL PROPERTY AND A REAL PROPERTY.		AND INCOMENTATION AND INCOMENTS.

REMITTANCE. Remit by draft, express or postal order. Only two-cent postage stamps received in payment of small ac-counts. Personal checks, except on Omaha and castern exchange, not accepted.

OFFICES Omaha-The Bee Building South Omaha-ZIS N street. Council Biuffs-14 North Main street. Lincoln-25 Little Building. Chicago-901 Hearst Building. New York-Room 106, 256 Fifth avenue. St Louis-683 New Bank of Commerce. Washington-725 Fourteenth St., N. W. OFFICES

CORRESPONDENCE, Address communications relating to news and edi-torial matter to Omaha Bee, Editorial Department,

JULY SUNDAY CIRCULATION.

42,048

State of Nebraska, County of Douglas, as, Dwight Williams, circulation manager of The Bee Publishing company, being duly sworn, says that the average Sunday circulation for the month of June, average subbay circulation of Analysis DWIGHT WILLIAMS, Circulation Manager, DWIGHT WILLIAMS, Circulation Manager, Subscribed in my presence and sworn to before me this ith day of August, 1914. ROBERT HUNTER, Netary Public.

Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have The Bcc mailed to them. Address will be changed as often as requested.

Down with the food price boosters!

The Bee for reliable up-to-the-minute war news.

The short ballot will come, but only at the end of a long pull.

"Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands," cried the Psalmist.

Dog days are almost as much of a myth in Nebraska as the groundhog.

That electric lighting company must have been born under a lucky star.

This-trouble all goes back to the time when Julius Caesar led the way to England.

In all this royal mixup of monarchs, King Corn is doing tolerably well, thank you.

After all, we are not so sure but if men must fight, Texas has the weather that will best rile their blood.

Although it made mighty little noise, the deaf and dumb convention may be put down as a howling success.

Probing the food prices may be all right, but probing is not necessary to determine that they are exorbitantly high.

As a member of the supreme court, Mr. Mc-Reynolds will be saved the embarrassment of prosecuting the trusts.

THE OMAHA SUNDAY BEE: AUGUST 23, 1914.

No Nation Self-Sufficing.

Despite proud boasts made in vaunting spirit from time to time by nearly every civilized nation that it is self-sufficing, the test quickly furnishes conclusive disproof. The interlacing of world activities and world interests has progressed so far that the disruption of peaceful intercourse has far-reaching effects entirely unforeseen and unforeseeable.

While almost any nation can doubtless in time readjust itself so as to get along independently, the readjustment, if permanent, would be a step backward in the scale of progress. In other words, there can be no such thing as a civilization wholly unto itself. The interchange of the products of industry, of ideas and of customs, and the intermingling of different peoples, is necessary to produce the action and reaction that lifts nations upward and onward. If any country on earth could be completely self-sufficing it would be the United States, yet we already percieve what the disturbance due to this European war means for us even at this safe and comfortable distance from the scene of hostilities.

Just as all history is one, all the peoples of the world are interdependent in near or remote degree.

The First Cabinet Change.

In the selection of Attorney General Mc-Reynolds to fill the vacancy in the supreme court created by the death of Associate Justice Lurton, the president himself is responsible for the first break in his cabinet, which he had hoped to keep intact.

McReynolds' appointment, together with that of Thomas Watt Gregory to be attorney general, is in the form of official promotion and to that extent beyond criticism. It may be only incidental that McReynolds and Lurton both came from Tennessee, also that the new cabinet member hails from Texas, whence came originally both the secretary of agriculture and the postmaster general, Messrs, Houston and Burleson. Secretary Houston, though charged up to Missouri, where he was residing when appointed, is more of a Texas man. The south is decidedly in the saddle with both feet rammed full into the stirrups.

The attorney general-elect is commended as specially fitted for his new duties by much experience in trust-busting, even more so than his predecessor, whose advancement to the supreme court attests the president's satisfaction with him.

The Next Pope.

Were Cardinal Rampolla living he would be the logical successor to Plus X, for it will be recalled that he was kept from the Vatican only by the veto power which Austria exercised against him. He had received a sufficient number of votes in the college of cardinals when the veto was interposed, resulting in the choice of Guiseppe Sarto. The generous-hearted Venetian urged that the veto be disregarded and the great papal secretary of state be accorded the office, but Rampolla refused, Almost the first official act of Pius was to abolish this right of veto in papal elections.

