BOTH SIDES CLAIM ELECTION

Democratic and Republican Headquarters Sarc of Triumph.

GEORGE SAYS BOURBON BLUFF

Asserts They Have No Idea of Doing Any More Than Putting Morehead and Maupin Over.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Nov. 1.—(Special.)—The present political campaign appears to be about all over except the shouting, but who will have the pleasure of making the noise is not agreed at all by the managers of the different campaigns.

Says Demos Not Sanguine. The democratic state committee has no idea of electing anybody except Maupin and Morehead and they are not very sanguine on those two.

The most gratifying results are evident to everyone as a finale to the democratic campaign for 1914. The work of the committee is, of course, but a setting of the great feature of it all which we consider the united efforts of Secretary Bryan and Senator Hitchcock.

It is well known that extravagant figures is a method often employed by our political opponents as a last straw for an expiring cause. We do not wish to make claims calculated to scare voters into our columns.

We are bound to gain in the number of congressmen from Nebraska; this is based not alone on the great popularity of the Wilson regime, but the personality and excellence of our candidates.

Chairman Frank Corick of the progressive committee says: "The progressive party of Nebraska has fought the campaign of 1914 against fearful odds. To begin with, a systematic effort on the part of old party politicians and press was made to deceive the people into the idea that the republican candidate would have the support of Colonel Roosevelt.

both in private and public life. It is conceded everywhere that the platform is a strong document, presenting a well defined course for the improvement and advancement of the affairs of the commonwealth, defining its issue and training nowhere with the hope of obtaining votes.

Campaign Interesting. Just before leaving for home Mr. Reavis said: "While the campaign has been arduous, it has been very interesting. I have made something like 150 speeches, and with but three exceptions have visited every town in the district.

Students Urged to Keep Out of Petty Politics by Reese

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Nov. 1.—(Special.)—Away back in 1892, said a well-known Nebraska citizen at the Leland hotel today, "Chief Justice M. R. Reese, now a nonpartisan candidate for chief justice, cautioned the young men of the state to keep out of petty political strife.

As a lawyer, Judge Reese has followed his own precepts. As a public prosecutor in the "Big Fourth" judicial district he made an enviable record in the early days. Years of hard work in law office and on the bench have made him the master of Nebraska legal lore. As a jurist, his admirers claim, he is without an equal in the state. Under his leadership the law college of the state university made tremendous strides and its graduates are his devoted admirers.

Vibration Bothers Astronomers on the University Campus

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Nov. 1.—(Special.)—One evening last week a number of people were invited to visit the university and take a view of the moon and stars through the big new telescope, one of the valuable additions to the institution.

More than 100 people visited the university observatory last evening to secure a view of the moon through the big telescope. Professor Sweeney in a short lecture explained the arrangement of the universe as it is known to scientists and answered questions on the phenomena of the heavens.

Through the campaign those in favor of the state farm have based their plea on the "influence" which now surrounds the university. The one spoken of above has been one of them, and there have been others. In each instance the university alumni home campus extension committee has used lots of space and dollars worth of postage trying to make out there was nothing wrong with the present location.

vibrations made by the switch engines and the street cars. There are social vibrations surrounding the university in its present location more noticeable than those produced by switch engines and street cars and which are also to be considered in connection with the question of consolidation.

Wilson and Roosevelt Agree on the principle of the Nebraska Workmen's Compensation Law

Father of New Jersey's compensation law—the first and most successful in the United States—in which this Nebraska law is patterned.

Endorsed also by La Follette, Bryan, Taft, Gompers, Mitchell and every "Big Man" of the day; Pledged by all National Party Platforms

Champion, as President of the United States and in the "Outlook," of Workmen's Compensation laws for every state in the Union.

"Workmen's compensation is a measure of humanity, right and justice. I hope to see the principle established in every state."—Woodrow Wilson. "No injured man should be obliged to sue his employer for damages. The employer should be his best friend in time of disability—and workmen's compensation brings this about by providing automatic relief for every injury."—Theodore Roosevelt.

As showing that both organized labor and the owners of our mills and factories (the only ones affected) wish to accord the new system a fair trial, read these resolutions:

RESOLVED—That this convention urge the members of Trades Unions and friends of the wage earners to vote for the Workmen's Compensation Law of 1913 to the end that Nebraska may enact into law the principle of compensation, and be in the van of progressive states in eliminating a vast economic waste which falls wholly under the present system on the wage earner, the one who can least afford to carry the burden.

Recognizing the unfairness of the present Employer's Liability Law and the necessity for a system which will award fixed and prompt payments for all injuries to employes, without litigation or deduction of attorney's fees or court expenses, and believing further that such a system will tend to reduce the number of accidents in our mills and factories, be it RESOLVED, That this Association urges the voters of Nebraska to vote "YES" on the Workmen's Compensation Law at the General Election to be held November 3d. NEBRASKA MANUFACTURER'S ASS'N.

The Compensation Law does not apply to employers having less than five employes to householders, to farmers—nor to the employes of any of them.

Every voter--whether affected by the law or not--is urged to Vote "YES" on the Workmen's Compensation Law at the General Election, November 3d

Vote for a Doctor for County Coroner and Separate the Coroner's Office From the Undertaking Business! DR. WILLARD H. QUIGLEY, Candidate for Coroner. The statutes of Nebraska provide that the duties of a coroner are to hold inquests and decide the cause of death; therefore the office belongs to a physician, who is qualified by special training.
