GERMANS IN FRENCH WOODS

Scattered Detachments of Teutons Left Behind When Army Moves.

BURY SEVENTY THOUSAND

Eight Hundred Paris Firemen Lay Away That Many Dead—Thirty Thousand of Their Own Nationality.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)
ESTERNAY, France, Oct. 15.—Parties of German soldiers separated from the main bodies of troops during the German retreat from the Marne are still hiding in the woods in this vicinity. The French search parties based on and there are too few soldiers left in this part of France to hunt down the German stragglers. They live upon the country but otherwise commit no depredations.

Along the whole countryside peasants who have returned point out burial places of those who fell in the fierce fighting in this neighborhood and for sixty miles to the east. This detour were buried by 800 Paris firemen, assisted by 600 civilian laborers. It is said that the tally kept by the firemen shows that 70,000 dead were buried, about 30,000 of them French. The greatest slaughter was in the marshes near Suzanne. Fifteen thousand dead are buried in long trenches at the bottom of a wooded hill.

French and Germans are buried separately. On the long mounds above the French trenches have been set up wooden crosses; a few wild flowers have been scattered on the mounds and sometimes large stones have been placed at either end. Caps of French soldiers, showing the name of the regiment, have been placed on the crosses of the stones. The trenches in which the Germans are buried are unmarked. The son of General von Moltke is buried near Easternay.

Champillon Destroyed.
Champillon, about two miles southeast of Coulommiers, is the farthest place south reached by the Germans on their march for the investment of Paris. The village did not have more than twenty houses. All were burned. Twelve inhabitants have returned and among other repairs have patched up the school-house. Six children are being taught there.

Strawn over the plain near Fere-Champenoise are small piles of empty cartridge shells, pieces of broken rifles, artillery cartridges, fragments of uniforms and various other wreckage from the fighting. In an open space about two miles long by a mile wide were some thickets where the German quick-firers had been concealed. On the ridge behind were placed long-range guns, which were doing great damage to the French. It was here that three regiments of Turcos asked to be allowed to charge the height on which was the artillery. Nothing was known of the quick-firers in the bushes in the middle of the field. The three regiments started. When they were within easy range the German quick-firers opened upon them. Only about half a regiment succeeded in getting forward and taking the machine guns. Reserves were then brought up and another charge resulted in the capture of the German guns on the hills after tremendous hand-to-hand encounters.

GERMAN TROOPS HELP THE BRUSSELS POLICE

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)
BRUSSELS, Oct. 15.—Absolute order is maintained by 150 German troops in cooperation with the Brussels police. English, Russian and French subjects who are between the ages of 16 and 45 residing here are being arrested and sent to Germany as prisoners of war. Belgian men of arms-bearing ages are being forced to labor upon military works. The German military government is enforcing contributions by drawing checks upon the banks and compelling the banks to cash them. No money may be paid out to depositors. English or French newspapers are sold furtively at from 5 to 10 francs apiece. The vendors carry on this trade at great personal risk.

Modestly Related.

Cutting Down of Christmas Gifts Would Hurt Trade

Do not think of cutting down your Christmas presents. Give freely according to your means. If your heart is heavy for the agonized people of Europe you need not be frugal in giving. But whether the giving is joyous or in the minor key, there never was a Christmas when the obligation to give was more pressing.

The proposal to cut off Christmas presents grows out of that well-meaning but mistaken view of life which dwells so much on the superficially "practical" side that is blind to all the practical considerations underlying the mainly graceful or decorative aspects of life. A general contraction of Christmas presents making this year would unquestionably have far-reaching disastrous effects.

It would mean to manufacturers and jobbers heavy unsold stocks; to retailers it would mean shrinkage of trade and disappearance of profits; to the transportation interests it would mean the loss of regular annual business; to the wage workers it would mean widespread lack of employment. With many out of work in this city at present it is pitiful to think of the eagerness with which some thousands of men and women must look forward to the Christmas flurry as a hope for earning a few days' pay. How much more pitiful would it be if this hope were defeated.

Wise givers will naturally adapt their Christmas remembrances in this troubled year to the prevailing temper. Utilitarian consideration will be likely to guide them to an unusual extent. But it is to be hoped that the inspired trifle will not be entirely dropped out of currency. The pretty card with genuine good will behind its conventional wishes, the foolish bit of finery or unnecessary ornament that expresses a sympathetic thought, the sparkling stone which is ultra-precious because of the sentiment it betokens, will serve not only to warm the festive glow but further—and here let the practical folk take heed—the money spent on them, filtering back over the counter through the channels of trade to the starting place of the toy or its materials, will help in some degree, great or little, a long line of anxious capitalists and workers, great and small, to weather hard times.

It is the general privilege and joyous duty of all to relax their purse strings this year for Christmas presents as far as prudence will allow.

Importation Laws of England Hard on Dogs of War Refugees

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)
DOVER, Oct. 15.—England has a law regulating the importation of dogs which has caused great grief to refugees forced to seek the safety of British soil. The law requires all dogs to be held in quarantine for six months before they can be given liberty in England, and officials at ports of entry have no authority to waive it in any case.

