Question of Which Faction Will Receive Possession of Vera Cruz Will Be Left to Funston for Decision.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Evacuation of Mexico City by Carranza troops will be completed tomorrow noon, according to official dispatches tonight to the state department.

May Be Strategic Move.

Villa advanced to Queretaro, which he occupied without resistance. This fact has given rise to the impression in official quarters here, that his entrance into Mexico City also will be unopposed.

Fun to Funston.

It was said officially that the question of which faction or force would receive possession of Vera Cruz had been left to General Funston for determination.

No Police Force in Capital.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 21.—The Mexican capital is tonight without a regular police force. The national palace is deserted, save for an occasional attendant guarding halls and doorways.

At Headquarters of General Obregon.

A council of war was held tonight to decide on whether the complete evacuation of the city ordered by General Carranza should be complied with.

Breaks Off Relations.

The diplomatic corps, after an extended meeting this afternoon, broke off all relations with the Carranza government.

Hundreds of Cars Loaded with Freight.

All public buildings, banks and other institutions, as well as the schools have been closed. There has been, however, no serious disorder, and General Blanco says there will be none.

The Gist of It.

Last December I had a very severe cold and was nearly down sick in bed. I bought two bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and it was only a very few days until I was completely restored to health.

merchant vessel. The ambassador, therefore, requested Captain Decker to withdraw, and he, of course, did so, proceeding to the Island of Chios.

Officials Fused.

Before Mr. Morganthau's dispatch was received the White House issued a statement saying the firing on the cruiser's launch was reported by Captain Decker as not a hostile act, but that explanations had been asked from the Turkish government.

Mission Obviously Friendly.

There is some question in the minds of diplomats here as to the right of a small boat to enter a closed port for, by its size and equipment, its mission is obviously seen to be friendly.

Morehead and Thomas High.

Governor John H. Morehead polled the largest vote among the democrats, 150,295, while A. O. Thomas for state superintendent polled the highest vote among the republicans, 106,312.

The Vote on Governor was the Highest.

The vote on governor was the highest cast for any office on the state ticket, 238,717 being cast for all the candidates for that office, while but 27,698 voters cast enough about railway commissioners to make a choice, or 11,071 less than voted for governor.

On the referendum propositions, 64,651 failed to vote on workmen's compensation, 32,984 on the army recall and 55,561 did not seem to care whether the women voted or not.

Once Asked Warship.

not anticipate any difficulty with the Ottoman government, itself, over the conditions at Smyrna, it may indicate clearly to the latter an urgent desire for protection of Americans, so that it will not be necessary to send American vessels to the harbor to look out for American interests.

Turk Charge Pleaded.

Hussein Bey, charge of the Turkish embassy here, issued a statement expressing gratification over the government's advice from Mr. Morganthau.

Most cordial relations have always existed between the two governments," he said.

"I should like this opportunity to repudiate certain statements which have recently appeared in the press, insinuating that serious and intentional censorship on the part of the Ottoman authorities was the cause of the unnecessary delay in the exchange of cablegrams between Turkey and the United States.

This is not so. Censorship undoubtedly exists in Turkey at the present moment, as it does in other countries with whom Turkey is at war and through which the message was increased when the other day a file of nearly 400 field guns was dragged through by horses that looked as weary and melancholy as their riders.

These were the guns that had defended Antwerp as well as they could. For lack of ammunition bought from the Krupp factory in June, but delivery of which was deferred, they were obliged to use French shells that were not fitted to them and which consequently tore the rifling out. The guns were going to the scrap heap, and the horses after being rested will draw back French three-inch field guns in their places.

Bursting of Shell.

After the procession of worn out guns came more refugees who were perhaps the most disheartened of those who have passed through. Some of them were at Furnes the other day when a brief lull in the fighting gave the tired troops a needed respite and when the report came that the Germans were retiring from before Dixmude, the soldiers were jolting in the warm sunshine in the streets and the officers calmly taking their afternoon tea when the bursting of a shell in a three story building on the historic square opposite the city hall brought them back to the realization that they were still near the front.

Fire of Artillery.

