To Bee Readers

For the past several months we have been talking to you every day through our advertising columns about the real value and convenience of the service offered through Bee Want Ads and showing you just how to find. read and to take the best advantage of them.

To the average person, the want ad columns are a jumble of type, somewhat hard to read and to find whatever he may have some interest in. To those familiar with the various uses and errangement of want ads. these columns are most accessible and convenient for hundreds of daily wants.

To make our want ad columns more convenient and popular, we have made many improvements, such as indexing the Business Chances columns alphabetically according to the names of business offered, classifying real estate ads according to location, etc., and in showing you these ads may be actually turned to profit and advantage to yourself.

That the volume of want ads has increased about 100% in the past few months, simply doubles the service to you and gives you twice as many chances of getting a satisfactory deal in each case.

It will pay well in the long run to form a habit of reading Bee. Want Ads every day, just as you read the news columns or the display ads, "store news." You can't get much service in any other way. The Bee's Want Ad columns stand in a class by themselves.