Many Belgian women and children saved their dogs when war drove them from home, and managed to keep their pets through all the rush and scramble of the exodus, but when they reached Folkestone, Dover and other ports of entry they were told that English laws would not admit animals which were not held for six months.

One woman at Folkestone asked to be taken back to Ostend with her dog, but Ostend was closed. In fact it was probably in the hands of the Germans, who held less terror for her than the order that she must leave her dog. Finally she consented to have one of her friends drown the pet, as she said she could not bear to have it looked up in a compound for six months.

Few refugees had any knowledge of the strict English law. However, some of the experienced travelers who came from Belgium managed to slip small pets past inspectors because of the great rush and the hurried examination given all luggage.

One Flemish refugee brought his wife, eleven children and a dog to Folkestone. He was penniless, but unwilling to part from the dog, and willing that quarters be obtained for the family in Ostend so they might be able to visit the dog every day.

Women Police to Stop Women Following English Soldiers

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)
LONDON, Oct. 15.—In order to help soldiers observe Lord Kitchener's injunction to be more than kiddie courteous to women the National Union of Women Workers has undertaken the duty of patrolling the territory outside the security lines. The services of the women police are gladly accepted, since the army authorities complain that the soldiers are being lured from Lord Kitchener's chilly ideal by women camp followers. Not only young girls, but the matured have been causing serious infractions of discipline at the camps, causing recruits to overstay leave and run the guard lines.

Meantime an effort is made to increase camp attractions such as concerts and to provide other means of diverting the men.

The first police woman in London took her station last week in the Old Bailey. Her special duty is to look after the cases of women and children. She is one of a corps being trained by Miss Boyle of the Women's Freedom League. The league has offered to provide female patrols for London's streets and parks in the interest of the proprietors, but its offer has not yet been accepted by the police department.