Then the steady fire of an artillery duel was heard from all along the front. The British fleet joined in, sending its projectiles over the town, into the German lines. The refugees waiting for their passage at the station were obliged to turn further south accompanied by some of the inhabitants of Furnes though most of the latter stuck to their homes.

The Belgian soldiers, who after the retreat from Antwerp were to be given a long rest, were once again drawn into the thick of the fighting. King Albert in spite of the efforts of his ministers to keep him out of danger was with his men on the firing line. They found renewed energy in his example and fought with the same fury as before Liege for the few square miles of Belgian territory that remained unoccupied by the enemy.

HOW VOTERS "TOOK" BALLOT

Official Figures Disclose How Many Voted on Officers.

CANVASSING BOARD ACTS SOON

Official Figures Will Be Made Tuesday, When Tabulation Prepared by Secretary of State Will Be Given as Here Shown.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Nov. 22.—(Special.)—When the state canvassing board meets Tuesday morning to canvass the returns of the late election they will find that Clerk T. W. Smith of the secretary of state's office has the list all prepared, the votes of the candidates totaled up and verified and about all they will have to do is to sign their names and the deed is done.

Many attempts have been made to compile figures of the election, but none of them have been correct and therefore the official compilation as shown below can be considered as the correct result of the election.

The official returns disclose that 236,941 voters took part in the election. However, 3,224 neglected to vote for governor, according to the figures, 4,958 for lieutenant governor, 15,111 for secretary of state, 16,985 for state superintendent, 17,777 for state treasurer, 18,777 for state auditor, 15,235 for attorney general, 18,935 for land commissioner, 18,296 for railway commissioner while 51,798 did not take enough interest in the nonpartisan election to vote for a chief justice of the supreme court.

Morehead and Thomas High.

Governor John H. Morehead polled the largest vote among the democrats, 150,295, while A. O. Thomas for state superintendent polled the highest vote among the republicans, 106,312.

However, there were 7,554 more votes cast for governor than there were for the office of state superintendent.

The vote on governor was the highest cast for any office on the state ticket, 238,717 being cast for all the candidates for that office, while but 27,698 voters cast enough about railway commissioners to make a choice, or 11,071 less than voted for governor.

On the referendum propositions, 64,651 failed to vote on workmen's compensation, 32,984 on the army recall and 55,561 did not seem to care whether the women voted or not.

On the question of university removal the people seemed to show the most interest, only 3,948 making no vote in the matter.

By Congressional Districts.

If the vote in the six congressional districts on candidates for congress may be taken as showing the voting strength of the districts, it would seem that a redistribution of the state might be necessary to even up the representation. The Sixth district appears to have nearly twice as many voters as the second district, the voting power of the state by districts showing as follows:

First district, 51,185; Second district, 106,312; Third district, 106,312; Fourth district, 41,935; Fifth district, 33,699; Sixth district, 28,874.

Making an average of the six districts, according to the figures there ought to be about 38,958 voters to the district to make the thing even. Following is the vote as compiled by the secretary of state:

KARLSRUHE VICTIM DESCRIBES CAPTURE

Others in Like Boat.

"When I went in the boats along with the rest of the crew, and we rowed over to the Creffed. When we got on board there, we found two other British crews. They were from the steamers Strathroy and Maple Branch, which had been captured by the Karlsruhe on August 31 and September 5, respectively. From them we got a lot of interesting information about our captors and their methods of doing business.

The First thing we learned was that there were three ships in the Karlsruhe's squadron. The third, the German steamer Rio Negro, came up a few hours later, summoned by wireless from the Karlsruhe. It was a Hamburg-American liner, and had been lying in Santos when the cruiser called it. It ran away without stopping for clearance papers, and I guess will have an uncomfortable time of it if it ventures into a Brazilian port again.

"The Karlsruhe, we learned had the Maple Branch at one time, but kept the Strathroy with her for several days. There were forty-four in the Strathroy's crew, but nearly all of them officers. This was because she was manned by a Chinese crew, and they had been persuaded not to go, I suppose—to volunteer for German service.

No Powder Wasted.

"We hung over the Creffed's rail and watched proceedings. The Karlsruhe's boats had gone back alongside the Highland Hope and were very busy. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon they had finished their organized looting and the Creffed and the Rio Negro received orders to steam on ahead while the cruiser scuttled the Highland Hope. They hadn't the slightest intention of wasting any good powder and shot on it, nor even a charge of dynamite. So they opened its scow and stood by to make sure it would go down in proper shape.

