It's Getting So Pa Rourke Can Play a Game Between Showers

OMAHA AND LINKS EACH WIN A GAME

Invaders Hammer North from the Mound in First, but Are Held in Check by Hoffman.

DICK BREEN PLAYS STAR GAME

After being outlucked, outhit and outplayed in the first game of a doubleheader yesterday, the Rourkes returned to their winning stride in the second affray and mauled the Tigers in becoming style. Score, first game, Lincoln, 6; Omaha, 4; second game, Omaha, 4; Lincoln, 2.

Contest No. 1 opened with Lincoln getting three scores on four hits and two errors, while in the second inning the Tigers amassed a like number on the same amount of biffs, including a home run by McIntyre, and a sacrifice fly.

In the third Everdon for Omaha hit one over the right field fence for the circuit, and in the sixth three singles brought the home club still another. Omaha's last scoring was accomplished in round eight, when two more were added to the total on four singles.

Hoffman Does Well.

Hoffman in contest No. 2 pitched in good form, having it on his rival, Morse, in every particular except steadiness, Morse not emitting a single pass, while Hoffman issued three.

Throughout the entire afternoon not a single base was stolen in either game, owing to the excellent backstopping on both sides. In fact, no one came close to stealing, for which fact much credit is due particularly to Krueger of Omaha, who caught the straight eighteen innings.

A feature worthy of particular mention was the work of Shortstop McGaffigan of Lincoln, who accepted thirteen chances during the day in whirlwind fashion, making a cleancut play of every chance. His work was perfect.

Breen Stars for Omaha.

Breen for Omaha more than duplicated this performance by taking eighteen chances without a wobble and besides getting five hits out of nine trips to the plate. In fact, his playing was the big noise of the afternoon.

The second game was cleancut from gong to finale, both sides playing more than exceptional ball. This afternoon another double-header will take place, the first game starting at 2 o'clock. Lincoln will again take the role of the opposition. Score, first game:

JOHN REDICK NEW STATE GOLF CHAMP

Country Club Man Evens Up Old Score by Beating Sam Reynolds for Title, 6 Up and 5.

OTHER FLIGHTS COMPLETED

By playing par golf almost all the way John W. Redick, veteran player of the Country club, defeated Sam V. Reynolds, title holder for the Nebraska state golf championship at the Country club yesterday, 6 up and 5 to go, on the thirty-six holes.

And by defeating the Field club crack Redick evened up an old score. In 1912 Reynolds and Redick met in the final round for the state emblem and that time Reynolds won, 8 up and 7. This time it was the other way round and Redick won by almost as large a score.

From the very start it was evident that Redick was out to win. On the first nine holes played he got the jump on Sam and was leading 2 up. From that time on he was never headed, but kept gradually increasing his lead.

Reynolds starting by taking the first hole, but in order to do so he had to hole in three, one under par. Redick played the second hold in par four and Reynolds halved with him. But on the third Reynolds took a five while Redick holed in par four and the fourth was halved with par five.

Goes Into Lead.

On the fifth hole Redick scored a par five while Reynolds had to be content with a six and from that time on Redick maintained a lead.

He shot the seventh hole in two, one under par, and halved the eighth and ninth with the title holder. Redick's total for the first outside was 36, one under par.

On the inside he turned in a 38, taking three holes of the nine, while Sam took two. This gave Redick three up on Reynolds on the first eighteen holes.

Starting the afternoon round the first hole on the outside was halved and Reynolds picked up one when he made the second hole in par four to Redick's six. But the third hole was halved and Redick won the fourth and fifth by playing both in four. This put Reynolds four down.

Reynolds braced again, took the sixth, halved the seventh and took the eighth, making it but two down. But Redick made it three again by taking the ninth hole with a par three.

Takes Three Straight.

Then Redick took the tenth, eleventh and twelfth and halved the thirteenth, making it his match. He played par golf on all four holes.

