THE Woods Worm Gear Drive is different from all others. The worm is located below the gear wheel so it always runs in a bath of oil.

The hour-glass shape of the worm keeps three teeth always in contact with the wheel. This reduces tooth pressure, allowing a thicker film of oil between teeth, and thus insures perfect lubrication. That is the secret of the efficiency of the Woods Worm Gear Drive. The oil drains away from the motor by gravity. Large bearings assure perfect alignment with practically no friction.

Call or write for our new catalog just issued. It shows our new models, gives full descriptions, and tells about many other mechanical refinements which make the Woods the easiest running, most enduring electric car.
