BIG PIGSKINNERS LIMBER UP

Eastern College Elevens Preparing for the Season's Games.

HARVARD IN SPLENDID SHAPE

Last Year's Champions Are Well Equipped to Meet Onslaught of All Aspirants to Top of Foot Ball Honors.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The heavy artillery of the eastern college foot ball brigade unlimbers today and the boom of pun and drop kick is heard on many a vasty gridiron. Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Dartmouth and many other elevens enter the field, a majority playing the initial game of their schedules. While all report excellent material from which to build up teams, which late in November will be battling for eastern foot ball supremacy, the coaches make no secret of the fact that in almost every case they are counting heavily upon veteran players about whom they will build the 1914 foot ball machines.

In this respect Harvard, which holds the 1913 honors, is unusually well equipped for the hard campaign, which includes games with Yale, Michigan, Princeton, Brown, Washington and Jefferson and Pennsylvania state. This schedule, probably the hardest that has been undertaken by an eastern team in recent years, places a heavy strain upon the team, and it is certain that far more than the usual number of players will be used in both the major and minor contests. It is fortunate, therefore, that Harvard is well supplied with first and second string veteran material. In Captain Brickley the Crimson has the most consistent drop kicker of modern foot ball. This is a great asset, but the team as a whole must be brought to within striking distance of the goal and held on defense while he gets his kicks away safely.

Harvard Has Old Backfield.

For this purpose Harvard has a majority of the line and back field which last autumn brought a championship to Cambridge. On the line Cowan and Pennek are again available as guard; Trumbull and Soucy for either center or tackle and Hardwick and Coolidge at ends. The back field is intact with Logan at quarter, Mahan and Briddle at fullback and Knight at halfback. Coach Haughton's problem is to develop from the second string and 1913 freshmen squad two tackles and one end. To select three or four suitable players from a squad of some seventy candidates is not a task beyond Haughton's reach, and with a satisfactory second string, Harvard's lineup problem should be solved early this season.

At Yale the outlook is not so satisfactory. Graduation cut heavily into the 1913 eleven, and Coach Hinkey will have to find new players for a number of positions. Of the regulars, but three of last year's veterans are left in Captain Talbot, left tackle; Quarterback Wilson and Halfback Knowles. Wilson and Knowles, between them, scored close to 50 per cent of Yale's touchdowns last autumn. There are several second string letters who should fit in acceptably in Carter, Hubbard and Brand, ends; Way, substitute tackle, and Wiser, Guernsey and MacLeth for the back field. The freshmen eleven should also yield some powerful linemen and back field material, and since Coach Hinkey will undoubtedly inaugurate new coaching policies, it may prove that he can develop a stronger machine from this more mouldable material.

Princeton Plays Open Game.

A new coaching method at Princeton mark the Tigers' 1914 season and under the circumstances the veterans available may not prove as valuable as would be the case were the old policies to be continued. It is generally understood that Princeton will play an open game, using many forms of the forward pass modelled along the lines of the Notre Dame attack as shown at West Point against the Army. If this proves correct, fast, active and rangy players rather than heavyweights will be in demand. Some of the 1913 letter players will undoubtedly prove acceptable, while new regulars may have to be developed from former freshmen and second string material. Princeton is well supplied with veterans, having Brown, Rhoads and Lamberton for end; Captain Baller for tackle, Longstrech, W. Stuart and Shenk for guards, F. Trenkman, J. Swart, Haviland and Nourse are the best of the center candidates. A new back field will have to be formed with F. Trenkman, Boland, Dickman, Briggs and Law as the leaders.

Pennsylvania and Cornell, which close the eastern college season with the Thanksgiving day game at Philadelphia, report large squads with a fair number of veterans and many promising novices and substitutes. Coach Brooke must build up a pair of fast ends and a steady center. In other respects the Quakers are well supplied with veterans, Butler and Burie are the best candidates for center; Murdock, Koons and Kelly furnish a nucleus for end; Harris and Carter are veteran tackles, while Captain Journey, Russell, Wolfe and Pepper are the leading guards. In the back field Morfin, Avery, Bolger, Merrill, Irwin and Jones all have had experience in big games, and with the new material from a squad from which a fast offensive and defensive quartet should be selected.

Dr. A. L. Shantz has an excellent squad of experienced players with which to start the season at Cornell. For linemen there are available Captain O'Hearn, Shelton, McHaffey, Zeman, Lautz, Hart, J. D. McCutcheon, Williams, Cool, Prieck, K. C. McCutcheon, Munstick, Mallory, Gallygoy, Snyder, MacDonald, Sherwood, Gilman, Carnal, Gass, Hoits and Jamieson. In the back field Phillips, Barrett, Collier, Lehr, Knauer, Taber, Hubbard and Scholtes form the foundation of a formidable aggregation of fast, active candidates.

STRICKEN AT AUTO WHEEL

Car Hits Penna and Two Are Hurt When Driver Falls from Apexley.

Stricken with apoplexy while driving his automobile on the Bustleton pike, near the Welsh road, Robert Robertson, 64 years old, 214 Mercer street, Trenton, and his wife were hurled into the road and the machine was wrecked against an iron fence. Mrs. Robertson was not seriously injured, but her husband is in a critical condition in the Frankford hospital, where he and Mrs. Robertson were taken after Policeman Wolfhart found them following the accident.

The woman said she and her husband were driving at a fair rate of speed, going north on the pike, when suddenly Robertson uttered a groan and sank unconscious by her side. As he dropped his hand fell from the wheel and a second later the machine crashed against the fence—Philadelphia Record.
