GERMAN ARMY CORPS FLEES TO OSTERODE

Deserts Headquarters and is Driven Back by Russians as Far as Allenstein.

MARSHES FULL OF RIFLE PITS Caesar's Troops Find Country Filled with Every Sort of Difficulty, but Send Enemy on Way to Koenigsburg.

(Copyright, 1914, Press Publishing Co.) SET, PETERSBURG, Aug. 28.—(Special Telegram to New York World and Omaha Bee.)—(Delayed in transmission.)—The Twentieth German army corps, which defended the frontier in this region, has retired precipitately past Allenstein, its headquarters in peace time, as far as Osterode, which is on the direct railroad to Danzig, seventy-two miles. This is a mere trifle if the retreating men could travel by rail, but four very heavy marshes through some of the marshiest and vilest marching country in Europe intervene.

Russians Conquer Difficulties. This very same country Russian troops now have emerged from. The difficulties which nature placed in the way of the Russian advance into east Prussia now lie behind the Russian's victorious army. Germany and, consequently, multiplied those difficulties by a modern adaptation of the age-old methods described in pages of Tacitus. Lakes and marshes were sown with rifle pits. Wherever practicable redoubts of felled timber were erected precisely as Tacitus describes the death traps which destroyed the Roman legions. Everywhere the much more formidable barbed wire entanglements formed the defenses through this region of gloomy forest marshes and stagnant waters.

Retreat to Koenigsburg. We have no exact information how many army corps Germany left to oppose the advance of Russia, perhaps seven, possibly only five. Whatever their number they are retreating under cover of the fortresses at Koenigsburg and on in full flight on Osterode. All four hung away in the retreat their arms, ammunition and even food.

The Russian armies by forced marches have driven the wedge between the German forces. So demoralizing was the effect of the Russian commander's strategy that the German forces abandoned their entrenched positions on the river Angerapp without fight. Their line of flight is sown with cartridges, hand grenades and knapsacks flung away by the men in their retreat.

Evacuate Franckenau. Franckenau, which is about sixteen miles almost due south of Barenstein, had been carefully fortified by Germans and was defended by the Twentieth army corps, expanded to three divisions. Every device of modern warfare was utilized to strengthen this point. Rifle pits, wire entanglements, etc., were erected. The Russians in two days of obstinate fighting broke through, meeting the German hand grenades with bayonet charges. The combined effect of the obstinate frontal attack and outflanking maneuvers on the German line finally sent the German forces flying on Osterode, leaving much booty and many prisoners in Russian hands.

Dispute Over Union Jurisdiction May Close Butte Mines

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 28.—A committee, representing the Butte mine workers, the new organization opposed to the Western Federation of Miners, visited the St. Lawrence mine early today and gave the men employed there notice that they would be compelled to join the new union within twenty-four hours. The men were permitted to resume work.

The Anacostia mine which closed down yesterday after a visit to the mine by a delegation of the new union, which seized thirty-four men and marched them down the hill, is not operating today. The St. Lawrence, visited by the union committee, employs 450 men. The Mine Workers' delegation has posted notices at the original shaft that it would visit that mine Monday morning to enforce the rule that underground workers must belong to the new union.

Leading business men are in conference today reviewing the local situation. Business interests generally see in a renewal of the jurisdictional quarrel among the miners a possible shut-down of all mines in this district.

More than 200 women attended the banquet served at the Young Men's Christian association at 12:30. Mrs. Draper Smith made a short address. An outdoor meeting had been planned, but a light shower drove the audience to the court house. Nearly every one in the party made an address for the cause of suffrage. There was one car from Omaha and two from Lincoln. In the Omaha car were John L. Kennedy, Mrs. Draper Smith, state president; Miss Belle Dewey and Frank A. Harrison, chairman and manager.

News Notes of Hastings.

HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 28.—(Special.)—Under the Colorado law which gives to the widow the entire estate of the husband who dies intestate and without children, Mrs. Lovina C. Adams of Yuma, Col., attempted in the county court here to secure all of the property owned in Nebraska by her husband, Francis M. Adams, who died recently. She asserted that the Colorado statute should be followed in the settlement of the estate, as she was a resident of that state. Other heirs claimed part of the estate under the Nebraska law which gives the widow only one-half of the estate in such circumstances. Judge Burton ruled against Mrs. Adams, holding that she is entitled to but one-half and the other heirs to one-half.

