

PRINCE OF WALES IS GOOD SOLDIER

Gains Reputation by His Willingness and Energy at Front in France.

ALLOWED ON THE FIRING LINE

At First Was Ordered Back and Was Terribly Annoyed, but Order Was Changed for His Benefit.

(Copyright, 1914, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, Dec. 27.—Special Cablegram to New York World and Omaha Bee.—The Weekly Dispatch says: "A good soldier and sportsman, it is the reputation that the prince of Wales has gained for himself during his comparatively short experience of active service, and he has gained it among men, who are among the finest soldiers and best sportsmen in the world. The prince of Wales did not go out to the front to take up some ornamental and ingloriously safe job on the general staff."

His royal highness has been under fire with the British troops at the front, although he was ordered from the danger zone on first arrival. Annoyed by this preference to him, he later permitted to share the perils of the ordinary soldier.

Did Strenuous Work.
As a matter of fact, the prince became a transport officer on the general staff, and as such he put in rarely less than fifteen hours of strenuous work a day, and sometimes twenty-four, or even forty-eight hours work at a stretch. As a transport officer it was sometimes the prince's duty to attend the loading of food wagons, in which the rations are conveyed to the trenches. Each wagon contains, as a rule, two days' rations for 1,000 soldiers, made up in as many separate packages. In loading the wagon, one packer stands in it and another throws him a packet, and at each throw says, "one, two, three," etc., until he has thrown in twenty-five packets, when the officer supervising the packing, shouts, "stop," and enters the number in a note book.

Preventing Lazy Ones.
This process is repeated until 1,500 packets have been loaded into the wagons. The packers sometimes are careless and lazy, and in order to get over their work quickly, unless supervised by an attentive officer, will skip numbers when counting the packets with the result that the soldiers in trenches get short rations. A packer tried this dodge to get through his work quickly, when the prince was supervising the packing. "Twenty-five," shouted the prince, and glanced at his royal highness. "I make it twenty," said the prince quietly. "Now just unload the whole wagon and count all the packets again."

There were 100 packets by that time in the wagon.

Gave New Billet.
After a couple of weeks of work as a transport officer the prince went on to the intelligence branch of the general staff. As an intelligence officer he had to assist in marking out on maps the various changes that take place in the position of the British troops every day. When employed in this way the prince several times has been under fire. The first time this happened the prince was ordered out of the danger zone by an officer in charge of the mapping party, which terrified him, but, of course, he had to obey orders promptly. Subsequently, however, his royal highness was allowed to share the risks run by his brother officers, when engaged in this particular work. The prince by the way, since his arrival at the front, has taken to motorcycling, and two machines have been sent out to him by the king. The prince, when at the headquarters, shares a villa with four other officers. The prince's knowledge of French and German has enabled him to fulfill from time to time the useful office of interpreter at conversations between Sir John French and captive German officers.

Stirring Songs of Warring Nations in Your Own Home

"The music of a nation is the key to a nation's heart," a great orator once said. If this be so—and who will deny it?—the surest way to appreciate the thrill and the passion of the great war in Europe is through the battle songs of the fighters.

Victor hand music receives two notable additions in the German military air, "Krupp March" and "Grand Duke of Baden March" by the 11. 8. Marine band led by Santelman. Yessella's hand gives the fire music from Die Walkure and Fryer's band the Rensel Overture, a magnificent Wagner record.

HARRY EDMONDSON SHOTS HIMSELF WHILE DESPONDENT

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 27.—(Special Telegram.)—Harry Edmondson, a 25-year-old operator for an Ogden paper, when in a despondent mood, fired a bullet through his brain this morning, dying six hours later in an Ogden hospital.

Edmondson spent part of Christmas day at the home of Mrs. Agnes Black, leaving late in the afternoon. At 3 o'clock this morning he returned to the Black home and asked to be admitted. Mrs. Black told him he could not enter and to tell that if he would not let him in he would kill himself. She did not think his threat serious, but when she closed the door he walked into the yard and fired a bullet from a small revolver into his brain.

Edmondson was injured in an accident August 27, losing one eye and had not been in good health since that time. He was despondent about being away from his relatives on Christmas.

Harry Edmondson was the son of Al Edmondson, one of the well known old time printers, at present in the employ of the World-Herald. The son served his apprenticeship in the same office and since then has traveled generally over the west.

BUREAU WILL BE MERGED BECOMES TRADE COMMISSION

Last Report of Corporations Department Given to Public.

