

Telling The Truth About It

By William Allison Gray.

"I see by the papers," said the Big Fellow, "that wine is stronger than beer, and whiskey is stronger than either. Which may be all right, so far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough, nor in the right direction."

"Meaning which," inquired the Little Pal.

"Meaning that the chap who wrote that doesn't know what he's saying—if he's referring to the drinks of today."

"I suppose," ventured the Little Pal, "that, according to your views, whiskey is the mildest of the three."

"Most assuredly," declared the Big Fellow, as one speaking with authority.

"You wouldn't mind explaining, would you," requested Little Pal, "and, at the same time, if not too much trouble, giving me your valuable views on why black is always so much whiter than white."

"That touch of sarcasm shows you belong to the large and mistaken class who think wines and beers are a lighter and more wholesome stimulant than whiskey, though there is a larger and constantly growing class who know to the contrary."

"I listen with interest," said Little Pal.

"In the first place," exclaimed the Big Fellow, "when a man orders whiskey he modifies its strength to suit his taste; if he takes a high ball, charged water reduces the strength of his whiskey to below the relative alcoholic strength of an average glass of beer."

"And, furthermore," continued the Big Fellow, "you realize that neither wine nor beer, does he modify to suit his taste, but consumes as served to him."

"One ounce of whiskey is the usual drink, three ounces of wine is the usual drink and 12 ounces of beer is the usual drink. Let's do a little 'sum' in arithmetic and see which is actually the strongest, and, taking a pencil, the Big Fellow roughly sketched this diagram on the back of an envelope:

And then wrote:
Whiskey: 45-100% to the oz. 1x45-45
Wine: 20-100% to the oz. 1x20-20
Beer: 4-100% to the oz. 1x4-45

"Thus, you see, the average drink of whiskey really is milder than the average drink of beer, which is not particularly important in itself, for it is not the minute differences in the strength of a beverage, but the greatest degree of wholesomeness that should influence the consumer."

"You have proved your first contention that a drink of whiskey is milder than a drink of the others, which I acknowledge is a surprise to me. But do you really think whiskey is the most wholesome also?"

"No," said the Big Fellow, "I don't think so—I know so!"

"I await your valued diagnosis," declared Little Pal, with what might be termed a shade of skepticism. "Will you favor me with a few illuminating remarks."

"I will. Wine is a wholesome stimulant, yet wine is liable to sour on the stomach. Beer is also a wholesome stimulant, yet, according to the authority of brewery advertisements themselves, beer is constantly subject, even though carefully handled and hermetically sealed, to the deterioration that causes biliousness to many systems. Whiskey, on the other hand, is not only germless itself and germ-proof, but is the active aid in destroying germs. Whiskey can't turn sour, whiskey can't ferment, whiskey can't germinate. Wine and beer are the result of one or another form of fermentation, which is Nature's lesser method of providing one of her most valuable properties—alcohol; while whiskey is the result of distillation, which is Nature's highest and absolutely germ-proof method of doing the same thing. Thus while Nature is liable to play pranks with her fermented alcohols, she is ever the stern guardian of the purity of her distilled product—Whiskey."

"I think I see the light," said Little Pal. "And propose, therefore, that we precede lunch with the pleasant, thirst-quenching appetite-stimulating, food-assimilating whiskey highball."

And they did.

The foregoing is in substance the actual conversation of two particularly bright men, and as it touches with remarkable truth a subject on which I feel myself peculiarly well qualified to speak I have considered it worth using as a preface to an article which I had already prepared on the same theme, and which I shall publish shortly.

CONGRESS ENTERS THE FINAL SESSION

Disputed Points in Agricultural Bill and Postoffice Bill May Cause a Deadlock.

SENATE PASSES RIVERS BILL

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Sixty-third congress swung into the last twenty-four hours of its life today confronted with a mass and jumble of work which must be done before noon tomorrow. Both house and senate will be in practically continuous session until adjournment. One by one the accumulation of bills and resolutions was being disposed of and sent to the White House for President Wilson's signature, but the closing hours were not without threats of failure for some measures. Today house and senate conferees were deadlocked over the river and harbor bill; there was likewise a deadlock over the railway mail pay provision in the postoffice bill. Ultimatums to abandon the disputed points or let the bills fail, were being exchanged between the contending sides. No differences appeared in the other large bills which were not sure to be completed.

So much work on the appropriation bills remained to be done that administration leaders did not hope to see any of the democratic legislative program passed. They expected the ship bill, the Philippine bill and other measures would have to go over for the next congress.

Senators Root, Burton, Smoot and Lodge, who led the republican opposition to the ship bill, arranged to watch the closing hours of the senate to meet any attempt to pass the bill when the opposition was not watchful.

Senate Passes Rivers Bill.
At 6:37 a. m. the senate passed without amendment the river and harbor bill, the last of the big supply bills to come before it, and then recessed until 11 o'clock.

It was only by taking the unprecedented step of arousing the vice president and requesting his attendance that a quorum was obtained to pass the bill. Shortly after 4 o'clock Senator Oliver raised the point of no quorum in order to get full consideration for an amendment authorizing a new dam in the Pittsburgh harbor. Only forty-six senators could be found, and two more were needed to make a quorum. A motion was made and carried for the issuance of warrants for the arrest of absentees. Senator Bryan, temporarily in the chair, declined to sign the warrants on the ground that they could be signed only by the vice president or president pro tempore, Senator Clarke.

After a parliamentary wrangle, however, Senator Stone moved that the vice president be requested to attend. This was carried and the vice president was roused from his bed about 5 o'clock. Just before he arrived, however, Senators Nelson, Page and Dillingham reported and made a quorum. The vice president, however, resumed the chair. The senate, after spending two hours on the conference report on the Naval bill debating the abolition of the plucking board, finally accepted it.

