British Answer is Conciliatory

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The reply of Great Britain to the American note regarding interference with American shipping, it is said, is well informed quarters is wholly conciliatory and shows a disposition on the part of England to do everything with reason to avert delay to American shipping at a time when freight rates are high and consequently loss of time is costly to ship owners. England wishes to do everything in its power consistent with the proper safeguarding of the interests of the allies to facilitate world trade and stimulate commerce, paralyzed as it is by war conditions. CLAIM NUMEROUS ADVANCES

The activity in Flanders and France is still confined largely to artillery exchanges. Mines also have been exploded at two points on the line, with successful results to the French troops. The enemy at Steinbach has not attacked again and the French in this region have retained their positions. They claim also an advance toward Altkirch, Alsace, south of Steinbach and Muelhausen. The text of the communication follows: "Long Artillery Fight. During the day of January 6 there occurred, from the sea to the Loys, nothing other than artillery fighting in which we had almost always the advantage. Our batteries put to flight certain German aviators who were coming in the direction of Dunkirk, and then compelled a cessation of the fire of German 10cm throwers in the region of Zillobek. The enemy bombarded violently the head of the Belgian bridge to the south of Dixmude. In the region of Lille we repulsed with success a violent German attack on one of our trenches. This trench in the beginning lost by us was recaptured with great brilliancy and by the exploding of mines we demolished a portion of the German field works. Between the Somme and the Omea there has been nothing to report except artillery engagements. Exploding Mines Stop Work. To the east of Rheims on the Aisne we exploded some mines yesterday evening. This resulted in the stopping of the enemy's field work. In the Argonne, to the west and to the north of Verdun, there were yesterday artillery engagements in which the enemy did not show much activity. In the Voivre district the advance made by us to the northwest of Filtry is more important than was at first taken to be the case. We made ourselves masters of a portion of the enemy's first line. At Steinbach and at the adjoining heights the enemy has not delivered a counter attack. A persistent rain, made any operations difficult. We have retained all the positions conquered by us in preceding days. There were two attacks on the part of the enemy, one to the west of Vaville and the other near Kolschlag. Both were immediately repulsed. We have made progress in the direction of Altkirch by occupying the forests situated four kilometers (two and one-half miles) to the west of this town. Our heavy artillery reduced to silence that of the enemy. During all the day of January 6 the enemy bombarded the hospital at Thann."

These actions are alleged to involve the titles to more than 1,000 acres of property in Kern county, upon which more than 80 oil producing wells are located. The government will ask that a receiver be appointed to handle the output of the properties until the action has been decided in court. The complaints contain the allegation that the Southern Pacific company misrepresented the land in question as "agriculture" when application was made which resulted in patents for the land being issued by the government. It is alleged that the railroad company knew that the land was oil bearing property at the time. The action is along the lines of several suits instituted against the Southern Pacific company by the government during the last two years.
