ECZEMA ON CHILD'S BODY Began as Rash, Itched so Had to Hold His Hands While Sleeping, Clothing Irritated Trouble, Face and Scalp Covered, Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

978 High St., Oshkosh, Wis.—"When about two months old my nephew had some break out on different parts of his body. The trouble first began as a rash which itched so at night someone always held his hands even while sleeping as at the least scratching it would run together and form scales. His night-clothes had to have mittens on them or the scales would be raw and bleeding by morning. His clothing or the least friction irritated the trouble. His face and scalp were covered. They called it eczema.

"We tried different treatments but none cured him. At three years old we commenced the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. We could see an improvement after the first month's treatment. It took nearly a year to effect a complete cure and he never had anything like it since." (Signed) Mrs. F. Scofield, Mar. 21, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail Care for your hair with Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. They keep the scalp clean and free from dandruff, stop itching and irritation and promote natural hair-growing conditions when all else fails. Although Cuticura Soap (25c) and Cuticura Ointment (50c) are sold by druggists everywhere, a sample of each with 35-p. skin book will be sent free upon request. Address: "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

'LITTLE GIANT' WANTS PEACE

Demo Chairman Goes Over Nebraska Situation with Senator.

HITCHCOCK FOR SETTLEMENT

Ten Postoffices and Three Big State Jobs Still in Air, Due to Bryan Opposition to the Senator.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(Special Telegram.)—"The little giant of Grand Island," Chairman W. H. Thompson of the democratic state committee, and Senator Hitchcock "got down to brass tacks" today in a number of Nebraska patronage matters when the two held a long conference over what already has been done in the distribution of political pie in the prairie state and what possibly may be done in the future, in connection with, of course, what may be accomplished toward feeding the hungry at the pie counter before election day rolls around.

Bryan Not in Capital. Had Secretary Bryan been in the city, Judge Thompson said at once have repaired to him following the interview with Senator Hitchcock and endeavored to arrange a truce at least of some sort by which the democrats of the state could be lined up for harmony for the conflict in November. Possibly the "little pacificator," as the democratic chairman has come to be known, may wait for this purpose until Mr. Bryan comes back, he said tonight, possibly not. At any rate, he said he would like to take back home some cheering news for the faithful.

Offices Still in Air. Neither Senator Hitchcock nor Judge Thompson would go into any details regarding their conference today. Considerable of the time was taken up in going over the postoffice appointments made by Senator Hitchcock in the three congressional districts represented by republicans in the house. Sixty-nine of these appointments have been confirmed by the senate, while ten postoffice recommendations made by the senator have not yet been acted upon by the administration.

"Judge Thompson seems to think it is important to get Nebraska patronage matters adjusted at this time," said Senator Hitchcock after the conference, and then with much emphasis added:

"And I thoroughly and heartily agree with him. Recommendations I have made for a number of receivers and registers of land offices have not been acted upon, and in each instance Judge Thompson agrees with me that they are selections that are good ones and should be decided upon one way or the other. Outside of these positions and the ten postoffices referred to we are pretty well up with Nebraska patronage with the exception of the three important offices of district attorney, marshal and collector of internal revenue, and if Mr. Bryan and I can come to some understanding they will be disposed of promptly."

Will the "little pacificator," with all his political acumen and earnestness, at this critical stage of the campaign be able to bring these two warring statesmen to that much-to-be-desired "understanding" is the question Washington is asking tonight. He will tackle the job, however, as it is, if he decides to await Mr. Bryan's return, which will be next Tuesday.

Politics that Will Mix with Religion Is Need of the Day

"We want politics that will mix with religion, we want religion that will mix with politics. If necessary we want the churches and the schools thrown open for meetings of a political nature," said Mrs. D. L. Craighead, addressing an unresponsive audience, chiefly of women, at Walnut Hill school last night. She produced the several arguments in favor of woman suffrage and said the duty of men is to vote at the Nebraska suffrage amendment in November.

A gang of rowdy boys almost broke up the meeting. The speaker was compelled to pause several times until a janitor quieted the gang.

Mrs. Craighead said the women would see that there were clean polling places; would stolid child labor and would assume and uphold the responsibilities of the ballot as well as men.

"The responsibility of training a son for citizenship belongs to the woman," Mrs. Craighead continued. "If a woman can train a son to be a good citizen? There is no excuse for withholding the ballot from women."

ENGINE DID NOT WAKE HIM

Boilermaker Asleep After Locomotive Hits Him, but Jumps at Whistle.

John Gorman, a boilermaker of Redwood City, had a real night's rest Thursday night.

Promptly at 7 o'clock in that city he lay down on the tracks of the Southern Pacific main line with a locomotive for a pillow. A few minutes later a locomotive knocked him twenty feet. Gorman still snored. Then he rolled out of an express wagon and fell four feet to the ground. Still he snored. A half hour later he was laid out on an operating table, his wounds dressed and then was taken for another ride and carried up a flight of stairs to a cell in the county jail. Gorman had not blinked an eye.

At 5 o'clock yesterday morning a factory whistle blew, Gorman jumped and rubbed his eyes. "Quick, Anna, my lunch bucket," he shouted. "I'm late for work."

Then he rubbed his eyes again. "Why these bars, jailer?" he asked. "Oh, they are just a few you missed yesterday," Jailer O. Parker replied. "You will have to explain the oversight to the judge."

Gorman was charged with drunkenness.—San Francisco Chronicle.