Candidates Come Close to the Figure Allowed by Statute

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Aug. 28.—(Special.)—No candidate for office at the late primary has been discovered willing to admit in his statement that he spent more than the limit prescribed by statute, $500, as the amount of money he could spend in his efforts to land a nomination. Some of them have come very close to the mark. F. A. Brogan of Omaha, candidate for the non-partisan nomination for chief justice, coming closest to the mark so far. Judge Brogan shows that he spent $449.98 in quest of the job and then did not land.

CHAMBERLAIN GRANTED NEW TRIAL AT POKANE

TECUMSEH, Neb., Aug. 28.—(Special.)—Charles M. Chamberlain, wrecker of the Chamberlain banking house of Tecumseh has been given a new trial on a forgery charge by the superior court of Spokane county at Spokane, Wash. Chamberlain was tried at Spokane in May, charged with having forged the name of Theodore Rueterholz to a check M. C. Gray of Pullman had given him to deliver to Rueterholz in the sum of $175.00. It was charged that after Chamberlain had endorsed the check with the forged name he deposited it in the Farmers' National bank of Spokane in his own name. Mr. Gray, a former horse buyer in Nebraska, is in the real estate business at Pullman and Chamberlain was in his employ. The check to Rueterholz was for labor performed. Chamberlain was found guilty at the trial, but was never sentenced. He has filed affidavits stating that much new evidence in his behalf will be introduced at the new trial, which has been granted. At the trial in May four Tecumseh men were summoned to Spokane to testify as to Chamberlain's business career while in Tecumseh, but the court would not allow the evidence to go in.

TRADE CHANCE FOR REEDERS

Europe After War Will Be Great Market for Horses.

VETERINARIAN CALLS THE TURN

Dr. Kigin and Dr. Rostrum Issue Pamphlet in Which Attention is Called to Probable Demand from Abroad.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Aug. 28.—(Special.)—State Veterinarian Kigin and Dr. Rostrum of the stallion registration bureau, are preparing a pamphlet which they expect to distribute during the state fair covering many topics of interest to breeders of horses, and which also calls attention to the likely demand which the war in Europe will cause for horses raised in this country.

The main topics of the pamphlet will cover "Government Control of Imports," the "State Stallion Law," the "Origin of the Pure Bred Stallion" and "A Few Facts About Heredity."

A subject entitled "Prospects for the Horse Breeding Industry of the United States" deals with the kind of horses which should be bred to meet the demand of the future. It shows that for twenty-five years the United States has imported large numbers of pure bred stallions from France, Belgium and England, but on account of the war the importation of these animals will cease. There will be required for war purposes a large number of horses weighing from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds for cavalry purposes, and a large number weighing from 1,200 to 1,600 pounds for artillery purposes. These will naturally diminish because of deaths in battle, and the result will be a demand for horses of a heavier nature. There will be no place to get them but in the United States, and whether the war continues long or not, the breeders of horses in the United States can profit much by the situation and by breeding animals which will be needed in the old country. It takes four or five years to grow a horse, and for that reason the market in the old country is going to be good for probably fifteen years.

Another Rate Complaint

J. W. Shortbill, who made a complaint in behalf of the Nebraska Co-operative Live Stock and Grain association yesterday asking for an investigation regarding grain rates, made another complaint today to the railway commission asking for a hearing in order that joint freight rates might be fixed between all the roads in Nebraska covering the shipment of grain. He asks that all the roads be cited to appear before the commission and show cause why a proper joint rate should not be made.

Burlington to Protest

The Burlington railway has followed the lead of the Missouri Pacific and has notified the railway commission that it will go into the courts to protest against the reduction of freight rates as set out in the order of the commission, known as order No. 18. It is the general opinion that the rest of the roads will follow suit.

Old Settlers' Picnic Is Marred by Rain

ARAPAHOE, Neb., Aug. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—The Arapahoe old settlers' reunion and picnic closed today, having been extended a day on account of rains Wednesday and Thursday. Good crowds were in attendance every day in spite of sloppy roads and many were here from a distance.

Arapahoe broke even on the ball games, losing the first day to Elwood, although E. Elsbrow and Coppel of the locals knocked out home runs. Murdoch's weakening in the eighth inning, coupled with errors, gave Elwood seven runs and spelled defeat after Arapahoe had the game won, 6 to 5. The final score was 12 to 6.