While always a chance of a dark horse candidate in these solemn contests, the absence of factions, such as existed eleven years ago in the college of cardinals, foreshadows easy agreement. On the surface Cardinal Maffi is the favored one. As when Pius X entered the Vatican the church was distinctly asking more for special spiritual emphasis, so today in the midst of war and political turmoil, the chief need, in the mind of church dignitaries, is for a pope able to deal with governmental leaders and lead in the adjustment of the church's relations with various seats of temporal power. Such a man was Rampolla and the general belief is that such a man will be elected pope.

rapacious private enterprises led to other abuses in the form of demagogy and spoils. These in turn operate to check the very work that needs most to be done. In the end we find ourselves still victims of political incompetency, where we should have large-sized statesmanship. So we are just as much face to face now as ever with the folly of not putting into our public business the same degree of efficiency that we require for our private affairs. More than ever, politics has become a game in which, not the ablest, but the craftiest win, although sometimes the abliest men may also be the craftiest. The appeal to prejudice by the self-seeker tends to make people almost insist that the man asking their support offer them some quack nostrum guaranteed to cure all civil and political ills. Here comes a cry from an element of sober-minded folk for "business men" in public affairs, but the average business man has small chance of winning over the average professional demagogue. It may be an unpleasant picture to draw, but all too true to facts.

The Russian Jew.

If it were possible to divest the history of the Russian Jew of the awful tragedy surrounding it, the czar's appeal to "My beloved Jews" might be viewed as merely a flash of humor against the dark canopy of European war. The czar has reminded the Jews of all they owe Russia, and particularly the house of nomanoff, and urges them to take up arms for their country, adding that Jewish and Russian interests are identical.

The duplicity of the czar's professions is al most too transparent. It reminds the student of history of the answer young Charles XII of Sweden made when his chief advisers urged him to accept Czar Peter's overtures of peace: "He does not mean what he says." The intrepid and youthful Swedish warrior-king knew from experience. And the Jews of today know from experience, which accounts for the supplementary note that they "are somewhat backward in responding."

Russia's persistent persecution of the Jew is one of the defenseless outrages of the age. It sets medieval night down in the very noon-day of the twentieth century. It combines intolerance and barbarism in a way shocking to modern civilization. It has made Russia the outlaw of the nations. What a travesty to say that the Jew owes Russia anything with the echoes of the Beilis trial still in our ears. The Russian Jew has known neither civil nor religlous liberty under the relentless house of Romanoff, but, on the other hand, by characteristic thrift and frugality, he has contributed vastly to its enrichment and power. The Jew who fights for Russia will be inspired by a sense of patriotism to his country, not of gratitude to its rulers.

Summer Work for the Pastor.

"We have a strong suspicion that the most acceptable calling that the average minister can do in summer will be somewhere about his own home-on the front porch, in the back yard, or maybe in his study."

No, gentle reader, this is no knock on the church by an iconoclast with a hammer, but quite the contrary, it is seriously offered as advice by one of the principal church papers in the country. "We quite expect to receive letters in protest to this observation," it goes on to say, "explaining how effective someone's pastoral TOLSTOY'S PHOPHETIC VISION-Interview with Count Leo Tolstoy by his great-niece, Countess Nastasia Tolstoy, in the autumn of 1910. This startling interview was printed in The Bee in 1913, over a year ago, when many readers preserved it for future reference, and is printed again because of numerous requests.

"This is a revelation of events of a universal character which must shortly me to pass. Their spiritual outlines are now before my eyes. I see floating pon the surface of the sea of human fate the huge silhouette of a nude woman. She is-with her beauty, her polse, her amile, her jewels-a super-Venus, Nations rush madly after her, each of them eager to attract her especially. But she, like an eternal courtesan, flirts with all. In her hair ornament of diamonds and rubles is engraved her name, 'Commercialism.' As alluring and bewitching as she seems, much destruction and agony follows in her wake. Her breath. reeking of sordid transactions, her voice of metallic character like gold and her ok of greed are so much poison to the nations who fall victims to her charms.

"And behold, she has three gigantic arms with three torches of universal corruption in her hand. The first torch represents the flame of war that the beautiful courtesan' carries from city to city and country to country. Patriotism answers with flashes of honest flame, but the end is the roar of guns and musketry.

