SEVERAL COUNTIES LAG IN REPORTING

Twenty-Three in Nebraska Have Not Sent in Valuation to the State Board.

GOVERNOR GOING TO ST. JOE

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, July 12.—(Special.)—All counties with the exception of Blaine, Boone, Clay, Dawes, Dodge, Douglas, Furnas, Gage, Garden, Garfield, Greeley, Holt, Keith, Knox, Lancaster, Lincoln, Loup, McPherson, Otoe, Polk, Rock, Saline, Scotts Bluff, Sherman, Wheeler and Arthur have sent in the assessments to the state board of assessment and Secretary Berneker is busy at work preparing the assessments.

These counties should have in their reports not later than July 10, and if they do not appear soon it is up to the secretary of the state board to send a man after the returns, charging the expense to the delinquent county. Generally a few counties delay the word of the board considerably by failure to report and it is probable that some of these twenty-three counties may be back in reporting and necessitate the sending for the returns.

Morehead to St. Joseph. Governor Morehead will go to St. Joseph, Mo., next Saturday, where he will be the guest of the Monroe Democratic club and deliver the principal address at the opening of the new rooms of the club in that city.

Combs had come down the stairs to the first floor, about 1:30 o'clock last night when he was accosted by four men who ordered him to deliver over what cash he had. They did not get much for their trouble, for 35 cents was all the watchman had and he turned this over.

While the doors of the state house are supposed to be locked after 9:30 o'clock, one of the doors can be easily forced because of a defective lock and it is supposed that the men came in through this door.

Too Much Consolidation. State Superintendent Thomas has gone to Chase county where sixteen districts desire to consolidate as one district in a very elaborate organization. The district in which is situated the town of Imperial is objecting because some of the districts lie so close to the town that it is likely to harm the success of the town school. Dr. Thomas will endeavor to pour oil upon the troubled waters in an effort to bring about peace.

When country air alone is not enough—

WHEN evening after evening he comes home to that country life he longed for, only to wake and face the long day's work in a hot office as tired as when he went to bed, many a man has begun to wonder "What can help me?"

And "Sanatogen" is the logical answer. Not only from the 21,000 physicians who have written such enthusiastic letters, but from the multitudes of brain-workers in tropical countries who find in Sanatogen the nourishing help they must have to keep up under the enervating pressure of hot weather.

For after all, health in summer is largely a matter of diet. And Sanatogen, bringing to the nerve cells and tissues—the very foods they must have, and in the purest and most easily assimilable form, restores and revitalizes the whole system. And helping other food digest, it lightens the tax upon stomach and nerves.

It is this two-fold effect of increasing and conserving nerve force that makes Sanatogen so helpful in hot weather. And not until you have felt its splendid vitalizing effects will you begin to know how much Sanatogen can help.

Sanatogen is sold by good druggists everywhere in three sizes, from $1.00 up.

Which Way Will Her Heart Turn?

If "absence makes the heart grow fonder" Elaine must be sorely afflicted in the loss of her Craig Kennedy. But if "out of sight is out of mind," how can Elaine resist the wooing of Marcus del Mar, the handsome, eloquent gentleman who has offered himself as protector?

Will Elaine keep steadfast to her trust and will we at last find her Mrs. Kennedy—the two fond souls communing of a winter's evening in the romantic corner-seat by the fireplace? Or will we come upon such a scene as our artist depicts—where Elaine is surprised with a new love and Craig Kennedy, the old flame, is repulsed?

No one can say. Women's hearts may be true as steel. They may be as loyal as a blind wife. But proximity, the nearness of two beings, is dangerous. Put a man and woman together in the same room, day after day in constant contact, and however formal and constrained they be; however sexless and businesslike be their conversation, there must be a gradual blending of souls, and the two are destined to love or hate. There can be no half way measure. They must be enemies or lovers. They must be direfully opposed and every moment must be dreadful, or they must be bound together—every moment a delight.

And yet, Elaine is even now fighting for Craig Kennedy and—but continue the stories in

Builders of the "Big Ditch"

There has just been issued by the Historical Publishing Company of Washington, D. C., a magnificent illustrated history of the construction and builders of the Panama Canal. The editor of this great history is Mr. Ira E. Bennett, with associate editors, John Hays Hammond, celebrated mining engineer; Capt. Philip Andrews, U. S. N.; Rupert Blue, Surg. Gen. U. S. Public Health Service; J. Hampton Moore, Pres. Atlantic Deeper Waterways Ass'n; Patrick Lennox, B. A., and William J. Showalter.

One of the most interesting portions of the book is that dealing with the feeding of the immense army of laborers. A few paragraphs concerning one of the foods chosen and supplied by the Commissary Department, are quoted (beginning page 428) as follows:

"Visitors to the canal who were privileged to get a glimpse of the routine inner life will recall a familiar picture of workmen going to their places of labor carrying round yellow tins. "Often, as they went, they munched a food poured from the tin into the hand. This food, which played no inconsiderable part in 'building' the canal, was the well-known article of diet, 'GRAPE-NUTS.' "The mention of Grape-Nuts in this connection is peculiarly pertinent. Not merely because Grape-Nuts is a food—for of course proper food was an integral part of the big enterprise—but because it is a cereal food which successfully withstood the effects of a tropical climate. This characteristic of Grape-Nuts was pretty well known and constituted a cogent reason for its selection for use in the Canal Zone. "This food is so thoroughly baked that it keeps almost indefinitely in any climate, as has been demonstrated again and again. "One finds Grape-Nuts on transoceanic steamships, in the islands of the seas, in Alaska, South America, Japan, along the China coast, in Manila, Australia, South Africa, and on highways of travel and the byways of the jungle—in short, wherever minimum of bulk and maximum of nourishment are requisite in food which has to be transported long distances, and often under extreme difficulties. "The very enviable reputation which Grape-Nuts has attained in these respects caused it to be chosen as one of the foods for the Canal Zone."

Grape-Nuts FOOD

—scientifically made of prime wheat and malted barley, contains the entire goodness of the grain, including those priceless mineral elements so essential for active bodies and keen brains, but which are lacking in white flour products and the usual dietary.

There's a reason why Grape-Nuts food was chosen by the Canal Commissariat. There's a reason why Grape-Nuts is a favorite food of hustling people everywhere!
