PPROMINENT local suffragist was made the subject of a little feature story recently, in which her culinary accomplishments were commented upon most favorably. Accompanying the article was a picture of the aforesaid suffragist.

Now the suffragist's husband strenuously objects to the newspaper publicity which has followed his better half ever since her identification with votes-for-women propaganda. Knowing this to be the case, his wife hid the Sunday paper in which this article appeared, but when he came down to his office the next morning, his office girl very innocently called his attention to the article.

That evening, he entered his home in high dudgeon and once more expressed himself in regard to his wife's copy-furnishing propensities. It chanced the husband is quite a sportsman and devoted especially to golf. Several years ago, he was abroad and picked up, in London, a golf outfit of most bewildering array of plaids, checks and stripes. When he appeared on a local golf course attired in these knickerbockers, he caused a small-sized sensation. A local sporting reporter dubbed them "Mr. Blank's cunning trouserettes"—which was particularly funny in view of the fact that the gentleman is a somewhat hefty individual.

Just as the husband was in the midst of his harangue, a remembrance of this flitted through his wife's mind. "How about the trouserettes?" she exclaimed. He was immediately squelched and now the redoubtable suffragist looks for little comment from her husband on this subject.

Judge Comstock's Stenographer Stops Wheels of Justice

The mill of justice ground not only slowly, but came to a dead stop in Justice A. H. Comstock's court yesterday while his stenographer held the judge's seat and demanded that she be shown statutory authority for a certain procedure. The attorneys were chagrined for they had not been in the habit of citing law to the stenographer. F. W. Driscoll, attorney, had asked for a chance of venue after eight days' stay in a case of forcible detainer. "You can't do that," piped the stenographer and clerk. There is no law for it.

BAKERS TO ASK FOR NEW BREAD WEIGHT

Want City Ordinance Changed So They May Make Loaves Any Size They Choose.

WOULD NOT CUT THE PRICE

Another fight on the weight of loaves of bread is imminent in the city council chamber. At the regular meeting of the city council Tuesday morning Mayor J. C. Dahlman will offer a resolution to take from the files the bread ordinance which was placed on file May 20, 1913, and which was the center of a hard fight nearly two years ago.

Loaf of Any Weight.

The ordinance which the bakers now propose to bring up provides for sixteen-ounce and thirty-two-ounce loaves, and also provides that bakers may make loaves of any weight, with requirement that they stamp their name and the weight on the loaf. In the former fight the bakers made it known that they do not want to depart from the 5-cent and 10-cent prices which have been established. The city inspector contends that the weight of the loaves of bread should be standardized and then let the bakers fix their prices accordingly.

Inspector Explains that the bakers are paying $7.50 per barrel for flour and that they can make 30 loaves from a barrel. Selling these loaves at a wholesale rate of twenty-four for $1, he figures the bakers make not less than 25 per cent profit.

Mr. Pegg is going to fight this ordinance when it is taken from the files and brought up for reconsideration. He holds that the existing ordinance, if enforced, would give the public ample protection.

City Commissioner Thomas McGovern, in charge of the department of public improvement, objects to closing Locust street, across the railroad tracks, on account of the erection of the new viaduct. Police Are Still Without Trace of Murderers of Ring

Absolutely nothing has developed within the last few days that indicates that the Mexicans who shot Detective Tom Ring will be captured. The police assert that all the tips and clues they have followed so far have led to nothing, and they are practically at sea where to turn next.

Early yesterday the authorities were considerably excited when a phone call was received from a Magazan who stated he had attempted to crawl into a box car forming part of a Rock Island train, bound for South Omaha, but was forced to get out by two other Mexicans who were armed and threatened to shoot him. Police Officers Helt, Emery, Sullivan and Lahey, armed with shotguns and revolvers, headed off the train in the emergency auto, but a careful search of each car revealed no trace of the men. The police are attempting, however, to locate the Mexican that sent the phone call. Sanavia Lara, 1314 Capitol avenue, was arrested by Special Officer Dinse, but could throw no light on the occurrence.

Forges Check for Honeymoon Trip; He Gives Himself Up

Harvey E. Kellogg, charged with the forgery of a $60 check, was bound over to the district court with bonds fixed at $1,000. Kellogg forged the name of a former employer to the check, which he made payable to his sweetheart. The day following her cashing the bit of paper, they were married and left for the east on their honeymoon. Conscience stricken he left her with relatives in an eastern city before the trip was completed and returning to Omaha by way of Detroit, gave himself up there. He was brought to Omaha Sunday.

Enters Church on Bet, is Thrown Out and Then Arrested

James Shields, aged 19 years, living at 3012 South 16th street, was fined $10 and costs with suspended sentence for creating a disturbance in the Grace Baptist church, Tenth and Arbor streets, Sunday night. It seems that James had lunched too freely and had bet a companion $2.50 that he was not afraid to go inside. The pair entered the church, and James attempted to collect the bet, which caused officials to eject the pair. James insisted on coming back, so William A. Ehler, one of the men who had ejected him, had the lad arrested.

The hearing is held on complaint of Kansas City, St. Joseph, Atchison, Council Bluffs and Sioux City, charging discrimination in freight rates in favor of Omaha and Lincoln by reason of the reductions ordered by the Nebraska Railroad commission on intrastate rates to a point lower than the interstate rates. Manager E. J. McVann of the Commercial club traffic bureau, appeared in defense of the rates. Storm Which Blocks Trains in Northern Nebraska Has Quit

While pleasant weather is general in the eastern part of Nebraska, up in the northwest corner and all the way across Wyoming, the snowstorm and blizzard that was general since last Saturday, ceased early Monday morning.

The storm came as far east as Bassett, Rock county, and from there west the snowfall was from ten to fifteen inches. For more than twenty-four hours the wind blew a gale, carrying the snow along and filling the railroad cuts level full. On the Northwestern no main line trains have arrived since Saturday night, and it is not expected that the road will be cleared before Tuesday morning. Reports come of drifts twenty to thirty feet deep and some of them a mile or more in length. The Northwestern is maintaining local service from Long Pine east. West of Long Pine, only snow plows are running. The blockade extends all the way through to Douglas, Wyo.

One hundred miles or so south of the Northwestern, during the entire duration of the storm, the weather was fair, there not being enough snow along the Burlington or Union Pacific to interfere with train service.

Temperatures out in the state Monday morning ranged from 4 to 35 above zero, with below zero at many points in Wyoming.

Garbage Disposal Question Still is Vexing City Dads
