CARRANZA AT HIS MINIONS' MERCY, HIDES IN DUNGEON

Chiefman May Be Eliminated from Mexican Politics Unless He Yields to Obregon and Other Officers. FOUR CABINET MINISTERS QUIT

Constitutionalist Leaders Take Refuge in San Juan de Uloa in Harbor. VILLA CHIEF DEFILES THE U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—General Venustiano Carranza, original leader of the Mexican constitutionalist movement, is face to face with a situation that may eliminate him as a factor in Mexican politics, unless he yields to the dictation of his commanding general, Alvaro Obregon, and other high officers in his army.

Official advices today revealed that four of Carranza's cabinet ministers had resigned and that General Obregon was insisting on their retention as well as the dismissal of the members to whom they were opposed.

Where He Lost Arm. Obregon recently lost his left arm in a battle near Leon against the forces of General Villa and Angeles.

Just what relation the cabinet dissension at Vera Cruz may have on the possibility of a coalition of the Mexican factions to restore peace is not apparent as yet to officials here.

BRITISH GENERAL PAYS VISIT TO MEN

Sir John French Visits Division on Centennial Anniversary of Waterloo.

SCENE IS AFFECTING ONE (By Frederick Palmer, Correspondent of The Associated Press.) GENERAL HEADQUARTERS OF THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, June 18.—(Via London, June 20.)—On the centennial anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo, Field Marshal Sir John French, the British commander, visited a cavalry division not long out of the trenches.

By brigades those who had survived the shells and asphyxiating gas of the second battle of Ypres were awaiting in a field near their quarters, his coming, their khaki melting into the green of the grass where they lay resting and bathing themselves in the genial sun of a mild June day.

Scene is Affecting. When an automobile appeared with the little British flag which only the commander-in-chief's car flies, they formed a hollow square. The absolute simplicity of this meeting of leader and men and the thought of all they went through, made the scene a most affecting one, the sturdy white haired soldier carrying the customary walking stick, which every British officer affects, with a little blaze of colors of his many campaigns on his breast.

Kaiser Himself in Command of Rush of Austro-German Armies to Secure Last Russ Stronghold in Galicia. IS RUSS SUPREME EMERGENCY

LONDON, June 20.—After seven weeks' huddling across Galicia, during which the Russians have been thrown back more than 150 miles, the Austro-Germans are today as close to Lemberg as were the Germans to Paris after their first dash across France last fall.

Optimists point out that the grand duke checked them almost at the gates of Warsaw, just as General Joffe stopped the Germans before Paris and Field Marshal Sir John French stopped them before Ypres. Durskirk and Calais, Lemberg fall, the Russians can drop back to equally formidable positions, utilizing the rivers and swamps and other advantages of the terrain, and it is the British contention that they could thus hold out for months, England and France in the meantime sending to their aid men and munitions if necessary.

The Day's War News

WITH THE FALL OF GRODEK the Austro-Germans are within seven miles of Lemberg, capital of Galicia. They have captured Komarno, twenty miles south of Lemberg, also, and have crossed the Tanew river. THIS MOVEMENT to the eastward from Presmyl has been a rapid one for large armies, and, although the Russians have been given credit for opposing the advance with strong rear guards, the great masses of their forces have withdrawn, without much fighting, back to what is probably considered their strongest defensive lines, a short distance east of Grodek, where they hold strongly fortified positions on the heights east of the chain of lakes and along the marshes partly enclosing that territory.

ALLIES HOLD BUT 10 SQUARE MILES OF GALLIOLI SOIL

Associated Press Correspondent Spends Days in Turkish Trenches and Finds Defenses Very Strong. INVADERS HAVE A HARD TASK

Their Occupancy of Small Part of Peninsula Coupled with Greatest Difficulties. NIGHT FIGHTING VERY SEVERE

KRITHIA, Dardanelles, June 17.—(Via London, June 20.)—The allied troops, who landed at Seddul Bahr, on the Gallipoli peninsula, hold about ten square miles of the extreme southern part of the peninsula. The occupancy is coupled with the greatest difficulties.

Has Right-of-Way. Weber Pasha, the German general, commanding the south group, gave the correspondent every opportunity to visit the Seddul Bahr district, placing no restrictions whatever upon the correspondent's inspection of the ground. Weber Pasha made no comment on the situation himself, beyond saying that "the failure of the allies to consummate their plan of forcing the Dardanelles is too obvious for discussion."

Insists on Change. WASHINGTON, June 20.—Conditions in the Dardanelles reported in press dispatches today and indicating that Constantinople is in no immediate fear of occupation by the allies created a deep impression in Balkan diplomatic circles here. In this connection unofficial reports from Russia, announcing that a change of the campaign against Constantinople was one of the requirements exacted by Greece for support of the allies were widely commented upon.
