

RUSS ROLLING ON TOWARD HUNGARY

German Critic Says Supreme Command Should Do Everything to Avert Invasion.

PETROGRAD VERY OPTIMISTIC

LONDON, March 31.—Russian forces from Przemysl are already taking their place side by side with the troops who have for weeks past been striving to carry the Carpathian passes in the face of stern opposition by the Austrians and Germans.

That this is a struggle of the greatest importance, the result of which will "exercise a strong effect on the entire situation," is pointed out by Major Morah, the military critic of the Berlin Tageblatt, who adds:

Fear of Russ Sweep.
The supreme army command has grounds enough for employing all disposable forces to avert a Russian irruption into the Hungarian plains.

In this region, particularly along the Barstfeld-Czank front, the Russian advance, according to the official statement from Petrograd, "are developing with perfect success, notwithstanding the enemy's stubborn resistance."

The nature of the fighting is indicated by the same official communication which tells of desperate counter attacks, says that the Russians captured on Sunday and Monday, last, seventy-six officers, 534 men and a great number of guns.

Improve Advantages.

The Austrians have improved their advantage of having forced the Russians to withdraw from Bukovina, for in an advance from Czernowitz the Russians admit the Austrians crossed the Russian frontier and advanced half way to Jotin. Already the Russians are sending troops to that section to repel the invaders.

In the western war area attacks and counter attacks, with varying degrees of success, are reported. The Germans continue to bombard the bridges around Neupert, while from the sea to the Alps and in Champagne there have been artillery actions. The seriousness of the battle for Hartmann-Wellerkopf, in Alsace, is shown by the fact that the bodies of 700 German dead have been found.

The Morning Coat

(By the House of Kuppenheimer)

THE correct thing for the Easter morning church parade, as for all formal day dress, is the MORNING COAT—either one or two button. This Kuppenheimer model will put you right as to style details. It is strictly vogue, and a good example of the advanced work of this House in authoritative fashions for men.

The body is close-fitting with natural shoulders and shapely sleeves. The edges of the coat may be plain, or finished with a braid binding, as shown in the illustration.

The MORNING COAT is a necessity as the recognized style for church wear, for noon weddings, for public meetings, for the afternoon call and for all dress occasions in the day time.

Its cost is slight compared with the important place it fills in the modern man's wardrobe.

It may please you to see how well you can wear this coat when designed and tailored properly.

Just try one on as made by the House of Kuppenheimer. Get the effect from all angles before the mirror; note the moderate price and say whether you can afford to be without one.

Prices—$20 to $40

Kuppenheimer Clothes are sold by a representative store in nearly every Metropolitan center of the United States and Canada. Your name on a post card will bring you our Book of Fashions.
