THE OMAHA SUNDAY BEE

FOUNDED BY EDWARD ROSEWATER. VICTOR ROSEWATER, EDITOR.

The Bee Publishing Company, Proprietor. REE BUILDING, FARNAM AND SEVENTEENTH. Entered at Omaha postoffice as second-class matter.

By mail per year. $6.00 By carrier per month. Daily and Sunday 65c 86.00
Daily without Sunday 65c 86.00
Evening and Sunday 80c 6.00
Evening without Sunday 25c 6.00
Evening

Remit by draft, express or postal order. Only two-cent postage stamps received in payment of small ac-counts. Personal checks, except on Omaha and eastern exchange, not accepted.

OFFICES. OFFICES.
Omnha-The Bee Building
South Omaha-208 N street
Council Bluffs-14 North Main street.
Lincoln-25 Little Building.
Chicago-301 Hearst Building.
New York-Room 106, 286 Fifth avenue.
St Louis-362 New Bank of Commerce.
Washington-125 Fourteenth St., N. W.

CORRESPONDENCE Address communications relating to news and editorial matter to Omaha Bee, Editorial Department.

FEBRUARY SUNDAY CIRCULATION,

45,366

State of Nebrasks, County of Douglas, sa.:

Dwight Willams, circulation manager, says that the average Sunday circulation for the month of February, 1815, was 45,266.

DWIGHT WILLIAMS, Circulation Manager,
Subscribed in my presence and sworn to before me, this 2d day of March, 1915.

ROBERT HUNTER, Notary Public.

Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have The Bee mailed to them. Address will be changed as often as requested.

> Thought for the Day Selected by Delia Reed Belden

Whatever we leave to God. God does and blesses us:

The work we choose should be our own. God lets alone. - Thorray

According to the calendar, spring styles are now due.

If you must buy elsewhere, insist on the label of quality: "Made in Omaha."

Despite reports to the contrary, the guns of the Dardanelle forts are not firing peanut shells.

Besides the excitement and the exercise obtained, the Thaw fortune commands a superior line of publicity.

Let the people rule in Omaha even if they have to go to Lincoln to get "Brother Charley's" permission to do so.

The Smiley Glads of Illinofs may rightly view with alarm Senator Lewis taking himself out of the Sunny Jim class.

It is apparent from his wired interview that Vice President Marshall woke at Ogden and took vocal nourishment.

Tip to the Nebraska Schoolmasters' club Take something quick to eliminate the virus of politics from the system.

To an unbiased observer of the proceedings at Lincoln, the lesson of it all is a clinching argument for real municipal home rule.

There is no reliable evidence of Representative Henry Richmond having kissed the Blarney stone, but he has the goods, just the same.

Mayor "Jim" wants it distinctly understood that he never had any objection to a third cup of coffee-nor for a fourth cup, for that matter.

If the sixty-day respite granted the bakers stretches over primary day and election day, it will afford opportunity for practical reciprocity.

The metamorphosis of the electric light bill proves that our Water board politicians can right-about-face as fast as any troops on the firing line.

Express companies are pleading for more sugar on both sides of their buttered bread. The sweet tooth develops a ravenous appetite when the sugar barrel is nearly empty.

No protest from any source against the United States meting out due punishment to the passport conspirators. In the light of the evidence, and their own stories, these fellows did not play straight with anyone.

The sale of $27,000,000 worth of New York state canal and highway bonds bearing 4 1/4 percent interest brought a total premium of $933,-930. The result of the sale proves that the money market has returned to Easy street.

The Steam Behind the Engine.

Hailing the victory in the legislature for Greater Omaha consolidation, the official publication of the Commercial club indulges this tude. deserved self-laudation:

The Commercial club has always advocated a Greater Omaha, and this year went strongly on record in favor of the bill. The bill was introduced by Senator Howell and passed the senate with the emergency clause unamended. Too much cannot be said in praise of the work of Gould Dietz, G. E. Haverstick and Randall Brown, the special committee appointed from this club, and John P. Breen, the author of the bill These men gave freely of their own time and energy for the good of Omaha. The officers of the club and scores of loyal members have given strong support. and the name of the Commercial club, representing as it does the combined business of Omaha, has been powerful aid in the passage of the bill. Ten out of twelve members of the Douglas county delegation in the house voted in favor of the bill and worked diligently to bring about its passage.

