

PRINTERS WILL GIVE LABEL PROTECTION

Local Union Issues Statement to the Public in Connection with Fake Advertising Schemes.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE TO AOT

At its meeting yesterday Omaha Typographical union No. 190 adopted a report from a committee that had inquired into the publication of a so-called union label directory...

The so-called "Union Label Directory" was not the product of union labor. The Allied Printing Trades council label was wrongfully used thereon.

Knowing that fake advertising is injurious to the entire printing industry, Omaha Typographical union No. 190 most strongly condemns this practice and stands ready to do anything it can to prevent in the future any recurrence of such affairs as the one under investigation.

After the report was disposed of, the union adopted a motion directing its executive committee to take further action in the matter, for the purpose of protecting the label of the Allied Printing Trades council.

LETTERS OF PLATT AND ROOSEVELT

personal reasons. "It was because I thought the people wanted him," he added.

"Did you regard it as any evidence of corruption that Messrs. Barnes, Hendricks and Parsons favored some other man than Mr. Hughes?"

"I can't answer that collectively."

Later Colonel Roosevelt answered in the negative when asked specifically about each of the men named.

Mr. Ivins then told Justice Andrews he wished to put into evidence correspondence that passed between Thomas C. Platt and Colonel Roosevelt between 1908 and 1909.

While attorneys for both sides were discussing these letters Colonel Roosevelt opened some mail and sat in the witness chair reading it.

Colonel Roosevelt identified a copy of a telegram dated September 13, 1909, sent to Lemuel E. Quigg and signed by himself. In it Colonel Roosevelt told Quigg that he had substantially represented the proper condition of affairs to Senator Platt.

The attorneys for both sides looked over the packet of letters Mr. Ivins had produced. Jury and spectators talked while this was going on. Colonel Roosevelt seemed to be impatient. He crossed first one leg and then the other and kept up a tattoo with his finger tips on the judge's bench.

When the letters were finally gone over they were received as exhibit number 99 and the reading of them was begun. The first was dated October 2, 1909, addressed to Senator Platt. In it Colonel Roosevelt said:

"I was misquoted. I never discriminated against any man because of his religion or his race."

In the second letter he said: "Can I see you Friday morning?"

The third was dated in 1909 from Albany. In it Colonel Roosevelt told of a conference with Governor Black over the appointment of a judge. He said further: "I would like to see you about this matter."

The name of Mr. Hill was mentioned in the letter.

"Did you consult Black Platt about the appointment of Mr. Hill as a state senator?" asked the cross-examiner.

"What?" replied the colonel. "I didn't appoint any state senators."

"I mean a district attorney of Erie county?"

"I consulted Senator Platt about all matters he wished to be consulted about, and then did what I thought best. I don't know whether I consulted him about a district attorney of Erie county."

AMERICAN AVIATOR WITH FRENCH ARMY REPORTED KILLED—William Thaw was admitted to the aviation corps several months ago. It is said his machine was seen to fall when he was flying over the German lines.

Japanese Demand That China Accept Requests in Full

PEKING, China, April 26.—The conference between the Japanese minister to China, Elk Hiki, and the Chinese foreign minister, Lu Cheng-Hsiang, were resumed today.

The Japanese minister presented an extended list of twenty-four demands. This list is virtually an amplification of the original twenty-one demands and includes even the demands for railroad concessions. It is understood, in territory where the lines would compete with British interests.

The Japanese insist that the Chinese government accept the new list of demands in its entirety, but no time limit has been set.

China is making certain military preparations which have been described as "feeble." Great secrecy is maintained as to the details.

In Peking the impression obtained among foreign observers that Japan will use force unless China yields.

TWO PIONEER WOMEN OF SAUNDERS DEAD

ASHLAND, Neb., April 25.—(Special Telegram.)—Within nine hours of each other two pioneer women, residents of Ashland, passed away today.

Mrs. Sarah Mayfield died at 7:30 this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Granger, aged 85 years, her birthday having been Sunday. She was born in Monroe county, Indiana, and was married to James E. Mayfield in that state April 21, 1853.

She died at 4 o'clock this afternoon, aged 79 years.

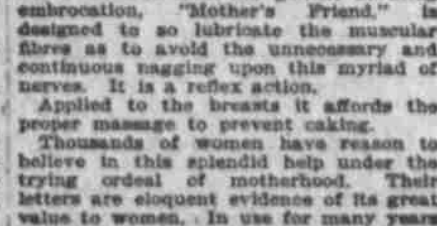

Frances Sheffer was born at Liberty, Pa., October 9, 1837, coming with her parents to Cass county, Nebraska, locating between Ashland and Greenwood in 1865, and had resided here continuously since.

She was married in Cass county July 4, 1866, to Leander K. Bell, who died September 12, 1895. Four children survive, Miss Lillian Bell of Ashland, Mrs. M. N. Drake of Louisville, Mrs. Ella Mathews of South Omaha and Harlan C. Bell, an adopted son, residing at Nelton, Mont. Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the Christian church.

ALLEGED GERMAN SPY ARRESTED IN ITALY

NICE, France, April 25.—A German named Wild, in whose villa at Nervic, near Geneva, a wireless outfit was found, has been arrested. The case against him is still pending.

Experienced Women Advise Mother's Friend

Because it is so perfectly safe to use and has been of such great help to a host of expectant mothers, these women, experienced in this most happy period, advise the use of "Mother's Friend."

