

By MELLIFICIA. Wednesday, September 9, 1914.

AG DAY for the Visiting Nurse association started auspiciously this morning with the ten-dollar tag purchased by the mayor. A Bee reporter was just entering the Union Pacific headquarters this morning when he noticed two young women selling tags in front of the building and looking longingly at the hundreds of windows where they knew they could sell tags if they could enter. "Come on in, girls, I am the superintendent here," said the reporter, and he took them to the twelfth floor and introduced them to Mr. A. L. Mohler, who immediately exchanged a bill for a tag. He gave the permission to go to the freight offices, where they found at least 100 men, all willing to be tagged. Mrs. N. L. Guckert never failed to sell a tag by telling the men that she had been appointed to sell tags to the good-looking men. No one refused to buy a tag from Mrs. P. E. Jackson, whose 71 years did not deter her from coming down-town in the rain to help the Visiting Nurse association. "My daughter didn't want me to come," she said, "but I won't have many more years in which to help. I think it is a great deal of fun, too." Mrs. Jackson, in her mourning robes and beautiful white hair, formed a pretty contrast with the young society girls, all of whom were out to help this favorite charity.

A Kansas City traveling man wanted a tag for every button on his travenette and Miss Bessie Randall sold him five tags. "Visiting Nurse? Visiting Nurse? Why, I've been ill many a time and no nurse visited me!" exclaimed one man whom Miss Hedwig Rosenstock tagged. An enthusiastic socialist pointed to a window in the ground floor of the Bee building in which hung a sign "Pay your socialist dues here!" "That's where the money ought to go," he said. "Only dogs are tagged," replied a man whom Mrs. Franklin Shotwell offered to tag. "Oh, no! We tag men who growl also," was Mrs. Shotwell's rejoinder, whereupon he bought a tag for a quarter. "I'll trade you a tag for a new bonnet, Mr. Robbins," said pretty Miss Marion Kuhn, when she accosted the head of the millinery department of the Burgess-Nash company.

VICTIM SAYS HE COULD SEE BULLETS IN GUN BARREL

Bud Critts of Zalmo, Mo., told Chief of Detectives Maloney that when two negroes held him up and robbed him of $5 at the point of a pistol, he could see so far down into the barrel that the bullets were visible. "They were big bullets, too. They seemed to say to me, 'Come on, thump, do something and make us fly at you.' I handed them my money." He was unable to give descriptions of the robbers.

SCHOOL ROLL MUCH LARGER

Nearly Six Hundred More Enter on First Day Than Last Year.

MANY IN THE SEWING CLASS

Teacher to Be Assigned for the Children at the Child Saving Institute—Two Little Tots Are Lost.

First day enrollment in public schools increased 266 this year over the first day's enrollment last year. The enrollment figures returned to Superintendent E. U. Graff's office shows a total number of 17,746, the first day last year being 17,480. The enrollment in the new department of sewing at the Central High school, under Miss Verda Williams, reached its first day. A meeting of the Board of Education, held following a regular meeting Tuesday night, discussed the situation at the Child Saving Institute and decided to send a teacher there, rather than permit the children from the institution to attend the Columbian school. It is customary to detail a teacher to the institution.

Two children from Long school were lost on the opening day. Of five and six years of age they strolled away at noon, and instead of going home "followed their noses" and kept on walking, finally winding up at Franklin school, where they were found two hours after school had closed.

Prof. Stedinger has enrolled 1,000 pupils in German classes. At Lake school the German class numbers 200 and the classes are large in other schools.

Petitions for teaching Bohemian in Comenius school have been received by the board and Superintendent Graff has asked the principal of the school to secure the names of those who want to study the language. If a sufficient number enroll a class will be started.

CHARLEY WHITE VISITS HIS OMAHA FRIENDS

Charley White, aspirant to the lightweight title, stopped off in Omaha yesterday to visit with his many friends here on his way to his home in Chicago from Denver, where, on Labor day, he slipped Danny O'Brien of Seattle, a trip to dreamland in the first round of a scheduled ten-round bout. White is the lad who trimmed Willie Ritchie so decisively in Milwaukee, but failed to obtain the title, as no decisions are permitted in Wisconsin.

Charley is not after both Ritchie and Welsh, who recently beat Ritchie in London, and he intends to chase them to the furthest corner of the map in order to get a chance at the cherished belt.
