While alfalfs not infrequently gives as many as six cuttings a year, the usual number of crops is five, averaging a ton and a half to the acre. After the list cutting the ground is available for passurage, the ground is available for passurage. The first crop of the season, less pure, but heavier than later ones, is usually worth $5.00 a ton in the shock. The average price for other cuttings is $5.00 per ton. Balling costs $1.50 to $2.00 per ton. Balling costs $1.50 to $2.00 per ton. There is a field for development in growing this crop for seed. In 1914 there were $3.86 acres of standing alfalfa in Sutter county. Besides being one of the best soil builders known, affalfa yields profits without delay, $60 an acre gross the first year is nothing very unusual. As a rule by the third year it is in full swing. We have an improved $6 acres that has some alfalfa stready in, more of it ready for seeding. CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Prices on Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, April it.—In one of the most exciting markets since the beginning of the war, wheat prices today shot upward nearly 10 cents a bushel, finished wild. Sice to 5c above last night. The trade was stampeded by fear that virtually exhausted reserves throughout the world would have to be faced before the first of the new crop in the United States could be gathered. Other staples hardened with wheat, but the gains were comparatively email—Corn. Sic to 146214;c. oats, 4c to 15c, and provisions, 25c to 75c.

Evidence that the buying force back of the excited advance in wheat came chiefly from the big short interests appeared in the fact that the assent of values for July and Saptember, the new crop deliveries, was greater than for May, which represents contracts for wheat already in store. Remarkably heavy purchasing of July by a large house identified with one of the most prominent speculative leaders on change was what first alarmed the rank and file of shorts. It was not long before other strong interests took to the buying side, and when the final hour of the session was at hand the pit was soon in a whip.

Word that the British government had decided to cease buying wheat was interpreted to mean a mee-for-all scramble on the part of other large consumers, and was also taken to indicate that Great Britain had, acquired control, of a much larger amount of wheat than has beretofore been supposed was the case. Sharp attention was given to a report that reserves in the United States were al-Features of the Trading and Closing Prices on Board of Trade.

larger amount of wheat than has heretofore been supposed was the cass. Sharp attention was given to a report that reserves in the United States were already nearly 50,000,000 hushels less than at this time a year ago.

Profit taking by longs just before the close broke the wheat market back a cents from the top level reached. Eager buying, however, quickly absorbed all the offgrings, and it seemed plain that builish sentiment was decidedly uppermoss when the final gong rang.

Corn bulged not only on account of wheat strength, but as a result of improved cash domand. It could not be verified, however, that export buying had been enlarged. Houses that generally act for Canadian exporters look hold freely in the cats crowds. Big clearance of oats at the seaboard tended also to help the bulls here.

Provisions rallied when grain began to ascend. At first the market had been under some pressure from packers.