"The second torch bears the flames of bigotry and hypocriay. It lights the lamps only in temples and on the altars of sacred institutions. It carries the seed of faisity and fanaticism. It kindles the minds that are still in cradles and follows them to their graves,

"The third torch is that of the law, that dangerous foundation of all unauthentic traditions, which first does its fatal work in the family, then sweeps through the larger worlds of literature, art and statesmanship.

The great conflagration will start about 1912, set by the torch of the first any trouble, because he never asks her arm in the countries of southeastern Europe. It will develop into a destruc- where she spends her time and she never tive calamity in 1913. In that year I see all Europe in flames and bleeding. I asks him where he spends his -- Cineinhear the lamentations of huge battle fields. But about the year 1915 a Strange figure from the north-a new Napoleon-enters the stage of the bloody drama. He is a man of little militaristic training, a writer or a journalist, but in his grip most of Europe will remain until 1925." The end of the great calamity will mark a new political era for the Old World. There will be left no empires and kingdoms, but the world will form a federation of the United States of Nations. There will remain only four great giants-the Anglo-Saxons, the Latins, the Slavs and the Mongolians.

"After the year 1925 I see a change in religious sentiments. The second orch of the courtesan has brought about the fall of the church. The ethical ices has almost vanished. Humanity is without the moral feeling. But then, a great reformer arises. He will clear the world of the relics of monothelsm and lay the cornerstone of pantheism. God, soul, spirit and immortality will be molten in a new furnace, and I see the peaceful beginning of an ethical era. The man determined to this mission is a Mongolian-Slav. He is already walking the earth -a man of active affairs. He himself does not now realize the mission assigned to him by a superior power.

"And behold the flame of the third torch, which has fiready begun to destroy our family relations, our standards of art and morals. The relation between woman and man is accepted as a prosale partnership of the sexes. Art has become realistic degeneracy. Political and religious disturbances have shaken the spiritual foundations of all nations. Only small spots here and there have remained untouched by those three destructive flames. The anti-national wars in Europe, the class war of America and the race wars in Asia have strangled progress for half a century. But then, in the middle of history, I see a hero of literature and art rising from the ranks of the Latins and purging the world of the tedious stuff of the obvious. It is the light of symbolism. In place of the polygamy and monogamy of today there will come a poetroamy-a relation of he sexes based fundamentally upon poetic conceptions of life.

"And I see the nations growing wiser and realizing that the alluring woman of their destinies is, after all, nothing but an illusion. There will be a time hen the world will have no use for armies, hypocritical religions and degenerate art. Life is evolution, and evolution is development from the simple to the more complicated forms of the mind and body. I see the passing show of the world-drama in its present form, how it fades like the glow of evening upon the mountains. One motion of the hand of Commercialism and a new history begins.'

HAMMER TAPS.

No man over has the Big Time he expected to have when his will goes out of town.

The trouble with Advice is that every man carries a different brand for his own use.

I don't care who he is any man would do things for a strange girl that he wouldn't do for his own wife.

Men do not pay much attention to the color of the clothes a girl is wearing? But they never overlook a curve.

The old-fashioned woman who used to trim her own hat now has a daughter. who trims her husband for her hats

The only two organizations that never bject to overwork are the Hand Holders' union and the Bar Rail Polishers' union. The fellow who seems to enjoy your jokes is slways so busy laughing at them that he forgets to do any ordering and lets you do all the buying.

Every time you get into a crowd you are reminded of the fact that there is too much cheap talcum powder and not enough soap sold these days.

Another of our most talented liars is the mutt who stands around a bar and tells you that he and his wife never have nati Enquirer.

LOOTED LEVITY.

"Is he a credit to his family?" "No; a debit."-Concord Heraid.

Willie-Pa, what is a cafe de luxo? Pa-About 19 per cent cafe and 30 per ent looks.-Life.

Insurance Agent-it was you who set he house on fire with your alcohol imp Tenant-Me? Not on your life. First hing I haven't got a lamp, and second "m a lifelong member of the Temperance eague .- Journal Amusant.

"I say, old chap, I'm in shocking luck. I want money badly, and haven't tre least idea where I can got it." "Well, I'm gial to hear that, I thought perhaps you had an idea you could bor-row from me!"-Sydney Bulletif. haven't tre Binks-Here's a German scientist, who says it requires 5,600,600 years for a de-posit of hard coal to form. What do you think of that? Jinks-Why. I think it ought to get right at it.-Clevelard Plain Dealer.

