Harry Brooks Plays Way Out of Court

Harry Brookes, when asked by the judge in police court what his occupation was and why he was arrested, asserted he was a musician and forewith brought out a tin flute upon which he played "Wearin' o' the Green," "Cavalerie Rusticani," "Marseillaise" and "Die Wacht Am Rhine," to the huge amusement of Harry said he came from Yorkshire, England, and had expected to get a job playing for a picture show, but that the mechanical instruments were too good for him.

Being English Harry showed signs of wavering when asked for the German national song, but seeing his salvation rested in his music he complied and was discharged from court with a warning. not to be caught in the toils of the law in the future.

Not mildness alone. Not flavor alone. But mildness plus flavor.

That is the Robert Burns -the result of knowing how to blend the right kinds of tobacco in exactly the right proportion.

There are many sizes of Robert Burns to suit your preference. We especially recommend the "Invincible" for its perfect shape and perfect burning quality.
