Gerrit Fort Heads The Big Association Of Passenger Men

A private telegram received last night there yesterday, at the annual convention of the American Association of Passenger Traffic Officers, Gerrit Fort, passenger traffic manager of the Union Pacific, was elected president; that the next convention will be neld in San Francisco during March of next year and that the Union Pacific has been selected as the route over which the delegates will travel west from Omaha.

The association of which Mr. Fort becomes the head is one of the oldest railroad organizations in the United States. It has more than 300 members. Every road in the country has one or more representatives in the organization.

Next year, going to San Francisco, the passenger men will probably stop over in Omaha for a day or so in order that they may pay their respects to President Fort. It is expected that they will occupy three special trains

Gerrit Fort was elected vice president at last year's meeting. Most of his railroad career has been in Omaha with the Union Pacific, where he rose from the position of assistant general passenger agent to be passenger traffic manager of road as well as of the Oregon

Beachey to Loop Loop Over Omaha For Ak-Sar-Ben

Like a rocket from the war-blurred sky of Europe, Lincoln Beachy swoops into Omaha. He is to loop the loop for Ak-Sar-Ben multitudes at the carnival grounds, October 5, 6 and 7, both in the forenoons and in the afternoons. This is considered a ten-strike by the board of governors. For some days they have been negotiating with his managers for an engagement, but all the while they have kept the matter quiet, because they wanted to make sure of landing him. Yesterday his manager was in Omaha and signed the contract. He changed his date in Denver in order to loop for Omaha and Nebraska crowds at the Ak-Sar-Ben festivities.

Since the war has attracted universal attention. Beachy has added some new thrillers to his performances. He will have a mock battleship on the carnival grounds. From the central blue sky many hundred feet in the air he will drop bombs down into the carnival grounds and dostroy this ship, in accurate imitation of the tremendous efficiency of modern war methods.

LAST DEN SHOW OF SEASON

FOR BANKERS IS DREAM Nearly 600 bankers from all parts of the state were allowed a peep into the mystic labyrinth of Ak-Sar-Ben Den last night. Samson threw his whole force of actors and his whole initiation brigade into line for one final grand effort of the season to put the bankers through the mill. The bankers had put their annual convention off till so late in the season that the king's Den shows and initiations had formally closed for the season a few days before they came.

"That won't do," was the universal clamor in Omaha when it was found that the bankers would be here too late in the

"All right," said Samson, "I'll put on a show and an initiation on purpose to accommodate the money kings of the

And such an initiation as he did put on was a scream from the first, and the bankers whose faces were pinched with war news and other cares, loosened up and roared with laughter. Eugene Ford of Alliance was the butt of the tango stunt. Henry W. Yates presided over the speaking. Dr. P. L. Hall of Lincoln, George H. Gray of Central City and R. Cain, ijr., of Omaha were the Elected Head of Nebraska Bankers' Association by Acclamation.

WAR WILL HELP AMERICANS

President Mohler of Union Pacific Points Out that it Will Enhance Securities of the United States.

Jesse C. McNish, president of the First National bank of Wisner, has been elected by acclamation as the new president of the Nebraska Bankers association. Before final adjournment of the convention. new members of the executive council were similarly chosen, as follows:

Representing the city of Omaha among Nebraska banks, Frank T. Hamilton; representing Linceln, J. A. Cline; representing group No. 4 in the state, G. H. Titus of Holdrege; members at large. Fred Velpp of Scribner and A. M. Mathers of Gering. These five men, with the following ten, who hold over, constitutte the executive council, the ruling body: M. W. Folsom, Lincoln; W. E. Rhoades, Omaha; F. S. Thompson, Albion; L. P. Serenson, Eustis; Thomas Murray, Dunbar; W. H. McDonald, North Platte; C. H. Cornell, Valentine: George J. Adams, Pender: R. O. Marnell, Nebraska City; T. L. Davis, Omaha.

