

REGULATIONS FOR HAGUE CONVENTION

With Peace Restored in Europe, Prediction Made Governments Will Adopt New Rules.

NEW CODES MUST BE DRAWN

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
 BERLIN, June 2.—The changes that the present war may render necessary in the decrees of the Hague convention are discussed at considerable length in an article by Prof. Sigurd Ibsen, which is prominently published in the Vossische Zeitung. New conditions and demands without precedent in former history, says Prof. Ibsen, must be provided for in new regulations and treaties in naval warfare, for example, he observes.

"The right to wage war at sea must be regulated anew. In fact, this has never been established on a firm basis. But no one could have foreseen that it rested on a foundation so utterly unstable as events have proved."

"There have been many attempts to place the law for war at sea on a firm foundation. The second Hague convention and the London conference of 1909 drew up a whole list of regulations in relation to sea warfare, which altogether made a complete book of statutes on the subject. But the difficulty was that many of these regulations were either rendered unworkable by reservations or did not gain the force of law through failure to obtain recognition from the governments concerned. This was the fate of the most important volumes of declaration, the effectuated London declaration, and the London convention on the subject without announcing any formal breach of the law to overstep the boundaries of the agreement. Naturally Germany went in for reservations and the result is a sea warfare which stands in contradiction to almost every international right that has so far been laid down."

"Sinking Ships Regular Practice."
 "However uncertain the obligations were in the past there were certain limitations which could not be overstepped. But it seems that at present there is no limitation to the claim of every state to do as it pleases. The law of contraband has received a development which no one foresaw. The trade and the shipping of neutral countries have been placed under a control which has become humiliating. The sinking of enemy merchant ships, which formerly was allowed only when unavoidable, has now become a regular practice."

"The conduct of trade is due to the working of two factors. In the first place, sea warfare has become a much more intensive war than heretofore anyone could have believed, a battle of financial weapons, a bitter fight for the means of existence. In the second place the improvement of the modern means of war, in particular the submarine and mine, has developed a kind of war which is without precedent in former history and which falls by necessity outside the range of international law, which was adapted to conditions very different from the present."

"Humanizing Warfare."
 "All this must be put right at the next Hague conference. It will be the aim of the conference to make international law as far as possible square with these new facts. More than this one cannot say at the present moment. No one can say what regulations will be drawn up for contraband, blockades, and other matters of this kind, or what code of conduct can be drawn up for combatants in the sphere of warfare, or what can be conceded to neutrals. It is an illusion to believe that war can be waged in gentler fashion. There is only one proposition worth considering, and that is to see that no occasion arises for war. This, however, is not the work of international lawyers, but of politicians and diplomats."

A $500,000 Gift To Users of Fortified Tires

This is an actual gift, as these facts show:
 Nobody asked for better tires than Goodyear built last year. Nobody thought them possible. They were so extra-good that for years they've outsold any other tire.
 And this year—on February 1st—we gave you another big price reduction. It will save Goodyear users about $5,000,000 this year. It was our third reduction in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

This Year's Extras

Yet, despite this reduction, we have added new improvements which will cost us $500,000 this year. Part are in extra rubber—all in extra wear.

We have added these extras to the best tires built. To tires that dominate because of super-service. And we've done it at a time when price reductions have led to considerable skipping.

Total, $1,635,000

All the extras we give you in Goodyear tires will cost us $1,635,000 this year, judged by current output. These include five features which no other maker uses. It includes other uncommon features.

We could omit all these, yet build a tire which looks about like Goodyears. It would serve as well as many rival tires. Thus we could add to this year's profits $1,635,000.

Tires Not Alike

It's a vast mistake to think that tires are pretty near alike. Five of the greatest features known are found in Fortified Tires alone. And many a tire lacks all the extras that we cite.

These extras combat rim-cutting, blowouts, loose treads. They combat punctures and skidding. They mean a secure tire. They mean more rubber, more fact than some. They mean more mileage, less trouble, less expense.

We pay the price to give you these extras, and save it by mammoth output. You should insist on them. Any dealer, if you ask him, will supply you Goodyear tires.

High School Seniors to Meet at Banquet

The senior class of the Central High school will hold the senior banquet at Happy Hollow the evening of June 11. Russell Larson has been chosen toastmaster. The toast list follows:

"To the Fair," Edwin Gould; "As Others See Us," Robert Edwards; "Duty vs. Pleasure," Eugene Simmons; "To the Class of 1915," Edward Perley; "Our Achievements," Paul Plowman; "The Class Play," Helen Shepard; "Memories," Catherine Newbrund; "To the Strong," Geraldine Johnson; "As We See Our School," Martha Noble; "Our Anticipations," Harriet Sherman.

The committee in charge of the banquet is Charles Peterson, Margaret Holman and Victor Graham. One hundred dollars to meet the expense was given from the class play profits, and the remainder will come from special assessments.

Harding Home is Robbed of Jewelry

By unlocking a rear door with a skeleton key, burglars entered the home of L. R. Harding, 1208 North Nineteenth street, Friday night, and carried away a watch and jewelry of the value of $25. None of the members of the family were awakened.

At the home of Mrs. Prisman, 158 North Nineteenth street, burglars cut out the screen and were in the act of forcing a rear door when a son, a night worker, returned and frightened them away. There were two men working together.