The men who furnished the steam behind the engine that pulled this measure, so important to the future of Omaha, over the up-hill grade, should not be overlooked in distributing the credit marks. Incidentally, however, let us remind all interested that The Bee, alone of all the Omaha daily newspapers, has been a consistent and persistent advocate of Greater Omaha, and the only practical way to bring it about. The Bee is for the best interests of Omaha- meaning the whole people of the entire first, last and all the time.

Hail, Gentle Spring.

The calendar of the seasons underscores Sunday, March 21, as the opening day of spring, and the hour 11:45 s. m. It is well to record the time precisely lest the official weather man fall asleep at the switch and sidetrack the equinoctial limited.

The season brings to all the message of renewed life, of animation and hope. Winter's duliness and confinement gives way to the activities of outdoor life and all nature responds to the vitalizing power of solar heat. Such is the annual message. It is unchanged this year, but the perplexities of the times threatens to dull appreciation.

The havoc and ravages of war, the distress and bad temper it engenders, touches us in the material as well as in the physical sense. The irritations of material loss are made doubly annoying by the manner in which they are affected. Yet our losses are insignificant, our irritations are childish beside the sufferings and sacrifices of pations at war.

As a people we have unequalled reasons for greeting the message of spring with courage and confidence. We enjoy the immeasurable blessings of peace. All over the country factories and workshops are resuming operation. All over the country increased reserves of banks insure ample means for financing business and industry. The stimulus of moderate-priced material hold out promise of a normal year in building operations. Above all rises as surely as seed time the certainty of a harvest which will afford abundance for home needs and supply the food deficits of warring lands;

Broadly viewed in the light of actual conditions, Americans should hail gentle spring and whatever weather variations it brings with hearts of gladness and the spirit of aggressive optimism that takes no note of passing clouds,

The Public School and Patriotism.

Do you ever think that, next to the home itself, the public school is the greatest factor in our national life, that no other institution so influences the thought and growth of the republic? In none of its manifestations is it more potent, or possessed of greater opportunities, than in that of its teaching of the lessons essential to the development of the patriotic sense of the children who are under its care. At the meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Omaha during the week a complaint was made by one of the speakers that the public schools are not sufficiently diligent in the teaching of American history.

The public school has a great opportunity in the teaching of American history, not to merely inculcate an idea of bumptionsness, but to develop the deeper patriotism, with the higher motive of making better Americans out of the children who are growing up. It is not jingoism that should be taught, but an understanding of our institutions and opportunities. American history involves in its proper study the history of all other countries, the rise and growth of ideas of government, the evolution of social and industrial relations and the political development that has marked man's advance. It is not asked that the child be taken along the entire route, but it should be made plain to the young mind that history does not consist of exciting, and often apochryphal, tales or battle, or a musty sequence of dates and names. Let the wonderfully fascinating vista be opened up before the eyes of the child, and the pursuit of further knowledge will eagerly follow.

No greater priviego is granted than that posed by the public school teacher in the onne tunity of shaping the patriotic impulse of the children of this country. The more American history is understood by the individual, the better his citizenship.

Dilemma of Daniels.

The present status of the case of the Prinz Ettel Friederich is giving the secretary of the navy more worry than he has had at any time since he changed the terminology of the tars. No doubt Mr. Daniels is eager to do the right thing by his unbidden guest, now in snug quarters at Newport News, but he does not seem to understand exactly how far he is obligated by the rules of hospitality. In Mr. Daniels' home state it is not the right thing to limit the stay of a visitor, no matter how embarrassing his presence may be to the host, but this tolerance is unrecognized by international law, on the strict observance of which we are just now so insistent.

