Trimble Bros. Add to Their Building

By taking over the adjoining building to the north of their establishment, Trimble Bros., commission merchants, have just doubled their floor space. The addition is a five-story building, the same height as the main building, and the total floor space now occupied in some 20,000 square feet. New offices and new furnishings have been installed in both the main building and the addition.

The improvements were necessitated by the steadily increasing business of the firm, which found itself handicapped by lack of floor space. With the addition, however, it is expected that the facilities will be sufficient to handle the business for a few more years at least be fore larger quarters must be obtained.
