NO MERCY UNLESS PRZEMYSL YIELDS

Austrians Will Not Receive Quarter if They Don't Surrender to the Russians.

EAST PRUSSIA FIGHT IS FIERCE

German Wing Left in Poland, According to Dispatch from Petrograd, is Partly Enveloped.

ROME (Via Paris), Oct. 9.—A dispatch received here from Russian headquarters says that the Austrians holding the town of Przemysl, Galicia, that they will be permitted to surrender with military honors, but that if they refuse to surrender the Russians will give them no quarter. A dispatch to the Tribune from Petrograd says the Russians have driven the Germans from Wloclawek (Russian Poland) thirty-five miles southeast of Thorn, East Prussia, and have fortified themselves within a few miles of the fortress of Thorn. The German left wing in Poland, according to the dispatch, is said to have been partly enveloped.

Ferocious Fighting Continues.
PETROGRAD, Oct. 9.—An official communication issued from general headquarters says: "The fighting on the east Prussian frontier continued October 7, with ferocity. In spite of German reinforcements, all their attacks in the region of Wirballen (Russian Poland), and Philipoff have been repulsed with great losses. By a night assault the Russian troops have captured the village of Kamienka, near Bakalargewo.

"In the forest of Massalstchiznak, west of Ratchka, our troops, in a night attack, surrounded a German detachment which was partly exterminated, the others being dispersed, abandoning their rapid fire guns.

"Russian troops have also captured the town of Blasa (in Galicia, forty-three miles southwest of Cracow). In other regions there is nothing of importance to record. In the attack against the Przemysl garrison conditions are in our favor, our troops capturing by assault a strong fortification constituting the principal positions."

Advance on Cracow.
LONDON, Oct. 9.—A Petrograd dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company says the Russians have completed the administrative organization of the conquered regions around Lemberg, which has been made into a province divided into thirteen districts.

Nothing Dramatic in Battle Death, Declares Film Operator at the Front

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(Special Cablegram LONDON, Oct. 8.—(Special Cablegram to New York World and Omaha Bee.)

The correspondent of the Daily News at Antwerp gives an interesting interview with Cherry Mearton, describing some of his experiences in filming the war. He was in Alost during the German bombardment. He said:

"I tried to get pictures of shells exploding, but it is next to useless for they hardly show on the film. In the trenches, too, it is useless and rather brutal. It seems to me to try to get pictures. For instance, we who have seen them die from bullets and shrapnel, and see that they simply slip forward a little, and the whole thing is finished. They do not flinch their rifles in the air, and die in a dramatic posture. Pictures that show that can be known at once as faked.

"A dog and a cat followed us down the street and as the shells burst the dog went dodging about from one side of the road to the other, but the cat never turned a hair. It minced along behind us, seemingly unafraid.

"The men and the dog made me nervous, but the cat was reassuring. Further down, the whistle of shells followed us again, trying to pick up the Belgian street; but before the boom came that time it managed to break in the door of a shop and get inside.

"It is surprising what one will do in emergencies like that. Fortunately for the cat and dog it was a butcher's shop, and I thought they might as well have some meat as the Germans, so handed them down a leg of veal and left them eating it when I came out."

"When the war is over I know a nice, quiet place in Central Africa, and I'm going there. This job is too difficult and it is not very satisfactory working a cinematograph, when you would rather work a Mitrailleuse."

BRITISH ARMY UP AGAINST IT NOW

So Many Officers Killed, Successors to Come from Banks Instead of from 'Upper Classes.'

DEMOCRATIZATION THE RESULT

Pick of Sergeants Have Already Been Given Shoulder Straps Owing to Terrific Loss of Their Superiors.

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
LONDON, Sept. 28.—No less than 1,144 officers of the British army have been killed, wounded or counted among the missing in the fighting to date. This is shown by the lists of casualties among officers, already made public and tabulated, according to regiments of other commands, bringing the compilation up to September 28. The tabulations show the losses divided as follows: Killed, 28; wounded, 99; missing, 22; total, 144.

The heaviest loss in officers shown in the list is that of the Royal field artillery, of whom sixteen are given as killed, forty-nine wounded and eight missing, a total of seventy-three. The Royal army medical corps' casualties also have been heavy, totaling sixty, of whom forty-three are listed as missing. The Coldstream guards have total casualties of forty-six, nine officers having been killed and thirty-five wounded, while two are missing.

Of individuals listed among the killed the most notable is Brigadier General N. D. Finlay of the Royal artillery. The names of four colonels are included—R. C. Bond of the king's own Yorkshire light infantry; C. K. Ansell of the Fifth Dragoon guards; Sir E. R. Bradford Bart of the Seaforth Highlanders and F. R. R. Boleau of the Royal engineers, who was chief staff officer of the Third Division. Lieutenant colonels listed as killed are: C. A. H. Brett, Suffolk regiment; A. M. Dykes, Royal Lancaster regiment; G. C. K. Knight, Royal North Lancashire; L. G. Le Marchant, East Lancashire; E. H. Montrosser, Royal Sussex; Warren, West Surrey; J. G. Hogg, Fourth Hussars; Grant Duff, Black Watch; C. Dalton, Royal army medical corps.

The British army, it seems sure, will come out of the present war largely, if not completely, democratized. Traditionally the officers have come from the upper class and the ranks from the lower. This was thought to be necessary for discipline, as the ranks were believed to have small respect for commanders of their own social station. But war conditions have made it necessary that competent men be advanced on purely military merit. The situation is particularly serious at the front, where, as the lists indicate, the loss of officers has been terrific. Here the pick of the sergeants are already being given shoulder straps.

Where the men are to come from to officer the new volunteer army of 1,000,000 is a matter of serious concern to the war office. Officers retired by age or disabilities are acting as drill masters, but fit and active men must be found to take charge when the new force goes to the front. This means rapid promotion for those of military talent. Further promotions and shakeups will follow under the test of fire.

A Different Meaning. One of the principal owners of a promising gold mine was expatiating on its merits to a capitalist and prospective investor. He described the vein in which the miners were working, showing him specimens of the ore, and backed up his statements with the written opinions of experts. "Well," admitted the capitalist, "it looks as if it might be a good investment. As my old Uncle Hiram would say, it has 'pinta'."

"Pinta?" exclaimed the owner, carried away perhaps by his over-anxiety: "why, sir, we're in quartz right now!"