In the meantime, Captain Thierichens shows some inclination to flout the Navy department of the United States. He has declared on every opportunity his intention of putting out to sea but has not declared the length of time needed to accomplish repairs essential to his going. It is the latter neglect that has laid the captain and his good ship liable to detention by the United States, but the captain seems bent on writing a little more international law. He will find, though, that the spirit of the American navy has not entirely died out under the siltening influence of grapejuice, and that the commanding officers of the American battleships are very apt to act on an understanding of international law that doesn't support his present atti-

At any rate, it seems time that a little firmness should qualify the assertion of American rights, not necessarily to meet the case of the Prinz Eitel Friederich, but that it may be generally understood that the hospitality of the United States is not to be wantonly abused by

A prominent British financial writer predicts the war will end in July next from exhaustion. A former German secretary of the interior says the kaiser will dictate terms of peace in London two years hence. French and Russian prophets have not been heard from lately, but the guessing contest remains open to all

Some of the amendments to the electric light bill suggested by The Bee have been accepted by its sponsors. Every one of them should be incorporated in the measure, particularly the one to keep the employes out of politics.

Foreign borrowings of cash to the New York market are well into the second hundred millions. The interest rate and the discount rate community which makes up the Greater Omaha show that lenders are raking the hay in double shifts.

By VICTOR ROSEWATER

Y reference the other day to the death of Samuel Bowles of the Springfield Republican and to the unsuccessful effort years ago to induce his father to transfer his journalistic activities to Omaha, brought me a telephone message from my good friend and former neighbor, Truman Buck, suggesting that I had overlooked a generation of the Howles family. In ascribing the founding of the Springfield Repub ican to the father instead of to the grandfather.

"Look into the history of the Bowles family little further," said Mr. Buck, which I forthwith did and made the correction, although technically were probably both right in the first instance. inquiry disclosed that the Springfield Republican was founded as a weekly paper in 1801 by the first Samuel Bowles, who was connected with it, but that it was his son, the second Samuel Bowles, who in 1811 preaffed upon him to establish the Republican as a daily, and was therefore entitled to the credit of being its founder quite as much as was his father.

My investigation disclosed something more, and of pual interest to me, as possibly explaining why my father, and the men associated with him in promoting the old "Tribune" in 1870, felt that they might persuade the then editor of the Springfield Republican to pull up stakes and come out to Omnha, and take charge of the newspaper they were eager to launch. For although an easterner, born and bred, Samuel Bowles, ar., had personally explored the west in two trips across the continent, and had described his obervations so enthusiastically in the letters written to his paper, and later gathered together and tasued into a book running through several editions, as to warrant the conclusion that he appreciated the great possibilities of this section, as did few others, and was enamored of the country and its life. In the preface to his book, which is entitled "Our New West," and accessible in our public library, the occasions of these trips are thus explained:

The author has spent two summers in intimate travel over the regions comprehended in the volume. The first (1865) was before the railroad was begun, when he traveled by stage from the Missouri river to the Pacific ocean, and thence north to Oregon, Washington territory and Puget's sound; stopping for leisure study of Colorado, of Utah and its Mormons of Nevada and its mines; and visiting all the distinctive points of interest, either for scenery, for business improvement, or for social characteristics. Again in 1868, he passed over the then already completed railroad to the creft of the great continental mountain ranges, and, thence descending among the great folds of mountains and elevated peaks distinguish Colorado, and make it the geographical center and phenomenon of the continent, spent some weeks in camp life in that future Switzerland of America. The company of so distinguished and popular public men as Mr. Colfax, the speaker and vice president, and Lieutenant Governor Bross of lilinois, during both summers, smoothed all our ways, and unlocked for our study all the mysteries of social and business life. We were welcomed to generous hospitality of head and heart, and gained at once completest knowledge of the states and territories visited. Study, then and since, of all local records and authorities, has completed and kept alive my acquaintance with the growth, character and capacity of this new kingdom of our continent."

