Let Us Fit Your Corset

Why not look your best? Many women are younger in appearance today than they were 10 or 15 years ago, all because of the corset. When properly fitted to an R. & G. corset made for you it gives an up-to-date body poise and a feeling that you are as correctly corseted as any woman, no matter what price you pay.

Remember, the finest dress or tailored suit may be complete failures if your waist line is too high or low, if there are heavy ridges across your shoulders or in your skirt, if your abdomen is not correctly supported.

We study figure imperfections and correct them. Our corsetieres fit you to the R. & G. corset which is best for you, so you need make no mental apology for your appearance.

Come in at your earliest convenience and see what a change is possible. You need not buy unless you are perfectly satisfied. We guarantee all fittings.

SEVERAL STREETS TO BE REPAVED

Commissioners to Make Improvements Under New Law Just Put Into Effect.

ARE TO BUILD SEWERS, TOO

City Commissioners Hummel, Kugel and Jardina and City Engineer Townsend made an inspection trip in several localities where paving and sewer improvements seem urgent. They will recommend to the council the paving or repaving of these streets: Hamilton, Fortieth to Forty-third and Military avenue; Military avenue, Hamilton to Forty-fifth and Grant and a continuation to the city limits. This work would come within the operations of a new law which empowers the council to improve all "leading thoroughfares" from the city to its limits, without the usual procedure of petitions and other formalities.

These commissioners will also recommend that a sewer be extended through Miller park at a cost of about $2,500, another sewer from Thirty-sixth to Forty-third street, along Sprague, at an estimated cost of $7,000, and a sewer from Forty-second to Forty-seventh street, between Jones and Leavenworth streets, to take the place of the present open creek sewer.

Consideration of improving the surface of the Port Omaha and Center street roads will be taken up within a few weeks.

Ed Brown Greeted by Friends in His Annual Surprise

Over and over again Ed J. Brown, 132 North Thirty-first street, is sent on a long errand when the seasons roll around near the time for his birthday. Each and every time he goes willingly and innocently on that errand planned by his wife, only to come home and find a surprise birthday party waiting for him. Friday night, what did Mrs. Brown do but send him clear to Council Bluffs for something or other that she just must have and could not possibly get in Omaha.

Returning in due time he found exactly eight old friends in the house waiting for him, and the banquet all spread before him. In the house when he got home were Frank Bondwell, A. P. Whitmore, Lyle Abbott, J. D. Weaver, Judge Willis Sears, C. W. Hutchinson, Charles Bern of Council Bluffs and Fred J. Schorr of Council Bluffs. For years the same eight men have celebrated Brown's birthday by a surprise party in this way. This year the circle was broken, because A. H. Comstock, long a member of the eight, died a few weeks ago. His place in the circle was filled by Lyle Abbott.

The guests presented Mr. Brown with a large lunch basket for use in the automobile and Mrs. Brown with a large bouquet.

Musik Weeps as the Judge Pronounces Sentence of Death

Emil Musik wept when he was sentenced by District Judge English to pay the death penalty September 15 for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Anna Musik. According to evidence introduced in his trial he laughed after he cut his wife's throat March 5 in their home in South Omaha.

Judge English first overruled a motion for a new trial which had been filed by Musik's attorneys. This will be appealed to the supreme court.

"Do as you please," Musik said when asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon him. Tears were streaming down his face and his lip was quivering.

His 6-year-old daughter testified in the trial: "Papa killed mamma and laughed and ran out doors."

Musik is the second sentenced to the death penalty in Omaha since Nebraska substituted the electric chair for the hangman's rope. The first was Johnny Jones, whose conviction was upset by the supreme court and who later pleaded guilty and took a life sentence to the penitentiary.

The state has not yet bought an electric chair. Should Musik pay the death penalty such a purchase would be made necessary.

Annual Breakfast of Business Girls Wednesday at 7

The annual breakfast of the Business Girls' club will be given next Wednesday from 7 to 9 a. m. in the dining rooms of the Young Women's Christian association.

Of course, the business girls eat breakfast 365 times annually, but this is the annual breakfast, when they all "set up before breakfast" and "get down before breakfast" to the "Y" and pay 25 cents, too.

It is expected that fully 500 will partake of the "delicious" Miss Eva Norton, chairman of the conference committee, is in charge of the affair and the proceeds will be used to help send delegates to the Lake Geneva conference.

Miss Stella Wilcox, vice president of the club will have charge of the waitresses and Miss Augusta Bowen will be in charge of decorations.

"Men are quite welcome," said Miss Sander. "In fact, they are urged to come. We expect quite a number of the sterner sex to be there. It is well to have them among the roses, and, besides, every quarter helps."

So, there you are, men. But don't come before 7, for the coffee and eats won't be ready till that hour.

