BURBANK FUNERAL TO BE HELD TUESDAY

Services at Trinity Cathedral and Body to Be Taken East in Three Weeks.

MANY FLAGS ARE AT HALF MAST

Funeral services for William R. Burbank, proprietor of the Fontenelle hotel, who died suddenly of heart failure Saturday night, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday afternoon at Trinity cathedral. The services will be public. The body will be placed temporarily in the receiving vault of Forest Lawn cemetery, where it will remain for about three weeks, when it will be taken to Syracuse, N. Y., the former home of Mr. and Mrs. Burbank. Mrs. Burbank expects to return with the body and resume her home in Syracuse.

A brother and sister of Mr. Burbank are unable to arrive from Seattle in time for the funeral. Another sister, of Springfield, Mass., cannot make the trip.

Telegrams of Condolence. Many telegrams of condolences are being received at the Fontenelle. Edgar A. Walsh of New York, who selected Mr. Burbank for G. W. Watters, wired that he will be here this week. G. W. Watters sent a message from California. Many telegrams were received from Syracuse, N. Y., where Mr. Burbank had been identified with the opening and management of the Onondaga hotel.

Flags at the Fontenelle and other places of the city are at half staff. Directors of the Interstate Hotel company of Nebraska will meet this week to select a president to succeed Mr. Burbank.

There was an atmosphere of sadness about the brilliant structure yesterday that showed unmistakably the esteem in which the head of the big organization was held.

Several dinner parties were postponed because of the death of Mr. Burbank, and music was dispensed with.

The management of the hotel will be carried on under the direction of Abraham Burbank and Arthur N. Cole, secretary.

Parish Pays Tribute. Victor Parrish, manager of the Commercial club bureau of publicity, who was closely acquainted with Mr. Burbank, in speaking of his friend, said: "He worked himself to death just to make the Fontenelle a place of which Omaha could feel justly proud. He often told me that though the Fontenelle was Omaha's first truly big hotel and that others would undoubtedly follow later, it was his greatest ambition to make his hotel a standard that those to come would follow but not improve."

"He had just achieved his ambition and success was already in his grasp when death called him away before he could enjoy the fruits of his labor."

Mrs. Burbank is seriously ill as the result of Mr. Burbank's sudden death.

The active pallbearers have been selected from the various departments of the Fontenelle as follows: Charles H. Mayard, director of restaurants; E. C. Grande, steward; Frank Fuller, wine steward; A. L. Schaffer, chief engineer; A. E. Suttie, superintendent of building; P. J. Croghan, head houseman; H. V. Clark, manager of laundry; E. K. Murray, manager of barber shop.

THE "BEST DRESSED WOMAN IN WASHINGTON"—Mrs. Marguerite Upton Hopkins, wife of Sherbourne Hopkins, jr., who is in New York preparing to go into vaudeville and also to get a divorce.

WHEAT CROP ABOVE NORMAL

First of the Weekly Crop Reports of Burlington Road Shows Farm Conditions Perfect.

WET SOIL DELAYS FLOWING

The Burlington's first crop and soil report of the season is out and indicates a flattering condition through Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming, the three states west of the Missouri river tributary to Omaha.

The crop report of the current date shows that over the entire district there has been an abundance of moisture during the last winter and that at this time the soil is thoroughly soaked from recent rains and melting snow. Generally the ground is so wet that spring work on the farms has been retarded.

Dealing with winter wheat, the acreage of which is greater than normal, the report places it in perfect condition. Figuring on the basis of 100 per cent being what the condition should be at this time normally on the Omaha, Lincoln and Wyoming divisions it is placed at 101 and on the McCook division at 104 per cent.

Meadows and pastures have not commenced to show much green, but it is estimated that they could not be in better shape, having been covered with a thick blanket of snow for several months.

Prospects for all kinds of spring grain and fruit are asserted to be good, in some localities potatoes have been planted, but the acreage out at this time is small.

WELSH SAYS NO DANGER FROM MISSOURI RIVER

"Half the lies told about the Missouri river rising aren't true," declares Colonel Welsh. The tawny stream, he declared, has behaved itself very seemly so far. It has not yet approached closer than within two and a half feet of flood stage. Since Saturday morning it has fallen nearly half a foot here. Up at Pierre, S. D., a fall of four and a half feet is reported in the last twenty-four hours. Freezing temperatures Sunday night all over the north will, the colonel thinks, result in still further falling in the waters of the Missouri.

When our government took charge of its construction the canal was a succession of fever infected swamps. Through the magnificent work of Col. Gorgas and his corps of brave assistants it is now comparatively a health resort. These men risked and some gave their lives to prove that Yellow Fever was not contagious, but contracted from the bite of a certain mosquito. As a result of their work not a case of Yellow Fever has originated in the Canal Zone in the past five years. Come to the Fourth Floor Tuesday or any day this week and see the reproduction of the Canal and Canal Zone, and hear the lecturer tell you how this wonderful work was accomplished as he points out the places to you on the model.