In the body of the volume is what is more to the point and more illuming, a word-picture by this hardheaded New Englander of the then beginnings of Omaha and Council Bluffs, and a survey of the progress they had made between 1865, the year Mr. Bowles first crossed the continent, and 1866, the year of his second expedition. This account reads as fol-

"Omaha in 1965, a feeble rival of Atchison, Leavenworth and Nebraska City in outfitting emigrant and merchandise wagons for Colorado and Utah, and without a single mile of railroad within one hundred miles, has already become the greatest railroad center of the Missouri and Mississippi valleys. It is the starting point of the Pacific railroad which stretches a completed line of eighteen hundred miles west to the Pacific ocean; to the east are two or three completed lines of five hundred miles across lowa and Illinois to Chicago, and others are in progress; to the south are open roads to St. Louis across Missouri; and to the north is a finished road to Sloux City, and fast stretching on to St. Paul. The three great states of the Mississip Hilnois, Iowa and Missouri, the garden and granary of the nation, and seat of its middle empire, are slashed in all directions by railroad linez, completed or rapidly constructing, meeting as a western focus at Omaha and Council Bluffs, sister towns on either bank of the Missouri, and converging on the east into either Chicago or St. Louis. Their consequent development, in population and wealth, is perhaps the most wonderful illustration of modern American growth. It is within this area that New England is pouring the best of her emigration, and reproducing herself, in energy and industry and intelligence, on a broader, more generous and more national basis.

"Council Bluffs, on the Iowa bank of the Missouri river, opened the year 1869 with 8,000 inhabitants having erected 1,300 new buildings in 1868, while Omaha, opposite, counted nearly double that number. In both cases the railroads center upon the bottom lands, but the beautiful bluffs back and above invite the living areas of the towns. Council Bluffs is almost hidden amid the folding circles of its hills, and has the fascination of mysteries in the distance; but Omaha stands out with holder and more even front upon a grand amphitheater over the river. Besides the railroads, these towns have a river navigation 2,000 miles north into Montana and to the British line, and 2,000 miles south to New Orleans and the gulf.

"Out now upon the continental railroad. For 500 miles, a straight, level line, across the broad plains along the valley of the Platte. It was but play to build a railroad here. Yet there is a steady ascent of ten feet to the mile; and for the first 200 miles the country has the exquisite roll and active fortility of the lowa and Illinois prairies. Through this region the growth of Nebraska shares that of those two states, and she has the advantage of them, generally, in climate, in water, and in wood.

After looking a little further into the history of the Bowles family, and into this delightful narrative of a delighted traveler, I could understand better the letter I have previously quoted as penned by Mr Bowles in answer to his Omaha invitation. sald he had brushed it aside "very gently" and "very politely," and I am inclined to believe now, also very reluctantly.

At a meeting of the board of managers of the Douglas County Agricultural society Elijah Allen, appointed a committee of one to visit and confer with the officers of the different agricultural societies of Saunders, Washington, Burt and Cuming counties, with reference to holding a district fair, reported all favoring the proposition. Members Eicher and Rustin will consult with leading citizens of Omaha as to further details.

The Charity union is now located in more conremient cosy quarters at $19% North Sixteenth. Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Burgess, residing on Hamilton street near King, have suffered a sad bereavement in the death of their infant son, Charles, All the rubbish and debris in the new court yard was removed today by Contractor Coots and shovejing parties will now be set to work on the high and dangerous bank that now overhangs the sidewalk

E. C. Pierce, the well known coroner of Washington county, appeared in Omaha last evening dressed in a light summer suit and straw hat. He informed his astounded friends that he had made a bet last fall that if Blaine was defeated he would come out on the first of March in full summer attire.

Vodica & Pappez, merchant tailors, have removed to 1014 South Tenth street between Farnam and

Douglas

SECULAR SHOTS AT PULPIT.

Houston Post. " I ask no quarter from he devit and give him none," Billy Sunlay told the Princeton students. What would the devil care for a quarter from Billy when people lust pour the gold dauole eagles into his cap all the time?

Pittsburgh Dispatch: William Sunday sas taken a census of hell, and finds that Voltaire, John Stuart Mill, Huxley, Tyntall and Tom Paine are residents of the egion. From which we are able to infer that the infernal regions are an intellectual center, however defective the climate

New York Times: Mr. Sunday deserves praise for his self-restraint in leaving out 'aligula, Stephen Girard, Napoleon, Dr. Channing and Alaric the Goth. But perhaps this is only the first installment. and we shall get another docket soon. It is to be housed so, for we are athirst to know these things.