JUDGE ELLIOTT TO HEAR APPEAL IN MOORE CASE

Judge James D. Elliott, who presided in the local division of the federal court during the personal injury suit of Attorney John Moore against the Union Pacific railway, in which the plaintiff sued for $100,000 and was awarded $48,750, will hear arguments on a motion for a new trial Saturday, May 28, in the court of his home division, Sioux Falls, S. D.

EXPECT FIREWORKS FOR NEXT TUESDAY

Opposition Crops Out to Some of the Appointments Which Dahman May Make.

WILL NOT BROOK DICTATION

A canvass of the city hall appointive situation indicates that next Tuesday's meeting of the city council will not be as rosy as the flower gardens at Hanscom park. There is an unmistakable opposition to the re-appointment of Fred Anheuser as city prosecutor, and when the mayor was told of this feeling he answered by saying that he would not be dictated to by the commissioners in the matter of his appointments. He indirectly called attention to the fact that certain men were now in certain positions and that if the commissioners did not see fit to confirm his appointments those men might remain there by reason of new appointments not being made.

May He Be Reappointed? In the case of Prosecutor Anheuser, for instance, the mayor makes this appointment and the council confirms. Four commissioners could appoint somebody else, but that would be an affront which is not a probability, commissioners declare. Failure to confirm Anheuser, should the mayor reappoint him, and refusal of the mayor to name anybody else, would result in the present prosecutor remaining as a "holdover." Influence, however, is being brought to bear to induce the mayor to name some one else, Edward Simon being the most favored man for the place. But the mayor resents any attempt of the commissioners to dictate what he shall do and he spoke his mind on this matter without mincing words.

May Merit Promotion. The position of coroner, which has settled down to Assistant City Attorney Lambert and H. B. Fleharty. Some of the commissioners have conferred on the matter and they are frank to say that they believe Mr. Lambert's services during the last three years merits his promotion. It is stated that if Mr. Fleharty should be appointed by the mayor it will be for purely political reasons. The commissioners who are outspoken for civil service in the city hall say they will be for Mr. Lambert for corporation counsel. From a purely political standpoint, Mr. Fleharty appears to be running strong for the position. One of the mayor's close advisers goes so far as to say that the mayor will name Mr. Fleharty, but the mayor himself will not commit himself at this time.

Mayor for Pegg. The commissioners are not agreed on the reappointment of John Grant Pegg for inspector of weights and measures, although the mayor is said to be for Mr. Pegg for another term. Regarding appointments, Commissioner Hummel made this statement in connection with his own department: "I will not make any high-priced appointments this year. I am doing most of the actual supervising myself. I anticipate that we will have to meet a South Omaha situation, as the park fund of that city is depleted and our funds needs careful watching to make both ends meet."

Youth Peeved When Uncle Sam Refuses to Take His Nickel

"I wish to open an account here," said a well-dressed young man, stepping up to the window of the postal savings department in the postoffice.

"Yes, sir, how much did you wish to deposit?" inquired Miss Louise Grant, the clerk.

"Five cents to start with," said the young man.

Miss Grant did not faint, neither did she call the police. She simply explained, politely to the would-be depositor, that accounts could not be started for less than 10 cents.

Was the apparently prosperous man satisfied, and did he go forth, determined to work and save until he had accumulated another nickel and then return and entrust the entire due to the safe keeping of the United States government?

Truth compels us to report the fact that he did not.

Instead, he read the young woman a lecture on a plutocratic government's determination to step on the poor, down-trodden working classes and laboring men. It ought to take a nickel, he said, see, it ought to take a penny.

Miss Grant is a terrific young woman and she allowed the incipient Rockefeller to have the argument all to himself. And, as he couldn't change the law, he departed, taking his nickel with him.

DECIDE OMAHA IS NOT COAL MINING CENTER

Seeking work as coal miners in Omaha, Clarence and Eugene Walters of Hartford, Ark., came to the conclusion that the Gale City is not much of a mining center. They were watching Omaha's extensive railroad traffic around the depot when arrested by police officers, to whom they explained that this city seems busy and prosperous, although not along the line of their occupation.

The young brothers were advised by Judge Britt in police court that Colorado and Wyoming offered better opportunity for mining, but that Nebraska would be glad to give them farm work, if they wanted it. They were dismissed when they promised to stop loafing around town and try to work their way west.

CHARGE BURLINGTON WITH VIOLATING 28-HOUR LAW

Suit was filed against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad company in federal court for violation of the "twenty-eight-hour law" on two counts, shipment of two cars of sheep from Berthoud, Colo., to South Omaha, a trip consuming fifty-two hours, with only one unloading for water, feed and rest and this in a pen where there was six to eighteen inches of water and mud, is alleged in the petition on the first count. Shipment of 1,100 lambs from Black Hills, Colo., to South Omaha under similar violation of the law resulting in loading, feeding and watering at least once in twenty-eight hours is alleged in the second count. A fine of $500 is asked on each count.
