

STRONG CHARGES IN DAMAGE SUIT

Starting Allegations Made in Case of Former Police Officer Against Car Company.

WITNESS IS ASSAULTED TWICE

Charges of contempt of court, physical assault and intimidation of a witness have been made in district court by the street railway company in support of its motion to secure a new trial in the personal injury damage suit in which Alva Jackson secured a verdict of $12,000 in Judge English's district court.

Jackson is a former Omaha police officer, who more than ten years ago was wounded by Pat Crowe in a revolver duel on the streets with the kidnaper of Edward Cuddey. He sued the street railway company for damages, alleging that on July 25, 1913, he sustained an injury to his leg as the result of a car starting up when he was attempting to board it, which necessitated amputation. The case was tried last March.

Witness Assaulted. Affidavits and motions filed by John L. Webster and W. J. Connel, attorneys for the street railway company, contain the following charges and requests for action by the court:

Nels Jensen, who had made a statement that Frank Jackson, the plaintiff's brother, had offered him a bribe to give false testimony, was in an affidavit sworn to by Alva Jackson, the plaintiff, the second time on May 29, at Fifteenth and Chicago streets, when he was knocked unconscious. Street railway attorneys' motion asks Judge English to cite Frank Jackson on a charge of contempt of court growing out of alleged intimidation of a witness.

Affidavits of P. A. Cole and Martin Nelson identify Frank Jensen as the man who assaulted Jensen. Did Not Fall from Car. Statement of Nels Jensen, 505 North Sixteenth street, witness subpoenaed by the plaintiff at the trial, who failed to appear, contains assertions that he was offered $2 by Frank Jackson to testify that he had seen Alva Jackson injured by reason of negligence of the trolley company; that Jensen "did not want to go up and swear to a lie"; that he went to Sioux City to avoid getting Jackson into trouble by his testimony; that he saw Alva Jackson fall at Twenty-eighth and Farnam streets while nowhere near a street car, and that after Jackson left the hospital he said he was "fall in" and that he "was going to get a piece of money from the street railway company."

Paid as Witness. Affidavit of Henry Peasinger asserts that Alva Jackson on September 4, 1913, offered him $50 to be a witness in his suit, although he was out of the city at the time the alleged accident occurred; that Peasinger consented, and that Jackson took him to the office of John A. Moore, his attorney; that Peasinger was paid $5 by Jackson and $5 by Moore for making a statement to the attorney.

Statement of Pat Moore, a companion of Jensen, says that he was asked by Jackson to testify that he had seen the alleged accident as related by Jackson, and that Moore and Jensen did not appear at the trial when subpoenaed because they were friends and former companions of Jackson and didn't want to put Jackson in bad.

Paid for False Statement. Charles McManus in an affidavit swears he was paid $1 by Alva Jackson for going to Attorney Moore's office and giving a false statement that he had seen Jackson injured.

William M. White asserts that he was offered $50 by Alva Jackson to testify in his case, but did not testify because he was not subpoenaed. Attorney W. J. Connel, for the street railway company, in an affidavit in support of his motion for a new trial, charges that the $12,000 verdict secured by Jackson was gained by perjury and subornation of perjury.

Affidavits of Alva Jackson, his attorney and members of his family deny the charges made by other witnesses.

Food Must Be Kept So a Customer May Not Get Nose in It

Before leaving for the east last evening, Health Commissioner Connel left instructions that his inspectors start next week to serve verbal notices on citizens who do not cut weeds. Failure to heed verbal notices will be followed by written notices, and then arrests in aggravated cases. The commissioner declares weeds constitute a "nuisance" under the law.

Inspector McHugh of the health department has received special directions to begin a general inspection of all public eating places. Uncovered dishes of food on counters where no cover is placed in a contaminating position, is to be stopped. All display foods must be under cover and cracked dishes will be condemned.

