A REAL heart throb has just come to light in connection with the recent Saengerfest concert.

During the afternoon musical of the performance Madame Marie Rappold and Madame Clausen were seated back with one of the most active workers in the affair.

The orchestra was intoning an aria from Lohengrin, when suddenly Marie Rappold burst into tears. They were real tears, ones that could unbalance the heart of the most cold. Hoping to appease her, her companions inquired the reason of such grief and she answered:

"You know my husband is at the front, and something tells me that he has been killed. He was an artist of great ability and always sang this aria with much feeling. It was his favorite one and his greatest success."

CROWDED MOVIES MENACE TO PUBLIC

City Commissioners Fear a Catastrophe from Way Twelve of Them Fill Up Aisles.

SAFETY IS UP TO THE POLICE

"At least twelve of the moving picture theaters of this city frequently are crowded in aisles and entrances. We are going to have a catastrophe some of these days," declared Chairman Butler of the city council committee of the whole, during a discussion in connection with two proposed ordinances for the regulation of moving picture operators.

This discussion was incidental to the main question.

"I agree with the chair on this question. These moving picture men will sell all the tickets they can just to get the money. I have been around these places and I know what I am talking about. The conditions are rotten," was a statement by Commissioner Hummel.

Needs More Policemen.

It was agreed that it is up to the police department to regulate these alleged crowded conditions. Commissioner Kugel said he would have to put on fifty more policemen to control the situation.

The commissioner recommended for an ordinance introduced by Commissioner Withnell creating a board of examiners, to consist of the city electrician, chief building inspector and fire warden for examination of picture machine operators. The measure provides that permits shall not be issued to operators less than 21 years of age nor to applicants who have not had at least one year's experience as apprentice under a competent operator.

Mr. Butler's ordinance, which was placed on file, provided that the examining board should comprise two exhibitors, two operators and the city electrician.

There are fifty picture shows now in operation in Greater Omaha.

Misses Eleanor Carpenter and Margaret Wright Return After a Stay in Switzerland.

NO DIFFICULTIES ENROUTE

The last Omahans to return from the war zone are Miss Eleanor Carpenter, daughter of Mrs. J. F. Carpenter, and Miss Margaret Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wright, who returned Sunday from a fourteen months' stay in Switzerland and Germany. They were accompanied by Miss Hiramie Hatfield and Miss Dorothy Pettis of Lincoln, who attended the same school with them at Lucerne.

All the young women expressed great delight at being home once more.

In route home, the young women toured Germany, visiting all the large German cities. "Everywhere we found the most intense activity. Every square yard of earth was producing a crop of something. The government early took charge of the tilling and the work is being carried on with characteristic German thoroughness. Men, women and children are working in the fields," said Miss Carpenter.

French Conditions Bad.

Conditions in France are much worse, according to the young women. Commercial life seems paralyzed and the grain is rotting in the fields for lack of harvesting.

"We were in Karlsruhe a few days after the French aviators had made a raid and bombarded that city with bombs from the sky. The only time during our entire stay in Germany that anything discourteous was said to us was in that city. A nurse in a hospital said something about the bombs being made in America. Other than that incident, we were treated with the utmost respect and consideration."

The young women crossed the Atlantic on the trans-Atlantic liner Chicago, arriving in New York Friday morning, and continuing home the same day. They sailed from Bordeaux July 12 and encountered no difficulties en route.

KUGEL FINDS MOST BONDS WORTHLESS

Has City Abstractor Look Up Standing—But Six of Thirty-Two Are Good.

BRITT PROMISES A CHANGE

Commissioner Kugel has made an investigation which, he claims, shows a lax system in police court regarding the approval of appeal bonds.

The commissioner prepared a list of thirty-two recent appeal bonds and requested City Abstractor Hartley to investigate the sufficiency of each bond. Mr. Hartley reports that in only six cases were the bondsmen legally liable for the amounts of the bonds. The law requires that in the case of a bond for $500, for instance, the bondsmen shall be responsible for the amount, over and above his legal exemptions.

In twenty-six out of the thirty-two cases in question the city abstractor reported the bonds were not worth the paper on which they were written.

Many Bonds Worthless.

"What I am getting after is the easy manner in which some offenders escape through the operation of this farcical system of police court appeal bonds. A man told me his name appeared on at least fifteen of these bonds and he admitted he could not be held liable in any one of the bonds. I was told of a recent case of a confidence man being arrested in Kansas City. He had been arrested here and sentenced, but got off on a worthless appeal bond. When the case was called in district court there was no principal in the case and the bond accepted by the police judge was found to be worthless," declared Mr. Kugel.

Mr. Kugel adds he has convinced Justice Britt, who acts as police judge now and then during the absence of Judge Foster, that the city abstractor should pass upon the liability of all persons signing police court appeal bonds.

Mr. Kugel says he understands there are professional bond furnishers who ply their business in the police court.

ROBS JEWELRY STORE BY ENTERING VIA SKYLIGHT

A resourceful burglar climbed to the roof of the jewelry store of Carl W. Hanson, 230 Leavenworth street, Sunday evening, let himself down through a skylight by means of a rope, stole $400 worth of stock and disappeared without being apprehended.

Col. Welsh Finally Sees Sunshine for a Patient People

A reprieve has been granted Colonel Welsh, local weather maker.

He will not be shot a sunrise.

Wet and soggy, muddy, bedraggled and indignant citizens have decided to let the man live. Mercy is better than vengeance.

The colonel put on his cone-shaped hat, his polka-dotted robe and went through his mystic incantations. Then, for the first time in a month of Sundays, he came out and announced that the weather will be fair.

"Eh-what!" said the waiting people, thinking they had misunderstood.

"I find," began the colonel, "that the areas of high pressure have—"

"Never mind the details," cried impatient Mr. Common People, "what's the prediction?"

"Fair weather," said the colonel.

Recipes for Today

By MRS. SARAH TYSON BOKER.

(All measurements are level.)

Roman Pie.

Line the pie dish with an Italian pie paste. Beat three eggs, without separating, for five minutes, add a half cupful of powdered sugar, beat again for five minutes, add a teaspoonful of vanilla, two tablespoonfuls of cocoa and two-thirds of a cupful of finely chopped nuts. Then sift in carefully, beating all the while, a half cupful of rolled and sifted graham crackers; turn this into the lined pie dish and bake in a moderate oven a half hour. When done and cool tie the top with chocolate icing and garnish with toasted nuts.

Split Pea Souffle.

One cupful of split peas.
Two eggs.
A level teaspoonful of salt.
A teaspoonful of pepper.
Wash the peas, put them into cold water, bring to a boil and drain; throw the water away. Cover again with boiling water and cook slowly until tender; this may be done in the large baking dish in the oven, and will require about one hour's cooking. Drain, press through a sieve, add the yolk of the eggs, the salt and pepper; fold in the well beaten whites, put this in the round or oblong baking dish and bake a half hour in a quick oven. Serve with cream or rice sauce.

Discolored or Spotty Skin Easily Peeled Off

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which most skins are subject at this season, may readily be gotten rid of, if polished with, several light soaps the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peeling off the discolored skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any druggist's. There's no more effective way of banishing tan, freckles or other unsightly defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process itself doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and one soon acquires a brand new, spotless, irresistibly beautiful face.

Wrinkles caused by weather, worry or illness, are best treated by a simple solution of powdered azoicite, 1 oz., dissolved in 4 pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this produces a truly marvellous transformation.—Advertisement.