Philadelphia Leiger: Mark Twain asriped his success as a humorist to the fact that he always avoided the obvious, In the case of Billy Sunday's financial returns the phylons comments are superabundant, and that is why they make no impression. In fact, they are effective only in their reaction.

Philadelphia Record: That suggestion if a Boston clergyman that the unemsloyed should take off their clothes and parade in the altogether, as a demonstration of their sufferings to the public. would be more timely in summer than in chilly March. Boston's east winds are proverbially cold and cutting, especially at this season. As a practical measure of relief the suggestion seems to be on a par with some others of clerical origin. The gentlemen of the cloth too often let their sympathies swamp their common NOTHER !

QUAINT BITS OF LIFE.

In the Falkland islands there are five en to every woman

At Salem, Ill., a buildog bred by a Gernan heard a visitor humming "Tiperary" and took a slice of his pantaloons arge enough to switch the tune

A man in Ohlo lived for sixty-two years alone in a house which he built for his bride-torbe, who died just before the wedding day. He never allowed a woman in the house.

A. A. Swingle, who is 73 years old, has been agent for the Western Union Telegraph company at Hancock, Md., for 46 years. He lives almost a mile out of town and walks four miles a day be tween his office and his home, or 1,440 miles a year and has been walking it every day in the year for thirty-five years, a total of 50,400 miles.

No more novel method of gold "mining" has ever come to light than that pursued at a deserted mining camp near Wickes, Mont. It is the remains of what was once a thriving village at the Gregory mine, and the sand used in plastering the houses came from ponds rich in gold. Now the old cottages are being torn down and the plaster carefully smelted.

Hiram Johnson, a farmer living near Waterville, N. Y., tells a beautiful tale of how he utilizes the digging propensities of three woodchucks which he captured. He says he has trained them to dig straight postholes any depth and size required. He explains that he ties cord to one of the animal's hind legs. indicates where the hole is to be dug, and when it is sufficiently deep he pulls the cord. The woodchuck then scrambles up for his reward of dried alfalfa.

MUSINGS OF A CYNIC.

When a fellow is crusty it may be due to the way he was bred.

It is a good plan neither to borrow nor lend where trouble is concerned.

No fellow is so sharp that some other person doesn't occasionally sit on him. It is the constant aim of the chronic borrower to keep in touch with his friends.

It is quite possible for a man to have a clean-cut look without having sharp features. Many a man is like his umbrella-seldom in evidence except when he is under It is possible to entertain an angel unawares, but you can't entertain a bore that way. Unfortunately there are some things that even the most absent-minded of us can't forget. A man's success sometimes merely means that the world has taken him at his own valuation

Many a fellow goes through life at such rapid clip that he hasn't even time to stop and think. It's a good thing to know when to stop, but quite another thing to take advantage of your knowledge. With some men nothing is impossible.

You will even sometimes see an old bachelor trying to amuse a baby, It may be strictly true that women are more fickle than men, but they certainly have more opportunities. Nor does the size of the family Bible always indicate the amount of religion there is in that particular family,

The ingenuity that many a man displays in dodging creditors would make his fortune in any other fine of endeavor.

TABLOIDS OF SCIENCE.

-New York Times.

Powdered borax sprinkled on a garbage can or refuse pile will drive away flies. The addition of a little vinegar to water in which it is being cooked will make tough meat tender. Aluminum can be rolled into sheets one two-thousandth of an inch in thickness that are as strong as tinfoil. An English farm accountant concludes after thorough study that you cannot determine the cost of any one farm product without knowing the cost of all the others. The old name for the sunflower was solsosce, the sun-follower. The ancient sunflower, or sun-follower, was the marigoid; the tall plants of the present day are of American origin. From the speed at which earthquake waves travel through the earth an English scientist has constructed a theory that the world has a dense central core, which may be measured in time.

The United States Agricultural department is endeavoring to accolimatize the aboticaba tree from Brazil, which, unlike any other tree, bears its fruit and flowers on the bark. The fruit is like a grape.

Sand forms the best surface on which to expose garments or bedding infected with fleas. If the sunlight is streng enough to raise the temperature of the sand to 120 degrees the fleas will be lestroyed within an hour, provided there is no vegetation or other shade where they can take refuge.