Applied externally to the abdominal muscles its purpose is to relieve the undue tension upon the cords and ligaments resulting from muscular expansion. Beneath the surface is a network of fine nerve threads and the gentle, soothing embrocation, "Mother's Friend," is designed to soothe the muscular fibers as to avoid the unnecessary and continuous sagging upon this myriad of nerves. It is a reflex action.

200,000 BRITISH ON AEGEAN; BEGIN ATTACK BY LAND

poll peninsula the moment the fleet passed into the sea of Marmora, the Turks and Germans immediately would close the straits behind it, so the warships would find it difficult to fight their way out again.

"Nothing amazed the British and French gunners more than the resisting power of the old forts around the Dardanelles. For example, those at Seddul Bahr and Kum Kale were subjected to a devastating bombardment in February, yet when landing parties examined them they found the material damage done was comparatively small. Although they were mere shambles, many guns were still intact and one nine-inch piece actually was found loaded.

"Similar conditions existed in the forts nearer the narrow. After the terrific bombardment of March 18, their gunners were forced to seek shelter and the fortifications were silenced, but the fleet does not claim to have put many guns out of commission. After the gunnery to the battleships Ocean and Irresistible, some of these guns were remained, concentrating a heavy fire on these vessels while the work of removing the crews to destroyers was in progress."

Turks Poor Gunners. The correspondent considers the Turks such poor gunners that the allies would have been at Constantinople if there had been only Turkish troops to deal with. He says, however, that praise must be given German officers for the skillful use of the defenses to meet the ships' fire. For this reason he believes it essential to have a very large expeditionary force, supplied with heavy artillery, both field howitzers, if the expedition is to be a success.

"The first great moral obstacle," the British observer states, "lies in the constantly renewed mine fields, then the concealed batteries of heavy howitzers, and the direct fire guns placed in position since the first attack on the outer forts. Then there are the movable light batteries, which bombard the ships from the most unexpected quarters. The severity of the fire from these batteries frequently checks and makes exceedingly difficult the work of mine sweeping."

"The more the task of forcing the straits is examined, the more tremendous proportion does it assume. Moreover, we do not know the strength of the enemy's land forces, but they are entrenched everywhere, and the lesson of Flanders brought home clearly what is the inevitable cost of assaulting entrenched positions."

BLUFFS ENGINEER MAY SECURE BIG FORTUNE

AMES, Ia., April 25.—(Special.)—J. W. Fraach, a Northwestern locomotive engineer, formerly an Ames man and now of Council Bluffs, has fallen heir to the $5,000 estate left by an uncle, Herman Fraach, who died in Paris May 1. The late Mr. Fraach came to America from Germany in 1868 as a poor boy, and he accumulated millions as head of a sulphur corporation. The big estate is to be divided among Mr. Fraach and a son and daughter of the late multimillionaire. The railroad engineer is still holding onto his job until the courts of New York have put his share down in black and white.

Money in will seems to be coming thick and fast to Fraach all at once, for he has received notice that an aunt died lately in Philadelphia and the estate of $150,000 is to be distributed among nephews, Fraach being one of them.

Motor Car Upkeep Under the Microscope

By "Utility Test" 1915 Maxwell

CHAPTER V. I wonder how many of you that are following these chapters every day in the papers, realize that my keepers, the Francis-Cullis Auto Co., have assigned me a task that will double in mileage what any motor car could do in business use. I am glad that I have the daily opportunity to show what is really possible and what I could do if I were called on, but as far as any business man hitting the road, making calls and attending to his business goes, I don't think he would ever travel in seven days as much as I have traveled in the last five.

Your observer yesterday was H. W. Steward of the Nebraska Cycle Co., of Fifteenth and Harney streets. I took him on a trip up through Iowa, for the purpose of selling Victrolas and sewing machines, and I hope he will be as successful every day as he was today, for he visited six towns, made over a dozen calls, which consumed three hours of my running time, and made ten successful sales. Now I call that going some for a real live wire salesman.

We left Omaha at 8 o'clock and made Loveland, Misour Valley, Magnolia and Mondakon by lunch time, nothing of any moment happened and we just moved along as nicely as you please. The roads were in fair condition, in fact, they were better than I have had any day since I started to make this 1,000-mile run five days ago and still they are not as good as they will be. After lunch we called at Riversoo and Glencoe, making two side trips from Glencoe and returning home pretty well satisfied with the trip.

In talking about my last night, they brought out that I had "lost a cylinder" on the road, due to a foul plug, which, of course, is easily remedied, but I don't think I had to defend that much as that happens in the best of regulated families and Mr. Steward says that most cars do on four cylinders. Of course, that's "trade talk," but most people nowadays are "motor wise," so you will know what I mean.

THE TRIP. My speedometer shows that I have traveled 182.8 miles on my fifth day with nothing very wrong to speak of excepting the "leaky" water. I had to take on Sunday and the dirty spark plug yesterday. My electric starter has a perfect record so far. I have more than shown that I have more power with my car under my hood than I've needed, which is a nice thing to know. I took on an extra pint of oil in the morning and started because of the terrific grinding I had to do through the mud on Sunday. Oil is a little cheaper than parts even if my parts cost less than any other car built.

I did those 182.8 miles yesterday on eight gallons of gasoline, which is 18.1 miles per gallon.

LOOKING BACK. 151.5 miles today brings my total up to 756.4 miles for five days and my gasoline consumption now totals 42.3 gallons.

Watch for my story tomorrow for I'm getting well enough acquainted with mud to take it and I don't care how much they try, they are going to have a real good job on their hands to get me out of it. I have a chapter on efficiency to tell you that will, when it is all told, make you stop and think.
