HOGS—Supplies were even larger than on Wednesday, and early killer bids showed a tendency toward lower prices, being in some instances as much as a dime lower. Sellers were asking strong to higher figures, and although it was some time before buyers showed any signs of giving in, they finally raised their hands until first sales were made on a nearly steady basis. Even at this time only a few loads changed hands and buyers were forced to give fully steady prices before the bulk of the offerings was cashed. Trade was not very active until the close, when a little flurry, caused by fresh shipping orders coming into competition with the packers, put the last sales on a strong to 5c higher level. Shippers were fairly consistent buyers throughout the trade and their purchases today were fully as large, if not larger, thair any other day since the closing of the Chicago market. Evertyhing had been sold by an early hour.

SHEEP—The receipts were not materially different from Wednesday's market, fed western lambs made up the bulk of the offerings, and if anything the general quality would not average up as well as sill confined to Nebraska and the west ern range, with the exception of Montana, a quarantined state. Most of the range shipments, however, are in for this year, there besing comparatively little on the market this morning.