Bobbie-Don't you feel tired. Mr. tibble

Bibble? Guest-No, Bobble; why do you ask? Bobble-Cause pa said he met you last hight and you were carrying an awful lead.-Boston Transcript.

Bix-I wonder why a voman never brows straight. Do you suppose it is due to some fault in the construction of nor arm? Dix-Not at all! It is due to the fact that a woman never throws things until and is so mad she cannot see straight -Eoston Transcript.

DULCIS MEMORIA.

Long, long ago I heard a little song-Ah, was it long ago or yesterday? So slowly, slowly flowed the tune along That far into my heart it found the way. A melody consoling and endearing: And still, in slient hours, I'm often hear-ing Oscar Fried, armless man, recently married Miss Helma Dahlgren in Yonkers, N. Y. Martha J., aged 71, of San Bernardino, wants divorce from T. B. Adams. Married The small sweet song that does not dis away. forty years. Stephen and Laura Kiss of Trenton, N. J., have abandoned divorcs suit and be-come reconciled. J. R. Armatrong of New York called his affinity by phone the other day. Get his affinity by phone the other day. Got his wife. Curtain. E. E. Eubanks, aged 55, of Kansas City Without a word; and now I'm eften his wife. Curtain. has just married the 15-year-old niece of The friendly flower that does not fade his deceased wife. away.

CUPID'S CAPERS.

Mrs. Louisa Marburger of Reading, Pa., is suing her husband, claiming $5,480 for supporting him for seven years. Long, long ago, or yesterday? Into his mother's eyes and mine

People and Events

W. W. Evans is dead in Jackson, Miss., aged 104 Thomas Gardner of Blue Point, in L, at Si is a tango dancer. Princess Kilsoquah, Indian, of Roanoke, Ind., is 104 years old.

Rudolph S. Harley has celebrated his 100th birthday at his home in Salem, Ill. G. M. Hoover leaves $100,000 in his will to beautify Dodge City, Kan., his native town.

Oma Morgan, aged 16, recently cut eight acres of oats in a day near Whitesburg, Ky., beating the best record of men.

The resignation of James H. Wilkerson icebox promised, ice cream without either ice or cream may be a not remote possibility.

Mr. Bryan says watchful waiting wins. He means in Mexico, of course, for he would hardly prescribe that treatment for any of the sick nations of Europe.

Our distinguished democratic United States senator puts Norman Hapgood into the discard. Now the senator will be labeled a reactionary so indelible that it will not wash out.

The cable dispatches talk about an impending battle to be participated in by 2,500,000 soldiers. That is twice the number of men, women and children in Nebraska.

Police motorcyclists, fire engine drivers and other officials riding on speedy vehicles are as much obliged to respect what few rights pedestrians have left as private speed maniacs.

It will take eleven days' work for the official canvass of the primary election vote of Douglas county. Give us a short ballot and the canvass can be finished in less than eleven hours,

It has been suggested that the United States might solve the German-Japanese problem in the far cast by buying up Germany's slice of Samoa. Well, yes, provided we could give it. away afterwards.

What the downtown campus bunch did to get control of the Board of University Regents is plain enough. The only thing they overlooked is that the university is a state, and not a local, institution.

A reception was tendered to Bishop Willard F. Mallileau, the newly-elected bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, at the First Methodist Episcopal church on Davenport street. After a prayer by Rev. Hodgett of Papillion, speeches of welcome were made by Elders Marquett and Maxfield, Revs. J. B. Stewart and Needham of Omaha, Rev. Mr. Gale of Blair, and Rev. Mr. Shank of Springfield.

Fourteen Ponca Indiana arrived in this city and called on Julius Meyer, among them Chiefs Standing Bear, Yellow Horse and Running Antelope. They are here to meet the Indians returning from Europe

The firm of E. Motz & Co. has been dissolved, and Mr. Motz will continue the business at the old stand. The executive committee of the Cleveland and Hendricks committee held a moeting and elected J. J. O'Connor president and Warren Switzler secretary.

Miss Olgasteen Davis celebrated her birthday at her home, Min Capitol avenue, with a young folks' party. Among the guests were: Drake O'Relly, Dick O'Rolly, Tyler Belt, Harry McCormick, Harry Moores, Hoxie Clark, Charlie Davis, Harry Sharp, Kenneth McIntyro and the Misses Bessie Yatos, Tad Jisich, Pink Baloh, Edith Crandall, Blanche Sorenstin, Georgia Sharp and Viola Davis.

