HE woman golfers are planning to have a city championship next week at the Country club. The exact date has not been determined and will depend on other golf events to be held at the club the same week. President M. C. Peters is arranging a series of events for the men players of the club, and the women golfers will have charge of the women's tournament,

Mrs. E. H. Sprague is the present city and state champion and will undoubtedly hold her title, but it is thought that an annual tournament held in the fall will stimulate the interest in the game, and encourage the newer players to greater activities. Among the promising players who have just started this season are Miss Daphne Peters and Miss Mildred Butier, both of whom have played the inside nine holes at the Country club in less than fifty strokes, which is a remarkable score for the first year and the players will be divided into three flights.

P. E. O. Nutting Party.

One of the pleasant events of the last week was the entertainment of Chapter E of the Omaha P. E. O. society by the sister chapter at Plattamouth.

The Omaha women took the morning train and detrained at the rifle range crossing near Plattamouth, where they were met by a committee from the Plattsmouth chapter and their "brothers-inlaw" in hayrack wagons. A ride through the woods brought them to the camp where they were welcomed by the chapter and more "brothers-in-law," and an hour spent in visiting around the campfire, where a delicious and bountiful beefsteak dinner was served and followed by a nut-gathering contest.

It was some time before the city guests realized that they were finding walnuts under ash trees, bickory nuts under oaks and hazelnuts in barberry thickets, so intent were they on filling the sacks provided. The fact that their task had been made easy for them by their boats and hostesses, who for days had rifled the surrounding forests and heaped their booty within easy reach, gradually became known and the sacks were soon filled.

Then came the gathering of bitterswee and fall flowers and follege, and a rest at the camp, where it was recalled that twenty-five years ago at about that hour a little company of seven representative women of Plattamouth gathered at the home of Mrs. George F. Houseworth and were initiated into the mysteries of P. E. O. by Miss Clara B. Mason of the and congratulated the chapter upon its ing. Prizes were won by Mrs. Harry growth, influence and accomplishments, and there were talks by the presidents of the two chapters and recitations and songs and toasts until the hour for departure arrived.

A ride through the business and resi dence streets to the depot ended a day long to be remembered by the wearers of the golden star bearing its mystic letters, P. E. O.
