SCHOOL AND COLLEGE WORK

Marked Increase in Attendance at American Universities. —NEBRASKA AMONG THE GAINERS —Professional School Steadily Moving Toward Higher Standards—Doings in Nearby Schools. —The prediction made late last summer that American universities would show gains in students owing to the disruption of Europe by war is confirmed to some extent by statistics compiled by the Boston Transcript. Of more than sixty representative American universities and colleges only nine show a decreased enrollment this school year compared with the preceding year. Harvard, Boston, Brown and Tufts' report considerably larger attendance. Yale's gain is slight but satisfactory. Columbia, counting the summer sessions, Barnard college and other affiliated schools, has passed the 30,000 mark and is today the world's largest university. California, Illinois, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Michigan, New York university and Wisconsin are all rapidly becoming good sized towns in themselves. Nebraska university shows a gain of forty-one, its total enrollment being 2,733. The number of new students is 93; last fall it was 74. —The State University of Iowa this fall takes the first step in raising the standards of its college of law. One year of liberal arts work is now required for entrance to this department; in 1913 two years of college work will be demanded. —"It is apparent," comments the Transcript, "that the requirements for admission to the professional schools are gradually becoming standardized and that, as far as the undergraduate college is concerned, we are steadily, even slightly, moving toward an equalization of educational opportunities. The opening of this year half a dozen universities—mostly located in the west—have put their law or medical schools on a higher plane. Hereafter, they will demand at least one year of college work as a prerequisite for entrance to the professional departments." —Fremont College Notes. —The senior classes of the various departments make a splendid showing in point of numbers and graduates of the primary section for the coming year. —Miss Anna Munnell of Aurora, a student in the Peru state Normal school, recently fell downstairs and hit her head on the cement footing. AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Hospital Day to Give Ball and Hold Tag Day December 12. —AFTER FUND FOR NEW BUILDING —Congressman Lobeck Addresses Informal Meeting of Bureau of Animal Industry Employees at Library Hall. —As an initial step toward building a new South Omaha hospital the board of directors has decided to give a grand ball on December 12 at the Live Stock exchange. They have also decided to make the same day "Tag Day" in South Omaha. —The purpose of the board is to use the money from such work to build in addition to the present hospital a possibility to erect a new hospital, it being conceded that to remodel the present structure would not be very advisable. —A special committee consisting of C. R. Waters, W. B. Chisik and W. H. Tarkenton was appointed at the last meeting, to take the matter in charge and to arrange for a time and place. The committee has decided on Saturday, December 12, for the ball and Mr. Cunningham of the Stock Yards company, has donated the use of the exchange hall for the purpose. —More committees will be appointed this week and further arrangements made, and everyone will be permitted to help in this good work by either buying a tag or a ticket to the ball. —School Entertainment. —In order to raise money with which to buy a phonograph for the Madison school, the Southeast Improvement club will give an entertainment at the high school in the near future. This is according to the statement of F. J. Barrett, a member of the club. The phonograph will cost $20 if that much money can be raised by the club through the entertainment. The date of the entertainment has not been fixed as yet. —Raiders Seek Gamblers. —Chief of Detectives James Sheehan and a squad of police raided an alleged gambling joint in a pool hall at Twenty-eighth and R streets. The games said to have been conducted in the room were colored, of South Omaha, has an edge on either of the two Mexican bands. Ignacio landed in town Friday night with nothing in the world except $10. He did not have a word of English and could not find any one who could jargon "Mex" with him until he met Mattox, who having lived across the Rio Grande, spoke out and Ignacio wanted a room and had money to pay for it. Mattox took Ignacio to Twenty-seventh and Q streets, where he got him a room. Ignacio gave Mattox the $10 to get changed. Mattox forgot to return with the money and Ignacio is in Agnes Calientes, as you might say. The gamblers were notified and a diplomatic note will be exchanged later. —Lobeck Talks to Inspectors. —Congressman C. O. Lobeck had a little informal meeting with the employees of the local station of the bureau of animal industry at the Library hall Friday night. The congressman gave a history of his political life and accounted for what he termed his solicitude of gumshoe congressman. Taken by and large he spoke kindly of himself and his efforts in national legislation. He advocated that the local men of the bureau get together. He also said that house resolution No. 922, which is the bill to raise government employees' salaries, will get on its feet if the cotton situation has been taken care of in the south. —Incidentally there is some curiosity among government men here as to the meaning of the new order which changes the denomination of meat inspectors to meat inspectors and under the bill, 922, some district inspectors get a raise as well as the veterinarians. Now that the meat inspectors are no more and the bill does not provide for raise in salaries for lay inspectors, the men are wondering just what the congressman's bill will mean to the men who do not belong to the veterinarian class. —Lighting New Lights. —As a demonstration of the new lighting system proposed for the business district of South Omaha under the light contract now in committee of the city council, two new standards were installed near the South Omaha city hall yesterday. The lights were turned on last night and hundreds of people passing by stopped to comment on the improvement. The standards are similar in many respects to the ones adopted by Omaha. The lights are not as high as under the old system, but they give better light in view of the fact that they come more frequently. The number of standards devised for a block runs from seven to nine. Each light has two 60-candlepower mazdas with a reflector. It is probable that the matter will come up before the council Monday night for final action. —Hot Lunches for Children. —Mrs. N. M. Graham, wife of the superintendent of local schools and president of the District Association of Women's Clubs, is making a big success in providing hot lunches for the children of the West Side school. The meals cost about 3 cents apiece, three meals being sold for a dime. —The West Side school there are many children who would have to walk a mile or more to get lunch at home during the noon hour. Many of these children are poor and the lunch obtained at home is not always substantial, it is said. The price of the meal served most places in the reach of all children. —Miller's Book Situation. —Dr. Wm. Miller of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry and in charge of the work of the bureau in Nebraska and Iowa, passed through South Omaha yesterday. Dr. Miller expressed himself as pleased with the situation generally as regards the foot and mouth disease in Nebraska and Iowa. Nebraska is clear as far as the west half of the state is concerned. Most of the infected Iowa cattle have been killed and infection centers quarantined. —Doctor Miller visited more than 20 herds, in which the foot and mouth disease had made its appearance. All of these herds were killed and the carcasses destroyed. The herds ranged in number from four or five head to 30. The government gives a note to the farmer for half his loss and the state guarantees the other half in most cases. The report on the foot and mouth disease at Henderson, Ia., turned out to

Alexander Burr was in conference with J. H. Bull, head of the State Live Stock sanitary board, here yesterday over the seizable situation among the cattle of Nebraska. For some time the United States government has maintained a quarantine against seables in ten counties of Nebraska. The national government authorities now want the state to maintain the quarantine against seables and Burr's conference with Bull was along this line. —Burr last evening for Lincoln, where he is expected to confer with Governor Morehead on the matter.