People and Events

You can't lose 'em. Sir O'Moore Creagh, emmander of the defenses of London. is a descendant of Rory O'Moore of Queen Elizabeth's time.

There are only two classes of people, says Frank Tannenbaum of church raiding fame, "those who work and those who want to work." This leaves the L W. W. up in the air.

An unexpected and agreeable blow-up, affecting 15,000 men, occurred in the you believe that I am desperately in lovel Dupont powder plant last week. It was demonstrative.—Stanford Squatter. a 20 per cent boost in wages. No injuries from the shock are reported.

Critics who look at patriotism through the slats of a dollar mark maintain that have to keep his health in order to hold $.00,000 is about five times too much to his lob. Washington Star. pay for the Monticello estate. Maybe it

A New York judge reaffirms a previous every morning in time to go t ruling to the effect that the bushand is Southern Woman's Magazine. the bors of his own household. But the judge leaves the husband to do his own like, mr boy".

"One your married life seem home-like, mr boy".

"Oh. yes. My wife's quarrels are extended by the judge blows his smoke."—Chicago News.

from Kansas, who is back at his deak on ciety columns. His courage is admirable. So is that of the man who jumps off a tall building

The municipal campaign in Chicago appears wrapped in winding sheets of melancholy. Not a rift of gaiety lightens the gloom. Local papers refrain from printing J. Ham Lewis' design for spring whiskers, and the justly celebrated smile of Carter Harrison celebrates no longer. It is the saddest case of glooms Chicago has had since Colonel Sprecher squatted on the lake front.

The oldest lawsuit on the Chicago dockets, having whiskers twenty-nine years long, was argued again last week. The case involves the validity of a fiveyear contract with a cemetery beautifier. who now sleeps in the cemetery he helped to beautify. All the witnesses are resting under the willows, and the judge who first tried the case has been retired by the voters. But there is enough cash tied up in the case to keep the legal pulmotor in action.

THE GREEDY FOX.

Author Unknown. On a winter's night, As the moon shone bright, we foxes went out for prey; As they trotted along, As they trotted along, With frolle and song They cheered their weary way.

Through the wood they went, But they could not scent A rabbit or goose astray; But at length they came To, some better game. In a farmer's barn by the way.

On a roost there sat Some chickens as fat As foxes could wish for their dinners So the prowlers found A hole by the ground, And they both went in it, the sinners!

They both went in With a squeeze and a grin, id the chickens were quickly killed; And one of them lunched, And feasted, and munched, Till his stomach was fairly filled.

The other, more wise,
Looked about with both eyes,
And hardly would eat at all;
For as he came in,
With a squeeze and a grin,
He remarked that the hole was small.

And, the cunning elf,
He said to himself,
"If I eat too much it's plain,
As the hole is small,
I shall stick in the wall And never get out again Thus matters went on

I'll the night was gone. And the farmer came out with a pole The foxes both flew, And one went through, But the greedy one stuck in the hole. out with a pole;

In the hole he stuck, So full was his pluck Of the chickens he had been eating— He could not get out, Or turn about, And so he was killed by beating.

DOMESTIC PLEASANTRIES.

Penelops-My book of dancing rules mays, "Don't hold the lady too close."

Percival-Impossible Judge Colored Mammy-Ah wants to see Mis tah Cummins.

Office new-Mr. Cummins is engaged.

Colored Mammy-Well, ab don't want to marry him honey.—Woman's Homs Companion.

Trott-Well, my dear, did you enjoy your shopping trip today? Mrs. Trott-No. I didn't. I found ex-actly what I wanted in the very first store I entered -Boston Transcript.

"That multimillionaire says he works

"We are going to give up having pay for the Monticello extate.

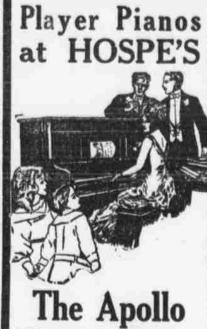

Is, but Jefferson Levy is not working the Johnny get an education.

For Sale" column.