Redick played a great game of golf. He played a good, steady, consistent game and he deserved to win. He outplayed Reynolds on Sam's strongest fort, his driving. Both Reynolds and Redick were inclined to miss hard putts at times and both would have turned in bigger scores if luck had at all broken with them when making twelve and fifteen-foot putts.

A large gallery, probably 250 persons, followed the afternoon play, but their presence never bothered Redick for a minute and he played a better game with the gallery following than in the morning when the gallery was but a dozen or so. Reynolds also played a nice game, but it wasn't the equal of Redick's.

The morning card of eighteen holes was as follows:

Redick—Out	4	4	6	5	4	5	5	2	5	3—36
In	4	4	5	5	5	4	4	3	4	—38—74
Reynolds—Out	3	5	6	5	5	6	4	4	5	3—42
In	4	3	6	4	5	5	3	6	4	—40—79

The afternoon card was as follows up to the thirteenth when the match was over:

Redick—Out	5	6	4	4	4	6	3	7	3	—42
In	3	4	4	4
Reynolds—Out	5	4	4	5	5	5	3	6	4	—41
In	4	6	6	4

Beckett Beats Porter.

Guy Beckett of the Field club carried away the directors' cup in the second flight by winning in the finals from Foye Porter, also of the Field club, 4 and 3. Drexel Sibbernsen won the secretary's cup in the third flight by winning from J. K. O'Neill of Miller park, 6 and 5. M. H. La Douceur of the Field club won the consolation event from E. P. Murphy of the Country club, 4 and 2.

Arthur Longworth, Willie Hoare's assistant, won the club-makers' match yesterday morning, turning in a score of 82. Bobby Christie was second with 86 and Stanley Davies third with 93. There has been very little betting on the outcome of the tourney.

SPORTS SECTION of THE OMAHA SUNDAY BEE

OMAHA, SUNDAY MORNING, JULY 11, 1915.

STECHER TELLS OF TRAINING METHODS

But the Interviewer Has to Do All the Talking and Gets Monosyllabic Answers.

SAYS CUPID STUFF IS ROT

A tall, good-looking youth sauntered into the lobby of the Merchants hotel the day after the Stecher-Cutler wrestling match. He wore a blue suit, Panama hat, low collar, low shoes. A smaller man accompanied him. They made straight for the stairs and walked slowly up.

The tall young man seemed bored. He was as calm as a cow in a cornfield. He had a "Ho-hum, life-is-a-weary-grind" expression.

Every man in the lobby turned his head to see this tall, pleasant-looking but awfully bored youth as he went slowly upstairs.

The young fellow was Joe Stecher, who some fifteen hours before had won the world's championship in wrestling.

According to all precedent of sportdom, a man who has suddenly leaped from local admiration to world fame, whose name, strength and skill are the chief topic of interest in sporting circles from New York to Melbourne, should come swaggering into his hotel surrounded by a dozen satellites and with a haughty get-outa-my-way-before-I-smash-you expression.

Should Go in Vaudeville.

After posing for five minutes he should finally deign to speak something thusly: "Easy meat! Easy meat! Why, this Cutler ain't got nothin', not nothin'. I had his number from the first minute. I was playin' with 'im all the time. He's a baby, a baby. That scissors hold of mine, there can't nothin' beat it. I got some propositions to go in vaudeville. New York people offer me $30,000 a week. I may take 'em up."

Joe Stecher is as far from this sort of thing as Christmas from the Fourth of July.

Joe Stecher is the personification of modesty.

He is the quintessence of calmness.

The interviewer followed him up the stairs. He was leaning against the wall, while his brother, the man with him, unlocked the door of their room.

The interviewer approached with the respect due to greatness and politely made the banal inquiry:

"Is this Mr. Stecher?"

"Yes."

Shake Hands with a Champ.

And he grasped a hand of the champion wrestler—or, to speak more exactly, laid his own hand within the enveloping clasp of a gigantic fist.

A naive and boyish grin spread itself over the brown-complexioned face of the big wrestler as he learned that a personal interview was desired.

The interviewer was very polite, oh.
