RAILROAD WORK IS SOON TO BE BEGUN

Spring Brings Activity in Repair and Maintenance for All Lines Centering Here.

LITTLE OF NEW CONSTRUCTION. Railroads centering at Omaha will soon be employing a large number of men in repairing the wrongs of winter and in bringing their lines up to standard.

Right now the Burlington has a large force of men at work on the Wenderover cut-off, where they are boring through seven miles of solid rock along the Platte river, between Guernsey and Wenderover.

Two New Omaha Lines. The Wenderover cut-off, as it will be known, shortens the line into Wyoming, giving Omaha better access to the whole of the northwest country.

Other work that the Burlington has in contemplation for 1915 is the completion of the Chalco-Yutan cutoff, which means the building of some fifteen miles of road in the western part of Douglas and the eastern part of Saunders county.

Union Pacific Plans. About the only thing in the way of construction that the Union Pacific will do this season will be to finish up some ten miles of heavy work in the vicinity of Devil's Gate, Utah.

The Missouri Pacific will do much work in the way of finishing up contracts that were unfinished when winter set in, but no new projects are under consideration.

The Northwestern, Illinois Central, Great Western, Rock Island, Wabash, Milwaukee and Omaha roads will make improvements and betterments in order to keep their respective lines in present condition.

Safety Belt Saves Human Fly from Fall from Window

Herman Cromwell, the "human fly" of the city hall, slipped from a second-story ledge of the municipal building at noon Tuesday and only escaped injury by reason of having a "safety first" belt fastened to his waist.

His body dropped about twelve feet and aside from a shaking up, he was none the worse for his experience.

City hall employees hauled the suspended man to a window.

Mr. Cromwell walks all around the ledges of the city hall and is the object of considerable interest on occasions. He learned his climbing ability on the masts of sailing vessels at sea.

Steam Coal Comes in Right Season

The steam coal situation that Saturday gave promise of becoming acute on account of a possible shortage, was relieved Sunday night by the arrival of Sunday of three trains of twenty cars each over the Missouri Pacific from the Kansas mines.

Some time ago, figuring that the winter was about over, the extensive consumers of steam coal, here and in South Omaha, let the storage stock run low, depending upon current receipts for the supply.

ADVANCES ON COAL RATES TO OMAHA ARE SUSPENDED. The proposed advances on freight rates on coal and coke affecting the shipments of these commodities to Omaha has been suspended by the Interstate Commerce commission.