Pegg Wants Law to Help Him Compel Full Sized Loaves

A conference between Mayor Dahlman and Inspector Pegg of the city weights and measure department resulted in directing the city legal department to draw a new ordinance for the regulation of bread bakers. It is proposed to require that loaves of bread shall be made in sizes of one-quarter, one-half and three-quarters of a pound, one pound, and ten units of pounds for loaves over one pound.

Girls Are Better Writers Than Boys

Superintendent of Writing Savages in the public schools states girls are superior to boys in the art of penmanship. He has made an examination of 15,000 specimens sent in by children in third to eighth grades. Last fall he received similar specimens and his present task is to place 125 two specimens of each child together for comparison. Mr. Savage expects to hold an exhibition of writing specimens next fall.

TRAVELERS ROBBED WHILE THEY SLEEP

Sleepers on Burlington Kansas City Train Lose Their Clothes Through the Window.

SCREEN IS CUT FROM OUTSIDE

A new and unique style of train robbery has been introduced. So far as is known, it was tried out for the first time on the Burlington's Kansas City-Omaha train Friday night and worked to a charm, and without any person being injured or frightened.

C. B. Nolan of the City National Bank building, who asserts and insists that he was not a victim of the new plan of train-robbery, gives the details.

Cut the Screens. Mr. Nolan was at Kansas City and boarded the Burlington's night train for Omaha, reaching here at an early hour in the morning. Somewhere enroute, the sleeper in which he was a passenger was robbed, or at least a number of the passengers were. Sometime during the night and probably when the train was stopping at some lonely station, some party, or parties, passed along the side of the sleeper, cutting the screens over the windows and then reaching in, hauled out coats, trousers, vests and other garments of the men and gowns of the women.

When the passengers awoke this morning, according to Mr. Nolan, there was a great confusion in the sleeper. Men discovered that they were pantsless and coatless and several women found that they were dressless. When account of stock was taken, it was found that a number of watches, a few pocket books and many articles of jewelry had gone with the clothing.

At the first station where the train stopped after the discovery of the robbery, a flood of telegrams started to the folks at home, telling to meet the train at the station with such articles of clothing as might be needed. None of the train men had any idea at what point the robbery occurred and all maintained that nothing of the kind ever occurred before in the history of rail-robbing.

Infant Taken from Bedroom Before the Lightning Strikes

Mrs. Frank Brodli, Jr., left her home with an infant Friday evening, a few minutes before lightning struck the roof of her dwelling, the electricity passing close to a bed where the child had been lying. Mother and child went next door to stay with Mr. Brodli's parents during the storm. Fire Warden Morris happened to be standing on the porch of his home across the street and he states that shingles on the Brodli roof were hurled twenty feet into the air by the force. The damage was nominal.

Liberty Bell to Be in Omaha on July 7

Old Liberty Bell is to reach Omaha on July 7 at 5 o'clock in the morning. It is to be here until 11 o'clock. The city commissioners have appointed a reception committee of three of their number and it is expected that the Board of Education will do the same. The municipal affairs committee of the Commercial club is also to have a delegation of two. Definite plans for the reception are to be made later. The bell will be on its way on a special train to the San Francisco exposition.

Civil War Veteran Honored on Birthday

William H. Stephens, a veteran of the civil war and a pioneer of Omaha, celebrated his seventy-fourth birthday Thursday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. H. Fowler, 208 Ames avenue. The house was decorated in the national colors and flowers and a beautiful bouquet was given to Mr. Stephens by the Grand Army of the Republic circle. About forty guests were present.

HOW TO JUDGE A WOMAN BY HER HAIR

There are always the well-known semi-humorous methods such as saying brunettes are quick tempered or blondes are keener in their mental activity. But there is common sense in just noting whether the hair is well kept and so judging a woman's neatness, or in looking at her style of arranging her hair to decide whether or not she has good taste. Remember that it is not advisable to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes, but always use some good preparation made expressly for shampooing. You can get a package of the best, which is called Canthrox, from your druggist. Dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. After its use the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.