"We cruised always in the same formation, which, by the way, was invariably preserved, except when some fresh victim was being attended to. The Karlsruhe was in the center of the formation, with a supply ship on either beam, separated so far we were hardly in sight of it. There must have been about twelve miles between us, and its mastheads were just barely in sight from our masthead. In that way the Karlsruhe covered an ocean track of about thirty-six miles with its dragnet, counting the range of vision from the supply ships on either side.

All Steamers Sunk.

"I can surely testify that it was an effective method, for while we were prisoners on the Creffed we saw it capture no less than ten British merchantmen. From September 14 to October 11, when it took the Condor, it captured eleven steamers, and in one week, starting with the Farnhope, on October 5, it captured seven boats, an average of one a day. Every one of those ten steamers, like the Highland Hope, was sunk."

Foot Ball Questions Asked by Fair Co-Eds

The girls of Central High school were given some rest lessons in foot ball by Coach Mills in the high school auditorium on last Friday when they had a special mass meeting for their sex only. Coach Mills delivered a talk on "What you should see at a foot ball game." After this was concluded papers were passed through the crowd and any one who wished to ask a question on the game wrote that question on the paper and passed it to the stage.

The following were among the questions:

Can you block a kick by grabbing the opponent by the leg and holding it?

What is the chain carried by the lines?

When do players have a chance to get a drop kick?

When is a fake kick?

Which side does a safety score for?

FIRE RECORD.

Cholera Appears In East Germany

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Several cases of cholera are reported to have appeared in Prussia and upper Silesia, according to a dispatch from Basil, Switzerland, to the Havas News agency. Two deaths from the disease so far have occurred in those districts.

Berlin Filled with Many Rumors of Great Victory Won in the East

BERLIN (Via Rome), Nov. 22.—Apparently no decision has been reached in the great eastern battle which is being fought in the territory between the Warta and the Vistula rivers, although Berlin is filled with rumors of a great victory. No authentic private information is available. The official reports continue to regard a succession of tactical successes which may form the basis for a decisive victory.

General von Hindenburg and Archduke Charles Francis of Austria seem to have accepted battle along a line highly favorable strategically to pressing home a central attack against the enemy. The roads in the Russians' rear are in a wretched state, the Germans having accomplished a thorough job of destruction on their retreat. The Russians are jammed together on three sides and are hampered greatly in bringing up supplies.

The military critic of Vossische Zeitung considers the Austro-German situation as extraordinarily favorable and declares it gives ground for hope that the Russians may be cut off entirely from a line of retreat. It says the success which the Germans claim near Csanatshova is particularly encouraging, as it relieves the situation on the Sicilian front.

The Austrian reports say that the Carpathian passes are being held strongly against the Russian advance.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 22.—The German columns between the Warta and Vistula rivers, according to today's official reports from Russian Poland, comprises six army corps and presents a front fifty-five miles in extent. The two rivers prevent flanking by either side, hence the fighting consists of straight frontal attacks, in which the losses of both armies are heavy, but neither side so far has been able to gain a marked advantage.

The German military observers contend, cannot advance further in this region, since the Russian concentration, which was delayed by bad roads and by lack of railroads, now is complete.

Dispatches received in Petrograd from Tiflis, Transcaucasia, explain the halt in the Russian advance toward Kopyrkoff was due to the discovery that an entire Turkish army was massed at Erzerum. The Russians are contenting themselves, it is said, with holding their positions while awaiting reinforcements.

ROCKEFELLER SHIP CARRYING FOOD REACHES ROTTERDAM

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The Rockefeller foundation food ship, Manasquepa, which left New York November 2 with provisions for the starving Belgians, arrived at Rotterdam late today. Its cargo will be on the way to Belgium in canal boats tomorrow.

The American relief commission's report shows that it has delivered in Rotterdam to date 23,000 tons of foodstuffs, most of which have been actually distributed in Belgium. Ships now loading or under charter with cargoes awaiting them will provide a further 68,000 tons and from various quarters of the world 70,000 tons additional have been assured.
