

When You Hear That Dinner Bell

Does Your Mind Go Back to the Days When You Could Eat Like a Farm Hand?

The memory of an appetite is a wonderful thing. The loss of stomach power—the ability to eat—the yearning after good old-fashioned food—that condition is pitiful. Why can't you realize what thousands of others have demonstrated?

First Man—"I'm as hungry as a bear."
Second Man—"Wait till I get a plateful of good old corned beef and cabbage."

Look at the above illustration. Most every one remembers such a scene. Fancy yourself wild for food now. Fancy yourself able to eat as one of these men can eat.

Use a little common sense and look at your stomach trouble in a practical manner. Something has gone wrong with your digestive apparatus. Set your body machinery right. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are Nature's own way to digesting food. By eating one of these tablets after each meal you digest that meal, digesting that meal means easing the work of the stomach, intestines, liver and pancreas and storing up new materials for digesting future meals.

Get what you will and when you will, but always carry a little Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet in your pocket. In a short time you will be surprised at the glassiness of spirit with which you look on food.

Go to your druggist anywhere and buy a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets this very day.

To anyone wishing a free trial of these tablets please address F. A. Stuart Co., 128 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich., and a small sample package will be mailed free.

A Responsive Fuel
Vulcan responds to the touch of the draft like a well-trained horse to the rein. The reason is simple—Vulcan is a more concentrated, not a more condensed fuel. It does not settle and cake in the fire-box like coal, thus preventing a draft through the fuel-body. Opening the draft on a coal fire is often like opening a faucet on a clogged pipe—nothing happens until the pressure is great enough to blow out the obstruction—until heat enough is generated to burn the whole mass of fuel. This is wasteful.

Try Vulcan Coke and see the difference—anybody can manage it, it has no peculiarities to take into consideration. It costs less than hard coal, and wherever Anthracite is good, Vulcan is better.

T. F. QUINLAN TO BRANDEIS

Genial General Manager of Hayden Bros. Makes a Change.

WILL TAKE UP NEW DUTIES

Remarkable Rise of Young Man Who a Short Time Ago Was a Clerk in the Store of Hayden Bros.

Thomas F. Quinlan, general manager of Hayden Brothers stores has resigned his position to become assistant to George Brandeis, in charge of the Brandeis interests in this city. A. D. Brandeis felt that he needed a man like Quinlan to assist in the management of the many enterprises which are under his care in this city. Mr. Brandeis expects to add several departments to his now immense business.

Not many years ago Mr. Quinlan came from Blair to assume a clerkship in Hayden Brothers store and by his recognized ability he has worked himself to the front until he was made general manager of the entire store, having been promoted to that position from manager of the piano department. Mr. Quinlan not only enjoys a great wide local acquaintance, but is well and favorably known to men in the commercial world from coast to coast.

Has Wide Acquaintance. Probably no man in Omaha has a wider acquaintance than Tom Quinlan. As a director of the Commercial club, the Associated Retailers and the Commercial Building and Loan association and the Carter Lake club and as a member of the Omaha club and various other organizations he has been especially active in addition to the hard work in connection with the management of the store. Quinlan is also a colonel on Governor Moorehead's staff.

A. D. Brandeis is planning numerous activities in the near future for the Brandeis interests in Omaha, including the opening of the American theater, putting additional stories on the old Brandeis store building on the northwest corner of Sixteenth and Douglas streets, and installing numerous improvements, including recreation, library and rest rooms for the women employees of the store.

Mr. Quinlan says that it is with deep regret that he leaves his old associates at Hayden Brothers, with whom he has worked for twenty years, but the inducement of a larger field and a better position led him to make the decision.

Mr. Quinlan expects to take up his new duties about November 1.

George Brandeis Pleased. "Yes, it is true that Mr. Quinlan has accepted a position with our firm, and I am most happy to have him associated with us," said George Brandeis. "He will be my assistant, both in the store and outside, although his exact duties are not yet mapped out in detail, as I didn't care so much in what capacity he exercises his ability, so long as it is for J. L. Brandeis & Sons."

"My cousin, Arthur D. Brandeis, owner of this business, shares my sentiments fully regarding Mr. Quinlan and is as delighted as I am with the arrangement."

Continuing, Mr. Brandeis said: "The enormous business of the Brandeis Stores with its steady yearly growth has been a continuous surprise to me. When I came to Omaha I had no idea that I would not be able to carry it on indefinitely with the adequate force already established. But it was only a few months till the demands of the business were greater than my strength and capacity, and I was fortunate in securing Karl N. Louis of Chicago as assistant in the merchandising end. Now he has come to a point where I realize the desirability of an assistant in carrying out the general policy and general conduct of the business."

"The very first time I met Mr. Quinlan I was impressed with his energy and ability and I thought his aggressive and agreeable personality would be a great acquisition for the Brandeis Stores. I do not know the exact day he will assume his duties here, but hope it will be soon, as we contemplate some large improvements, and I am waiting now till I can have the benefit of Mr. Quinlan's suggestions."

"No, there will be absolutely no other changes in the personnel of our force. It is my honest opinion," said Mr. Brandeis, "that in associating Mr. Quinlan with Mr. Louis, Superintendent Singer, Mr. Thomas and our present efficient corps of buyers and managers, we have the strongest organization of any retail house west of Chicago."

Federal Court Opens With Damage Suit

With the convening of the grand and petit juries and the formal opening of trials, the federal district court was a scene of life and activity. Judge Paige Morris of Duluth presided and heard the preliminary evidence of the suit brought by John Lothrop against the Chicago & Minneapolis railroad, in which the plaintiff asks a claim of $5,000 damages for being ejected from a railway station in Washington county in the winter of 1907. Lothrop alleges he suffered an illness as a result of the exposure.