A New York judge reaffirms a previous every morning in time to go to school."—

"Dead men tell no tales," observed the the Wichita Eagle, is credited with a "Maybe not," replied the fool, "But purpose of telling the truth in the secinnati Enquirer.

Player Piano

nas every device usually found on high grade Players. In addition it has the Auto-natic Esroll.

matic Beroil.

It has the down touch (Keys played same as the finger touch). It has a Bolo device; playing the air with a distinct emphasis and the accompaniment softly, or you can cut off the sole entirely, and play the accompaniment separately; the new Pedaling Device makes it easy work. This instrument is easily distinguished from ordinary mechanical Player Planos, by its positive human touch and intonation. Before you buy a player investigate our claims; it pays to be safe.

Price $750 Up CASE OR TERMS. Player Rolls

New Player Rolls, Every one owning a player should see our stock of Rolls and get a catalogue of the new Glad to play over this stock at your convenience.

A. Hospe Co.

1513 Douglas St.

Lee's Shampoo fibre and scalp pores.

is not merely another liquid soap. It is the best of over five hundred different kinds made and tested in our laboratory, for four particular points-purity and safety; quick and thorough cleansing; quick after-drying; and non-penetration of lather in hair

You will note on using this Shampoo that it makes a very thick lather; that it washes out quick and that the hair dries quick and is soft and fluffy, entirely free from any stiffness or gumminess or brittleness, which is generally present in hair that has been saturated with soaky suds. A trial is very convincing.

> 32 dram bottle (10 shampoos foriman, 5 to 10 for woman), 25 cts. Quart bottle (refilia 25 ct. size 5 times), $1.00 Delivered prepaid anywhere in U. S.

Made only at the laboratories of GEO. H. LEE CO.

Sold by these druggists in Omaha. So. Omaha, Benson and Co. Bluffs OMAHA, NEBR. Paxton Hotel Pharmacy, 14th & Harney Streets. Adams-Haight Drug Co., 24th & Lake Streets. Pope Drug Co., 1302 Farnam Street. Adams-Haight Drug Co., 2402 Fort Street.

C. R. Caughlan, 4725 Leavenworth Street. Clifton Hill Pharmacy, 2213 Military Avenue. Elton's Pharmacy. 3240 North 24th Street.

Great Western Pharmacy. 720 South 16th Street. G. A. Greenough & Co., 1025 So. 10th Street. Hanscom Park Pharmacy, 1501 Park Avenue. Harvard Pharmacy, S. E. Cor. 24th & Farnam

Hayden Bros., Drug Dept. 16th & Dodge Streets. A. L. Huff, 2924 Leavenworth Street. A. J. Kearney, 2502 South 22nd Avenue, Kountse Place Pharmacy, 2002 North 24th Street.

Kulha Drug Co., 1101 Park Avenue.

Merritt's Pharmacy, Store No. 1302 Douglas Street. Merritt's Pharmacy, Store No. 2, 2002 Farnam Street. Miller Pharmacy, 2852 Leavenworth Street.

Myers-Dillen Drug Co., 16th & Farnam. Owl Pharmacy, 16th & Harney. Patrick Pharmacy, 1603 North 16th Street.

Saratoga Drug Co., 34th & Ames Avenue. Schmidt Drug Co., 24th & Cuming Streets. Sherman-McConnell Drug Co., 16th & Dodge Streets. Smith Pharmacy, 1914 North 14th Street. Vachars Pharmacy, Walnut Hill Pharmacy, 40th & Cuming Streets.

Omaha, Neb.

E. A. Winn, 1901 Leavenworth Street. SOUTH OMAHA, WEBB. Anderson Drug Co., 20th and L Street D. S. Clark Drug Co., 2402 North 14th Street

Fenton Drug Co., 4128 L. Street. Fenten Drug Co., $601 Q. Street. G. E. Searr Drug Co., 524 No. 24th Street. Stanek's Pharmacy, 535 North 24th Street.

BENSON, MEBB. Haller Pharmacy, 5939 Main Street.

Chas. H. Sprague Pharmacz, 5905 Main Street. COUNCIL BLUFFS, TOWA

Geo. Davis Drug Co., 200 West Broadway.

A. W. Oard Drug Co., 701-703 North 16th Appen