Mrs. Molchin, better known to German theater patrons as Mario Thicasen, died at her late residence, 2Ninth and Bancroft streets.

succession in the local division of ' The Liege Poem.

Ahead of all others England's poet laureate has set to the music of verse the valor of Belgium. William Watson has given us the poem entitled "Liege," and that, too, without making the name rhyme with "siege." It is remifidful of the part martial airs and epic poetry have played in the drama of world wars. There is an irristible appeal in their lines to the national fire that glows, in a patriot's breast, although we may hope that, stirring as are the words of this little poem, they will not augment the already overpowering hordes now spreading desolation over the little battle-beaten kingdom of Belgium-And the poem runs:

Betwixt the foe and France was she. France the immortal, France the Free: The for like one vast living sea Drew nigh. He dreamed that none his tide would stay. But when he bade her to make way She, through her cannon, answered, "Nay,

Not L"

No tremor and no fear she showed; She held the pass, she barred the road While death's unsleeping feet bestrode

The ground. So long as deeds of noblest worth Are sung mld joy and tears and mirth, Her glory shall to the ends of earth Resound.

Watched by a world that yearned to aid Lonely she stood, but undismayed. Resplondent was the part she played

And pure. Praised be her heroes, proud her sons; She threw her soul into the guns, Her name shall with the loveliest ones Endure.

Business Men in Public Life.

Much as "big business" is criticized in this country, it is to be credited with one good service in helping to rouse the conscience and quicken the genius of the government. It got such a big lead on the law that it has taken ten years of hard work simply to determine whether a single act of legislation was capable of doing the very thing for which it was specifically intended. Even then, the Sherman law has been fortified by several kindred statutes in the effort to overtake the fleet-footed trusts.

Had Americans been in the habit of putting the same acumen into the management of their public as their private affairs, surely we would not have witnessed the struggle that has ensued in the last few years. So we say that if now our people have been roused to this realization, they owe more than they can easily repay to muchmaligned "big business."

Naturally enough, the demand for a curb on calls have been in hot weather, but we are stubborn enough to think they present exceptions. In most cases as the minister comes up the walk, or is seen through an upstairs window as he climbs the outer steps, there will be exclamations which would be disturbing if he heard them."

The suggestion offered, and which seems a highly common-sense one, is that the minister should make his plans conform with the seasons just as does the business man and the professional man. The idea is that summer work and winter work and spring work and fall work can and should be differentiated with advantage to all concerned in the church as well as out of it. Much steam, but little headway, may be expected from overdriving the religious charlot in the hot spell, while conserved effort may meet with better success under more favorable conditions. Unquestionably, system and adaptation to circumstances will do as much for a pastor as it does for his parishioners.

The president of the American association, in which base ball circle St. Louis belongs, speaks of the disappointing attendances there. whose team is this year last in the race. The St. Paul Dispatch retorts: "He makes no observation of the disappointment, not to say chasrin and dismay, which came to those who did attend." Ditto Omaha.

Our election commissioner is going to try to locate some gentlemen over in lowa said to be registered as voters in Omaha. While about it, won't he please try to run down the Omaha colonizers who were paid off at the rate of $2 per vote in the Council Bluffs World-Herald office for the last spring city election across the river?

A most important amendment to the antitrust bill has been lost in the senate by a vote of 26 to 26, which shows that only fifty-two members out of ninety-six were on the job when the roll was called. The senate rules should be revised to bar chautalking, and other skylarking, until after adjournment.

Referring to the threatened seizure of Kiao-Chow by Japan, our old friend, Richmond Pearson Hobson, cheerfully says, "I told you so." Fortunately, or unfortunately, Mr. Hobson told us a lot of other things that are not so.

From Leslie's fifty-years-ago column we gather that milk sold for 16 cents a quart in Baltimore during the civil war. Well, 8 and 9 cents a quart is bad enough in these present piping times of peace and plenty.

We knew all the time that it was only a question of how soon the sky pilots would begin to assure us that the war is a scourge of God visiting divine wrath upon sinful man to help him mend his wicked ways.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger thinks Oscar Underwood has too much sense to be a good democrat. Possibly, but he also has too much sense to call himself anything but a democrat while bailing from Alabame United States district attorney for the northern district of Illinois, has been turned in.