CARPENTERS BUILDING ENGLISH ARMY QUARTERS

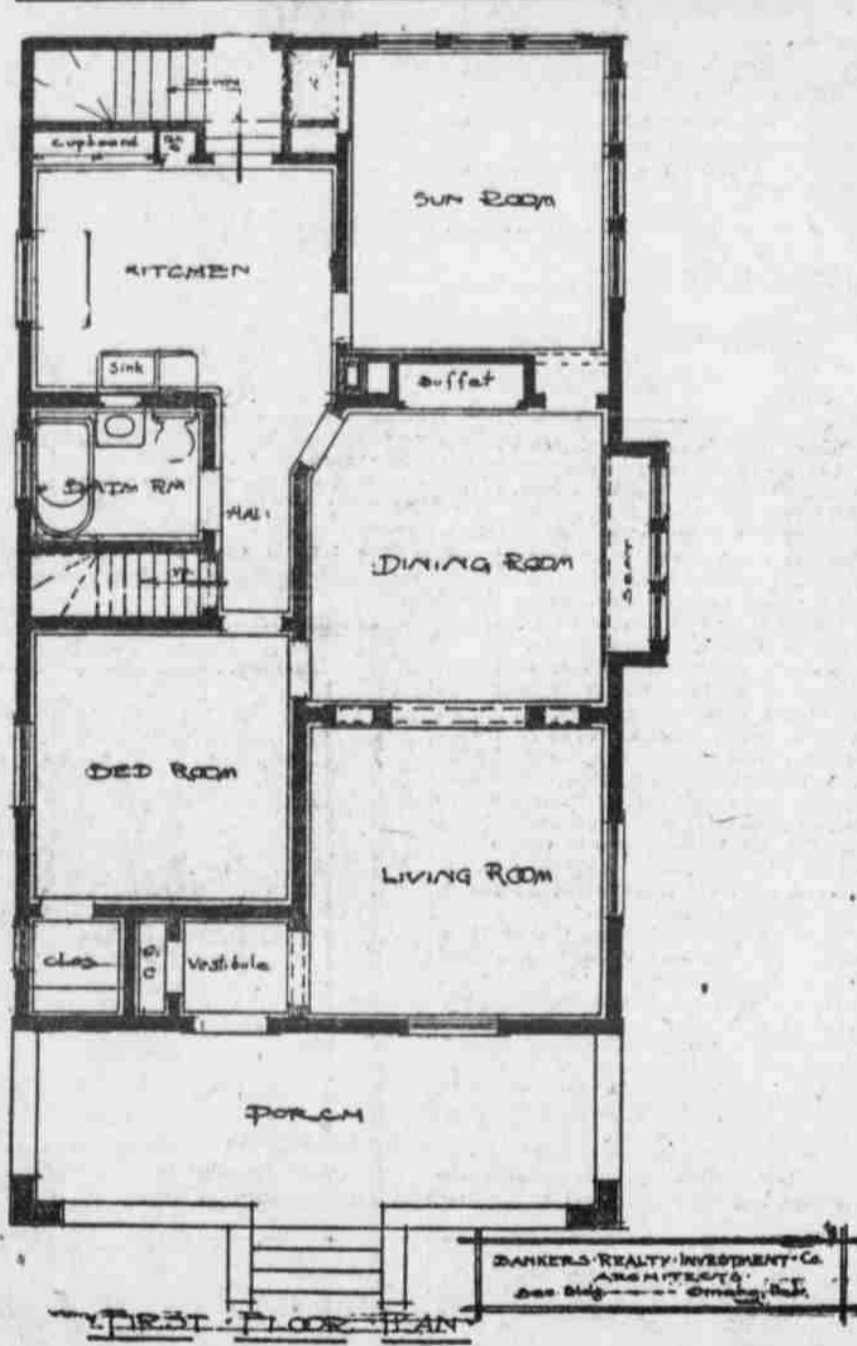

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
LONDON, Oct. 15.—Carpenters are working day and night at the army campments to provide winter quarters for the recruits of Lord Kitchener's new force.

The new huts are not warm structures, being either of wooden or corrugated iron walls with iron roofs. But their completion before winter is considered highly important to the health of the men, who are now sheltered in tents.

About 60,000 are encamped on the Salisbury plains in the southern part of England. They are being housed at the rate of 4,000 a day. Portable huts are to be sent to the expeditionary force as soon as a fixed base is established.

Suggestions for the New Home

Design for Moderate Priced House

This is a splendid design for a moderate priced home. The rooms are all large, well lighted and arranged to give a home of this size the luxuries of a much larger one. The neat vestibule, coat closet with mirror door, colonnade opening, buffet and large sun room, are very attractive features. The attic can be finished into two large bedrooms. An attic stairway is built in the house shown above. Persons desiring further information concerning this, place can do so by getting into touch with the Bankers Realty Investment company, ground floor, Bee building, by whom this house as shown above was constructed.

REAL ESTATE SALES CASH

Many Omahans Paying Cash Money on Real Estate Purchases.

PROVES OMAHA'S PROSPERITY

If Reported "Hard Times" Really True Real Estate Deals Would All Be of the "Easy Term" Variety.

In view of the feeling among a few people in this part of the country that times are a little hard, it is interesting to hear of the numerous cash sales which are being made by Omaha real estate men. If conditions were actually as some think they are, one would expect to see practically all real estate sales made on easy terms.

For example, the following sales were made recently through the Osborne Realty company for cash: Francis McGivern, $4,000; Tillie Norberg, 2196 South Thirty-third, to Fred Marconnet, $4,000; Traver Bros., 323 Parker, to Anna Heimbach, $2,500; building lot to Traver Bros., Twenty-seventh and Burdette, $500.

The following sales were made through the same company on which from one-third to one-half cash was paid on the spot: Fred Robertson's house, at 236 South Thirty-fifth, to Clifford Stribby, $2,000; John Newman's house on Woodworth avenue, to Gilford Pomeroy, $3,500; Emma Sumner's house at 431 North Thirty-sixth avenue, to George Faxon, $2,300; Traver Bros., 322 Parker, to Martha Larson, $2,500.

This part of the country is going to be more prosperous than ever, because of the European war. Omaha is completely tied to its rural districts and any stimulus to the latter is a stimulus to the city.

There is every cause for optimism and very little excuse for pessimism. Prospects were never brighter than they are today, and everybody will benefit if everybody strives to take full advantage of the situation.

WESTERN AUTO SUPPLY CO. REPORTS INCREASED TRADE

The Western Automobile Supply company of Omaha is one of the best equipped automobile supply houses in Omaha, and its business this year is far in excess of the business done in October a year ago. It is fully equipped and carries in stock most everything that an automobile owner or dealer needs. It's making some changes in its building to meet the demands of this increase in business. They report good sales for this month so far.

WEST AHEAD OF EAST IN INTERIOR LIGHTING

The west is far ahead of the east in appreciation of the point of interior light in the construction of buildings, according to Construction News, and is planning buildings for light and air and access on the basis that these command more tenants and more rent.

Western landlords recognize that it pays to sacrifice a large part of the area of the site in each building floor for higher rentals can be obtained for the net space, but more particularly if the building can be kept full, and they realize that the less you build to meet existing conditions the less will be the loss if a change or removal of the building becomes necessary.

Space, irrespective of light, air and access, is of no value at all, but acres of expensive floors have been and are being added on the basis that it is. The stolen light is, of course, responsible for much of this mistaken attitude, says the News. When a box of a building can be run up on a site occupying 85 per cent of the area it looks like a lot of valuable property on each floor. Much of the interior is, however, dependent for light on side windows overlooking abutting property. Usually this is built upon later, and then the space inside the building is darkened and its value lessened. Sooner or later the tenants are hurt and their costs increased by artificial light, and out they go to get a reduction of rental which "sweetens" their stay.

COURT ORDERS PELL COTTON SOLD AT 9 CENTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Federal Judge Mayer signed an order today permitting the sale at 9 cents a pound of 90,000 bales of cotton owned by the suspended firm of S. H. P. Pell & Co. to a cotton corporation syndicate. This decision left the New York Cotton exchange free to decide upon an early date of reopening.