William B. Hughes of Omaha, who has served as secretary of the association to the satisfaction of all its members during the last year, was chosen for that office again by the executive council. T. L. Davis of Omaha was elected treasurer and W. E. Rhodes, also of this city, was made chairman of the council.

Members of the American Bankers' association attending the state convention, held a brief meeting, and chose these officers of the national association for Nebraska: T. L. Mathews of Fremont, vice president; Luther Drake of Omaha, member of geenral nomination committee.

Adjourned Till Next Year. The visitors adjourned to meet again next year at a time and place to be fixed by the executive council. The afternoon was spent at the ball game and the even ing at an Orpheum party, followed by refreshments and speaking at the Commer cial club. W. I. Nolan made the chief address at the latter place.

At Happy Hollow in the morning, in addition to the election, speeches were made and the business of the association was finished, after which luncheon was served, with the local bankers as hosts. Prosperous conditions in all parts of from Boston brought the information that the state were reported by these representatives of the six groups into which the banks of Nebraska are organized: Thomas Murray of Dunbar, T. L. Mathews of Fremont, Mr. Graham' of Randolph, Mr. Hart of Prosser, L. M. Talmage of Grand Island, Charles P Nelron of Lone Pine.

Over, $30,000 for agricultural development is being raised among the banks of Omaha, South Omaha and Lincoln, according to the report by Carson Hildreth He is chairman of the association's agricultural development committee, organized last year, which has become the agricultural development commission of the state. Banks outside of the three cities mentioned are not asked to give to the from. It will be practically impossible state fund, as they contribute to county funds for the same purpose.

Reports Work Done. P. L. Hall of Lincoln, member of the protective committee, presented a report of good work done by it, in keeping down lesses and minimising robberies. tary Hughes is the active head of the committee.

Resolutions of a general nature were the road as well as of the Gregorian and the banker here for the entertainment of the was away from Omaha for a the banker here for the entertainment of burn and most kidney troubles. 16c and the 623 delegates attending. Observations the 623 delegates attending. Observations 11.00. All drugglets.—Advertisement. on the returning prosperity of the state eral passenger agent of the New York and nation and on the great problems and opportunities presented by the European war, were also incorporated in the resolutions. The question of having the annual convention in the spring hereafter instead of in the fall was debated and then referred to the executive council for settlement, with power to act after a referendum vote is taken of the membership.

Commends Wilson. Commending President Wilson for keeping the United States out of war with Mexico and referring to the wonderful trade opportunities now open to this country because all other great powers are busy fighting each other, W. Bowman of Topeka, secretary of the Kansas Bankers' association, declared nevertheless that if the United States now merely grasps for yeilow gold the country will have missed its opportunity

Ak's Entrance Arch Being Constructed

The Sixteenth street enviance arch for the Ak-Sar-Ben carnival grounds is now being built. The contractor has been at it for a day and a half and has the frame work completed. This is to be the main entrance, and is this year to be on Sixteenth street for the first time. Hitherto the main entrance has always been at Seventeenth or Eighteenth streets. It will be at Howard and Sixteenth this year.

BEACHEY WILL NEED LONG SPACE TO START AEROPLANE

Lincoln Beachy needs à straight stretch of 1,000 feet on which to start his aeroplane for its flights. It is puzzling the Ak-Sar-Ben authorities a little as to just what ground to find for him to start for him to start from a city street on account of the telephone and lighting wires, as well as the many trolley wires. It is likely that he will have to go outside of the city limits, get his start there, and fly to the carnival grounds above which he will do his fancy loops, his spiral dips and his inverted flying.

DREAMS.

When you dream, dream in the daytime with your eyes wide open and your faculties niert. Do not always dream of what you intend to do some day, but reserve plenty of time to carry out some of your good intentions. It will not do you or "Maggie" any good, if you merely dream of how you will provide for her In the future through insurance. This is a case where there is no question about the pleasure of realization being greater than the pleasure of anticipation. You probably have already got all there is out of anticipation.