Two More Bills Finished.
Then in short order the senate agreed to the reports on the legislative bill and the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, putting two more of the principal supply measures out of the way.

The house agreed to the conference report on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, accepting the senate provision to pay mileage as usual for traveling expenses of congressmen, then debated the river and harbor bill after some heated discussion, accepted the senate amendments and sent that measure to the president.

Meanwhile disputed points in the army, Indian, General efficiency and other bills were taken up in conference committees.

make concessions regarding its marines war zone in return for Great Britain's relaxing the pressure designed to cut off its supplies. The British view is that Germany has everything to gain and nothing to lose. Nevertheless, Great Britain is still considering the American note and a reply to this communication, together with a further pronouncement concerning details of the blockade of the German coast, may be forthcoming.

Austrian Fleet Off Turkey.
GENEVA, March 3.—(Via Paris)—An Austrian fleet consisting of six Austro-German submarines accompanied by several torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers left Pola, the Austrian naval base at dawn yesterday for the Mediterranean, bound for the Dardanelles, according to the Telegram, which bases its report upon what it characterizes as information received from a reliable source from Thiesite by way of Innsbruck. The fleet is said to have been last reported off Corfu.

Berlin, March 3.—(Via London)—The Tagblatt correspondent in Galicia telegraphs that the Russians have not won a single complete success in their efforts to regain Carpathian crests lost by them. Heavy fighting continues, he says, along the whole front in spite of heavy snowstorms. The Russians are sacrificing many men, the correspondent declares, in their effort to regain mountain heights and prevent a threatened encircling of their flank.

Turks Report Defeat of Fleet.
BERLIN, March 3.—(By Wireless to Sayville).—Included in the items given out today by the Over-Sea News agency is the following:
"Turkish headquarters report from Constantinople under date of March 3 as follows:
"The enemy's fleet yesterday unsuccessfully shelled the Dardanelles for a period of three hours. This fleet was then forced to retreat by the successful fire of the Turkish batteries. At the same time another fleet consisting of four French cruisers and some destroyers shelled the Turkish positions on the Gult of Saros, but without any success whatever."

"Turkish aviators successfully bombarded the ships of the enemy."

MATTERS GUILTY IS JURY VERDICT

They found him guilty on some counts and not guilty on others. Judge Youmans opened the small paper, found it blank and tossed it aside. As he did so young Matters turned about from where he was standing with a sigh. He went and sat on the table back of his father's chair and put his hand on the elder Matters' shoulder.

Guilty.
Thus they sat, while the judge read the verdict, which carried with it a sentence of from five to ten years in a federal prison.

"Guilty on the first count," read the court.
"Guilty on the second count," and so on up to the eighteenth count, on which the jury found him not guilty. And then guilty again on the nineteenth and twentieth counts.

Matters' head dropped on his breast as he heard the words. But he recovered quickly and seemed his usual self.

Attorney E. J. Burkett in behalf of Matters immediately made the formal request to file a motion in arrest of judgment and also a motion for a new trial.

The judge set March 15 as the date for filing these motions and then on request of Burkett extended the time until March 22.

The first fifteen counts charged Matters with aiding and abetting President Melchior Luebben of the First National Bank of Sutton to issue certificates of deposit without authority. The other five counts charged him with aiding President Luebben in misapplication of the funds.

The eighteenth count, the only one on which Matters was acquitted, is a small item of $150, a count having to do with misapplication. This is the only count alleging that Matters was indebted to the bank.

Jurors Exused from Service.
The jury which was impaneled February 9 was dismissed by Judge Youmans. In view of its long service permission to be excused from further jury service during the present term was given to those who desired it.

This is the twenty-fourth day that the jury has been in service. During all that time they have been under constant guard of bailiffs, nor permitted to read the newspapers nor to talk with their fellow men.

Judge Youmans pushed the trial with all his energy. Under common federal court procedure it might easily have been six weeks long instead of a little over three. Illness of one juror held up the trial for two days in the second week of its progress.

United States Attorney Frank S. Howell declared the verdict was exactly what he expected.

"If there was one count in the whole indictment on which I would have found him not guilty it would have been the very one on which the jury found him not guilty," he said.

Matters has been out on bond ever since he was indicted by the grand jury. This is a "continuing bond" and after the jury found him guilty it continued in force and he was allowed to go instead of being taken in custody by the United States marshal as is the usual procedure.

After motions are filed on March 22, Judge Youmans will pass upon them, probably at his home district, Fort Smith, Ark. He will then have to make a trip to Omaha to make his decision a matter of record.

If the motions are denied, the next step to be taken by Matters is to keep out of prison would be an appeal of the case to the United States circuit court of appeals.

The voluminousness of the record, which is close to 3,000 large typewritten pages, will make all this procedure cumbersome, slow and expensive.

HEADACHES
Thousands of men and women suffer from headaches every day, other thousands have headaches every week or every month, and still others have headaches occasionally, but all at regular intervals. The best Doctor knows how to find the cause of many of these headaches, and in most other cases, knowing the cause, he does not know what will remove it, so as to give a permanent cure, sure he can do so to prescribe the usual pain relievers, which give temporary relief, but the headache returns as usual, and treatment is again necessary. If you suffer from headaches, no matter what their nature, take Anti-kamnia Tablets, and the results will be satisfactory in the highest degree. You can obtain them at all drug stores in any quantity, 10c worth, 25c worth or more. Ask for A-K Tablets.

SICK-HEADACHES
Sick-headache, the most miserable of all sicknesses, loses its terrors when A-K Tablets are taken. When you feel an attack coming on, take two tablets, and in many cases, the attack will be warded off. During an attack take one A-K Tablet every two hours. The rest and comfort which follow, can be obtained in no other way.