Fred Houser of Humboldt, Kan., went bathing the other day in Neosha river and with his naked hands caught a sixtyseven-pound fish.

Vincent J. Lane, publisher of the Wyandotte Herald for more than forty years Mrs. Elizabeth Trapkey for $5,000 damand who rather than sell the paper sus- ages for breach of promise of marriage. pended publication, died in Kansas City, aged $6 years.

To save the lives of two children at William Kaviest, a tobacco broker of The smallest things are safest in thy blay in the roadway, Henry Schroeder of Tarriffville, Conn., shot her dead and then keeping. play in the roadway, Henry Schroeder of Tarriffville, Conn., shot her dead and then East New York ran his car into a pillar killed himself. of the elevated railroad at Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn. He and four companions were painfully injured.

In order to save his 79-year-old father from the shame of his first jall experience, Albert Wickert of La Crosse, Wis., hired his father from the sheriff for ten days. The old man was guilty of handling a gun carelessly.

Former Senator Joseph W. Bailey announced he would enter the contest for United States senator in 1916 if the democratic state convention, in session at El Paso, refuses to accept his resolution opposing nation-wide prohibition.

The State department has received a cable dispatch from Consul W. Henry Robertson at Manchester, declaring that the textile industry, seriously depressed before the war, is now paralyzed, and that the wholesale closing of mills appears to be inevitable.

WHAT DOCTORS ARE DOING.

Japan taxes imports of patent medicines. Dr. W. E. Obets has started a rat-killing crusade in East Liverpool, O. Charles Feathers of Altoona, Pa., wears three artificial ribs made of silver. Dr. C. A. L. Reed of Cincinnati claims to cure epliepsy by intestinal operations. Surgeons at Binghamton, N. Y., replaced a man's crushed spine with an artificial steel one.

Dr. G. S. F. Savage of Chicago, at 97, is still active as a director of several large educational institutions.

N. Van Vorhis of Rochester, N. Y., recently broke his ankle. Surgeons mended it with a steel plate riveted to the bones. By introducing minute particles of zinc into the tissues by powerful electric currents a PhHadelphia surgeon destroys can-It has been found advantageous to use tungsten for the targets in X-ray tubes on account of the high temperature attained.

H. E. Hilkirk of Sharon, Pa., has been provided with a new eyelid by surgeons to replace one lost in an accident three years ago.

A Danish nerve specialist places his convalescent patients on top of a plano that they may be benefited by the vibrations as it is played.

Battles in human blood between white corpuscies and disease germs have been photographed with the motion-picture camera by two French scientists.

A London physician practicing in the poorer districts of that city says that 35 per cent of the children coming under his observation wear charms and amulets under their clothing

J. W. English of Bryant, Tex., the Unconscious love; warm in our hearts he Ind., a few days ago. Married now.

John Underwood of Canton, O., is suing

Because his wife objected to his drink-ng a highball before starting for church,

Patent Medicines

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey,

$2.00 Bamboo Brier Blood

$1.00 Rexall Beef, Wine and

Hostetter's Bitters ..

lay. An angel called! Dear heart, we could not hold him. Yet secretly your arms and mine enfold other day married the woman he fell in love with more than thirty years ago. George Milburn and Hannah Wisewander met in divorce court in South Bend.

Our little child who does not go away. Long, long ago-ah, memory, keep it

It was not long ago, but yesterday, So little, so helpless and so dear. Let not the song be lost, the flower de-His voice, his waking eyes, his gentle cay!

Sweet mem memory keep our child with us

STANDARD DRUG ARTICLES AT REXALL GUT PRICES

Every day is "cut price day" at the Rexall Drug Stores. We keep our prices down to a uniformly low level always. We like to mention our prices on well known standard preparations over and over again, because on no other line of goods can we illustrate so practically just how low our prices really are. Read 'em all-it will pay you.

Toilet Articles

Pond's Ex. Van. Cream 14c Sanitol Tooth Paste, Powder La Jeune Face Powder 89c Carmen Face Powder 29c Mennen's Talcum 12c Kolynos Tooth Paste 19c Trailing Arbutus Talcum ... 15c Holmes Frostilla 14c Pompeian Massage Cream, at 29c, 59c, 89c84c 75c Trailing Arbutus Toilet

-