Commercial Club Buys Some Cotton

Cotton to the value of $300 is soon to become the property of the Commercial club of Omaha, as a help to the "Buy a Bale of Cotton" movement, which seeks to find a means for the southern planter to turn their cotton crop to cash, in spite of the fact that the European markets are closed.

Acute Indigestion. "I was annoyed for over a year by attacks of acute indigestion, followed by constipation," writes Mrs. M. J. Galagher, Geneva, N. Y. "I tried everything that was recommended to me for this complaint, but nothing did me much good until about four months ago I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and procured a bottle of them from our druggist. I soon realized that I had gotten the right thing, for they helped me at once. Since taking two bottles of them I can eat heartily without any bad effects." Sold by all dealers.—Advertisement.

Malchien Has Been Twenty-Five Years With Brandeis Stores

Twenty-five years ago today G. H. Malchien applied to Arthur D. Brandeis for a position as bookkeeper at the original Boston Store, then occupying a space 6x132 feet at Sixteenth and Douglas. "What else besides keeping books can you do?" asked Mr. Brandeis. "Well, I will try to do anything else you ask me to do," was Mr. Malchien's reply.

Mr. Malchien got the position, and besides keeping books for the little Boston Store, he assisted during rush hours in selling goods, wrapping bundles and acting as floor walker, and by strict attention to business he has worked himself up gradually to the position of confidential man and treasurer of the present firm of J. L. Brandeis & Sons.

"I went through all the ups and downs of this enterprising firm in Omaha and was often appalled at the nerve displayed in their large undertakings, and the immense chance for success they took. The saddest occurrence during my connection with this firm was the sudden death of Emil Brandeis, who lost his life on the Titanic, as we worked side by side for twenty-three years. He was a big-hearted man and gave freely to charity and to those who were 'down and out,' of which very few knew."

When Mr. Malchien started keeping books for the "Little Boston Store" there were thirty-two clerks employed by the Brandeis firm and now there are over 1200 employees.

Mr. Malchien, besides being confidential man and office manager of the firm of J. L. Brandeis & Sons, is also treasurer of the Brandeis Realty company and the Brandeis Theater Building company. He also has charge of the finances of the various Brandeis building companies, such as the American Realty company, Douglas auditorium, Courthouse building, Boston Store Building company and the Empress Theater Building company.

ALL AUTO HEADLIGHTS MUST NOW BE DIMMED

From now on, drivers of vehicles using blinding headlights will be arrested as often as police officers can catch them. The new city ordinance governing auto headlights is now in effect. Fourteen drivers were arrested Monday night and brought into court for their first warning and reprimand. Second offense means a stiff fine.

The following were brought into court: J. B. Rahm, Lloyd Smith, A. J. Sisek, George Adams, Joseph Pink, C. W. Betts, W. O. Trice, A. E. Mohler, Muller Geiger, B. Blotcky, T. J. O'Neill, C. J. Sibernsen, W. E. Linn and R. Marnet.

Ordinary soap makes a good substance with which to dim headlights, the motorcycle officers say.

Stomach Relief! No Indigestion, Gas, Sourness—Pape's Diapepsin

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you must not injure it with drastic drugs. Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; it's harmlessness; it's certain unflinching action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. It's millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store, and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach, all such distress vanishes. It's promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.—Advertisement.

FARMERS MEET IN DECEMBER

Nebraska Congress to Convene in Omaha from Eighth to Tenth. MANY SPEAKERS WILL COME.

Representatives of Various Agricultural Organizations Out in State to Address the Assembly on Pertinent Topics.

The program for the meeting of the Nebraska Farm congress in Omaha, December 8 to 10, is rapidly being shaped into completion. Among those who are scheduled to appear in leading talks and discussions are Dr. L. C. Kirin, state veterinarian; George E. Condra, J. J. McAllister, president of the state water power commission; C. H. Gustafson, president of the State Farmers' union; J. D. Ream of Broken Bow, A. E. Sheldon, head of the Legislative Reference bureau, and many others.

Manager E. V. Parrish of the Bureau of Publicity of Omaha is sending out over 1,000 invitations to the various farmers' organizations in the state. The membership in the organization is by farmers' organizations rather than by individuals. There are over 1,000 such organizations in the state. Each one is entitled to ten delegates, which means that there will be at least 10,000 accredited delegates, who will have credentials if they are to present them. Of course, there never has been a time that all accredited delegates attended the meeting.

Among the organizations that are entitled to delegations in this congress are the farmers' institutes, of which there are 317 in the state; the farmers' mutual insurance companies, of which there are sixty in the state; the co-operative creamery associations, of which there are twenty-four in the state; the farmers' co-operative grain and live stock associations, of which there are 22; the granges, of which there are ninety-one; the state agricultural associations, of which there are thirty-two, and the county fair associations, of which there are fifty-three.

PICKPOCKETS RELEASED AT CLOSE OF CARNIVAL

A dozen professional pickpockets, known to the police in every large city, and whose photographs regularly adorn pages of a police magazine, were given their freedom by Police Magistrate Foster. The "dips" were arrested early last week and held in jail until after carnival. They were then arraigned on vagrancy charges.

The fact that no wallets were stolen during the carnival this year is due to the activity of the police in rounding up the pickpockets as soon as they got into town and holding the well known ones until after the festival was over.
