STREHLOW ELECTED SAENGERBUND HEAD

Society Which Completes Successful Festival.

EVENT WINS OUT FINANCIALLY

Saturday was elected president of The policy provided that the incurance at the Omaha Auditorium, the German home in the afternoon, be $10,000. The next saengerfest is to be held at Kansas City two years hence. The exact dates will be arranged by local ception. The women, they declared, were committees at Kansas City.

George Klock of Milwaukee was elected was elected treasurer.

After a brilliantly successful week of the mengerfest the hundreds of Germans spent Saturday afternoon after the parade and the entire evening in festivitles at the German home, 405 South Thirteenth street. Feasting and dancing was the program until the small bours of the morning.

With the close of the saengerfest pro grams the leading singers departed Satturday, together with some of the leading speakers, who had been prominent in the program of the week. Marie Rappold-Berger and Henri Scott, the two leading celebrities of the singing programs, left for San Francisco, where they are to sing during the exposition.

Financially Successful. Although it cost many thousands o dollars to stage the saengerfest, officials say the big project paid out nicely. We are already nicely in the clear. said Leo Hoffman, president and general manager of the Omaha Saengerfest association, which is the organization that handled the local arrangements of the big event. "We do not run this to make lots of money, but we want to come out in the clear, of course. For instance, the mass chorus cost us upwards of $8,000. We paid these singers $2.25 a day. The stars cost up in the neighborhood of $4,000 for the fest." The singers of the mass chorus were checked in and out with the precision and thoroughness characteristic of the German method. A ticket system was used so that there was never any mistake about who appeared for the various concerts. Unless a singer showed up for the rehearsals and all the concerts each day he did not receive his pay.

"Socially and musically it was the grandest success ever," said Mr. Hoffman. "And financially it was as good a success as ever. This is conducted not for profit, but for the love of music and singing."

vast audiences that crowded nightly into the auditorium for the Saengerfest, knew that the moment he got into the door his life was insured. The organization looked after that. Before even the first program was rendered a blanket life and accident insurance policy was taken out Omaha Man President of Singing that might occur in any way in the Auditorium. So unique was this idea in Omaha, that the local office of the insurance company that took the risk had to wire to the head office in the east to learn the rate for such a policy. > What They Think About It. Some of the leading men connected with the Saengerfest or in attendance, had much to say in praise of the week's entertainment. Following are some casual remarks beard:

Hoffman, business manager of the fest-At first we thought business conditions in some sections might work against us, but I am pleased to say it was a great success. The singers and Omaha did their parts well. Everybody seems pleased with the treatment accorded them and I am sure Omaha had a great musical treat.

John Latenser-Of course, to have received the full benefit of the music one should have understood the sentiment of the words, but aside from that the occasion was an extraordinary one and Omaha may feel proud of having held such an important saengerfest. Val J. Peter (Editor of Omaha Tribune

Paul Talbot Would Have Joe Williams Defy Chick Evans

At last a championship golf prospec has been discovered in Omaha. And it took a Kansas City man to discover him. And therein lies a tale, A short time ago Joe Williams traveling passenger agent for the Burlington was in Waterloo, Is, and he met there Paul Talbot of Kansas City. A little golf match was arranged on the nine hole course at Waterloo and Williams took Mr. Talbot into camp,

Talbot was impressed with Williams ability, very much impressed. He could see in the Omaha man a potential national open champion. Immediately he decided that Williams should at least beome amateur western champion. That Chick Evans would be ple for him was s cinch. Talbot was sure of that. So he wrote Williams a letter. In it he asked Williams if it would be presible for him to arrange to go to Waterloo on September 14, on which day Evans is to play in that city. If he could do so Tabot would arrange to challenge Chica and then prepare to take all the credit tor discovering a new amateur champion. Williams, who it might be mentioned in passing, won his first trophy of any kind just a week or two ago, asked the advice of Bill Clark, pro. at the Field club, on the subject. Williams wasn't quick sure he could best Chick, "Oh, well," nonchalantly remarked Clark, "go ahead and accept and if you don't want to play I'll take your place."

Williams has the letter to prove all this, but personal modesty makes him reticent on the subject and the only part of the letter he will divulge to public gaze is the line where a challenge to Chick Evans is mentioned.

In the United States marshal's office there is much uncertaintty. President Roosevelt by his ukase of March 2, 1909, placed these positions as well as that of deputy internal revenue collector under the civil service. But congress later changed them back to the old order.

However, there is a gleam of hope President Wilson in connection with his approval of the act gave out the following statement:

"I am convinced, after a careful examination of the facts, that the office of deputy collector and deputy marshal were never intended to be included under the ordinary provisions of the civil service law. The control of the whole method and spirit of the administration of the provise in this bill which concerns the appointment of these officers is no less entirely in my hands now than it was before the bill became law; my warm advocacy and support both of the principle and of the bona fide practice of civil service reform is snown to the whole country, and there is no danger that the spoils principle will creep in with my approval or connivance, Must Give Reasons.
