Nebraska Lincoln Woman Handed a Box of Poisoned Candy

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, July 19.—(Special.)—Chief of Police Antles of Lincoln and his detectives are working on a case of attempted poisoning, which resembles the Omaha case, where Mrs. F. H. Kinney of that city ate several pieces of candy sent her through the mails which contained poison.

Mrs. James Myers of Lincoln was sitting on her porch yesterday afternoon when a boy rode up and handed her a box of chocolates, telling her it was for her use only. She ate three of them and was immediately seized with a severe burning in her throat. A doctor found that the candy had been dipped in strychnine carbolic acid. In order to counteract the smell of the acid, the box of candy had been saturated with a perfume.

DECIDE THRASHER CASE ON TUESDAY

Evidence Taken by Commissioners on Charge of F. J. McGovern Against Officer.

TESTIMONY IS CONTRADICTORY

After hearing much contradictory evidence in connection with charges filed by F. J. McGovern, 5408 Florence boulevard, against Motorcycle Officer Thrasher, the city council announced the case would be decided Tuesday morning at the regular meeting.

In the information of the charges it was alleged the officer was intoxicated, used threatening and abusive language and displayed a revolver in a menacing manner. Mr. Thrasher pleaded not guilty to the specific charges, but admitted that in the excitement he took his revolver out of his pocket in mistake for his club. He admitted he might have made some emphatic reference to a certain sultry abode, but denied he was intoxicated or that he even took a drink on the day in question, which was July 19.

His Bright Lights.

While driving his automobile on the Florence boulevard with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Cameron, Mr. McGovern was stopped by the officer, upon a charge of having bright lights contrary to a city ordinance.

Witnesses for the complainant testified the officer was profuse in the use of oaths and handled Mr. McGovern in a rough manner. On the other hand, the officer and his witnesses testified Mr. McGovern and Mr. Cameron did not show proper respect for the representative of the law and even showed defiance. Mrs. Cameron testified she had her baby in the automobile at the time and was very frightened over the proceedings. Officer Thrasher says he placed his hands on Mr. McGovern only after asking him three times to get out of the car, as he was under arrest.

Take Up New Jitney Ordinance in Week

Florida Visitors Wonder at Hail Here

One hundred and sixty-five people from the Florida Normal Institute spent six hours in Omaha Sunday, 100 of them lunching at the Henshaw and the entire party witnessing the hailstorm just after lunch. Many of the party had never before seen such a phenomenon before and eagerly questioned all with whom they came in contact as to whether or not Omaha was often visited by such storms. The party left Sunday afternoon over the Union Pacific for an extended tour of the west.

HOLD UP NEW ORDINANCE FOR MOVIE OPERATORS

An ordinance for the regulation of moving picture operators will be held up until Commissioner Withnell brings in a more comprehensive ordinance, covering this and other electrical activities. Operators backing this legislation told the city council committee of the whole there are picture machine operators as young as 15 years working in this city. It is proposed to impose a minimum age limit of 21 on this business and to establish a board of five examiners who shall pass on the eligibility of operators.

SAENGERFEST FLAG TRANSFERRED HERE

Historic Banner to Be Brought to Omaha on Special Train from St. Paul.

FLAGS ARE ALREADY FLYING

The ceremonies connected with the transference of the banner of the Saengerbund of the northwest on the first evening of the Saengerfest in the Auditorium were arranged at a luncheon of the Saengerfest association directors yesterday in the Omaha Musik Verein building, Seventeenth and Cass streets. The directors are having these luncheons daily, at which business connected with the coming Saengerfest is transacted.

This handsome and historic banner will be brought to Omaha on the special train by the Concordia Singing society of St. Paul, Minn. The city has already taken on its festive appearance for the great event. Flags and streamers and long strings of electric light give the whole business district a kaleidoscope both by day and by night. All signs point to the greatest of all the saengerfests.

Fruit Growers Are Sending Big Orders to Omaha Boxmakers

The splendid promise of a big apple crop in Nebraska and Iowa is reflected at present in the increased demand for boxes and barrels from the box factories in Omaha. There are three concerns in Omaha that manufacture these supplies, the Omaha Box company, the Acme company and the Omaha cooperage company. All are feeling the effects of increased rush orders for boxes and barrels.

The war indirectly increases the business of the box and barrel factories in Omaha. This is because there is a great amount of exportation of meats from the Omaha packing houses to the warring nations and the box and barrel factories in Omaha are naturally turned to first by the local packers for a supply of boxes and barrels.