NEW LAW SOON TO GO INTO EFFECT

Will Give Larger Powers for Investigation and for Activity.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Commissioner Joseph E. Davies made to Secretary Redfield today, the last report of the Bureau of Corporations. At the close of eleven years work, it soon is to be absorbed by the new Federal Trade commission, which will carry forward its activities and develop new fields according to the act of congress, which created it.

Commissioner Davies reports that before the bureau is absorbed by the new federal commission, it plans to complete additional and final reports on tobacco, farm machinery associations, taxation of corporations, oil, trust laws and conflicts of corporation laws and leave its force as free as possible for the new work of the trade commission.

During the last few months, the report says, the bureau has been making a general comprehensive survey of the whole industrial field with the view of having immediately available for the Trade commission, the general facts of the processes of manufacture organization and dominant financial control of any line of industry.

This report this year contains a comprehensive review of the law under which the Trade commission will work. The new body, it explains, will have, not only those functions of investigation and publicity which the bureau of corporations exercised, but also other functions of public utility, investigation and recommendation, and powers which are quasi-judicial, which distinguish it in a marked manner from the bureau of corporations. It will have much broader discretion and will act, when requested to do so by the courts, as master in chancery in the preparation of trust decrees.

In view of the impending merger of the bureau of corporations with the Trade commission, Commissioner Davies makes no recommendations as to policies or plans for the future, and in addition to a lengthy review of the functions of the Trade commission, his report is confined to a review of the year's work in his bureau, which has been previously disclosed from time to time in partial reports upon investigations at various stages.

"TERROR" STALKS THROUGH MEXICO

tranquility, no matter what their military, financial or social positions may be. Constitution and reform."

"MEXICO, Dec. 24, 1914.

(Signed) "E. GUTIERREZ,

"Provisional President of Mexico."

The mention in the censored Mexico dispatch of two rival conventions and the opposing Carranza and convention governments between the leaders, Villa and Zapata, which with Carranza would form three independent revolutionary armies.

Utterly Disappears.

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 27.—Eduardo Iturbide, the former federal governor of the federal district, whose welfare has been the subject of diplomatic representations by the present Washington government and a dispute between the Villa and Zapata officials, has apparently disappeared. Leon Conova, a special agent of the American State department, who arrived here early today from Mexico City, said so far as he knew Iturbide was at the national capital. It had been reported from Mexico City that Iturbide was flying under the protection of the American representative. The train which brought Conova was stopped and its passengers inspected at several points on the way to the border.

Dozens Killed Daily.

The text of the circular of Provisional President Gutierrez received tonight admitting that wholesale executions at the national capital were beyond the control of the civil authorities confirmed the reports reaching the border here recently. It had been estimated by well-informed refugees that an average of twenty-five persons had met their death daily at the hands of assassins.

The three-cornered estrangement between Gutierrez, Villa and Zapata over the matter of executions caused a considerable amount of official circles here. From semi-official sources it was learned that Zapata and Villa, the two armed chieftains, had quarreled over whom each should dispose of, while Gutierrez had stood out for amnesty to all unless public trial was held before the prisoners were killed.

An investigation disclosed that a railway switch had been changed at the last moment. The station master, switchmen and others are under arrest.

ITALIANS PLEDGE AID TO U. S. SHIP

Orders Given Cruiser Calabria to Aid North Carolina at Beirut if Needed.

VESSELS ARE NOW UPON CALL

Ready to Steam to Any Part Where They May Be Needed to Protect American Interests.

ROME, Dec. 27.—Instruction have been sent to the Italian cruiser Calabria now at Beirut, Syria, to assist the United States cruiser North Carolina. If the necessity should arise as the result of further demonstrations against the departure of Europeans from Turkish territory. The cruiser Tennessee, the fuel ship Vulcan and the gunboat Scorpion, of the United States navy which also are looking after American interests along the eastern Mediterranean are ready to steam to any place where they are needed, according to reports received here.

According to a dispatch from Athens, the cruiser North Carolina recently threatened to use its guns as the result of an incident at Tripoli, Syria. The cruiser conveying the American steamer Virginia, entered the harbor of Tripoli and the commander requested the Turkish authorities to permit the British and French consuls to depart with their national residents in the city.

This request was refused, but several of the French residents boarded the Virginia. They were attacked by a mob who wounded the captain and first officer. The North Carolina then threatened to fire and the mob fled. The Virginia and the North Carolina then left for Dedeagach. Later the cruiser proceeded to Smyrna.

U. S. Seeks to Find Ex-Yankee Countess

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Secretary Bryan is endeavoring through the German government to locate Countess De Buisseret, formerly Miss Caroline Storey, of this city. When last heard from she was in Brussels. The Germans in control of that city would not permit her, it is said, either to join her husband, who is Belgian minister to Petrograd, or to communicate with her mother in this city.

Mrs. Storey recently received through friends information that her daughter was dangerously ill in Brussels as the result of an operation. Since that time nothing has been heard from her. Secretary Bryan forwarded a cablegram of inquiry through diplomatic channels, but thus far has received no response.

Count De Buisseret was one time Belgian minister to this country and at the time of his marriage was an attaché of the Belgian legation.

Howard, commanding the Pacific fleet, left Maitland today on the flagship San Diego for San Diego, Cal., to be present, as ordered, at the opening of the Panama-California exposition. It will be Admiral Howard's first visit to the states after ten months of continuous service in Mexican waters.

We captured the heights near Siedliska on the left bank of the Biala river."

"In the direction of Dukla (Carpathians), there were engagements on December 25 and 26, and the Austrians, driven from the Zmigrod-Dukla line are in full retreat. In the latest encounters in this region, the Austrians suffered enormous losses, and left in our hands as prisoners more than 10,000 men."

MAYTORENA LIFTS THE SIEGE OF NACO

Villa Commander Fulfills Pledge Made to American Army Chief.

RETIRE TO THE SOUTHWEST

His Troops Leave Position During Night and at Daybreak They Concentrate Four Miles Away.

NACO, ARIZ., Dec. 27.—Governor Jose Maria Maytorena of Sonora, lifted the siege of Naco, Sonora, opposite here today and retired to the southwest with his troops. He destroyed his works, burned his camps and removed all his artillery.

During the night his troops on the west and south of Naco left their positions, and at daybreak they concentrated four miles to the southwest, where they boarded a train which has been there since the siege was begun, nearly three months ago.

General Benjamin Hill, commanding the American garrison of Naco, sent out a detachment, who had a bloodless encounter with the Maytorena rear guard. Hill's men took three women prisoners and picked up a shrapnel shell left in the Maytorena camp. It was brought into the garrison and exploded while being examined, killing three and wounding thirteen, two of whom died.

Train Disappears.
Hill's scouts reported tonight the train bearing Maytorena's army had disappeared. The railroad leads to Nogales and to Cananea, and the scouts did not learn which of the two towns was Maytorena's objective.

Detachments of Hill's men visited Maytorena's vacated trenches and returned tonight with considerable ammunition and a few rifles. Twenty-one cases of cartridges are said to have been found at one outpost. The unburied were reported lying all along the line that had been occupied by Maytorena. In one spot Hill said his men found 150 bodies; at another, seventy-eight. The total loss of the Carranza garrison during the siege was placed at 185 by General Hill tonight. Maytorena's total loss was figured at 900.

Bullets Over the Border.
On the American side stray bullets from the Mexican fighting lines killed five and wounded forty-seven. Bullets by the thousand flew over the boundary into American territory during the siege, which began October 10, 1914.

The removal of Maytorena's army fulfills an announcement made by Maytorena after his conference Thursday with General Hugh L. Scott, chief-of-staff of the United States army, who came here in an effort to stop permanently fighting at border points where bullets endangered American lives and property.

Taxi Plunges Twenty Feet Down; Kills One

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—A taxicab containing three men tonight tore through the iron fence which separates the Long Island railroad tracks from the roadway of Atlantic avenue in Brooklyn and fell twenty feet into the path of a passenger train. The machine was struck by the train and Charles Robeck, 31 years, was found dead in the wreckage, while George Placio, 21, and Michael McKenna, 25, were seriously injured. It is thought the steering gear of the taxicab was defective.

Armored Autos to Chase Seattle Yeggs

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 27.—In an effort to stop increasing activity of highwaymen and safe blowers, Chief of Police Louis Lang ordered tonight six automobile equipped with shotguns for use in chasing fleeing criminals. The order is the direct result of an ineffective pistol battle Thursday morning between two safe blowers and a squad of policemen. The fugitives were wounded, but the bullets failed to stop the men and they are still at liberty.

Notices announcing a resumption of full time in all departments were posted in the factories of the W. H. McElwain Shoe Manufacturing company at Manchester, N. H. Seven thousand employees in the local shops will be affected. Part of the plant has been running recently, and not on full time.

Foot and mouth disease is held responsible for a decrease from last year of $100,000 in the value of live stock received during 1914 at the Chicago Union Stock Yards, the largest in the world, according to a report by the Union Stock Yards and transit company, which handled all the animals. The shipments totaled 14,000,000 head, worth nearly $200,000,000.

Business will be suspended during his funeral as a mark of respect. Captain Kitchell donated the city park station agricultural experiment station Lincoln monument and contributed liberally to many other state institutions. He left an estate estimated at $100,000.
